“As mental health professionals, we are able to offer our understanding of behavior when it reflects profound impairment. The psychological nature of the president’s impairments is thoroughly revealed in the Mueller report. The report has documented the president as willful, enormously self-absorbed, ruthlessly exploitative, threatened, and delusionally heedless of the consequences of his impulsive actions. His dangerousness constitutes a national crisis.”

Opinions Democrats are complicit if they don't impeach Trump

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early '90s recession.” In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, “You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes” adding, “almost all real estate developers did.” “But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?” Bee asked. “I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump,” she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, ““You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,’ because he was in such extreme debt at that point.” “And that is why it was OK for him to take that man’s change cup,” Bee joked. “Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history.” To the Republican “party of fiscal responsibility,” Bee asked, “Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?” Read more at The Daily Beast.

To those who said it can't happen here, just read these nationalistic, nonsensical pro-Trump comments; it is happening right before our eyes.

Susan Edelman Blank Carol Rzepny yes, Carol, many Germans did not fall in line with the Nazis, many joined the underground, others hid Jews, many tried in small ways to resist, and others kept silent and prayed for deliverance from evil. $21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT. <https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.”~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. Business MarketWatch Man credited with calling the 2008 crisis says the next 20 years in the stock market will 'break a lot of hearts' Jeremy Grantham, an investor credited with predicting the 2000 and 2008 downturns, told CNBC on Thursday that investors should get inured to lackluster returns in the stock market for the next two decades, after a century of handsome gains. "In the last 100 years, we're used to delivering perhaps 6%," but the U.S. market will be delivering real returns of about 2% or 3% on average over next 20 years, the value investor and co-founder of Boston-based asset manager GMO told CNBC in a rare interview. Over the past five years, the S&P 500 index (SPX) has produced a compound annual growth rate of 8.1%, the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) has boasted a CAGR of 9.1%, while the Nasdaq Composite Index (COMP) has registered a compound return of 11.4% over the same period, according to FactSet data.

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, "Uh, yes." She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said, "The obstruction statutes." ...'

Analysis: 43 mind-boggling lines from Donald Trump's Wisconsin campaign rally

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."
This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice]* They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Bartirromo.“This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?” the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. “He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. He and I have been friends for 30 years and probably will be for the next 30 years.”Still, Napolitano characterized Trump’s attack on him as “brilliant.”Also Read: Fox News'

Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian InterferenceThe segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. “We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up,” Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. “And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government."The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure."We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.

writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences,” they write. “Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump’s capacity to prioritize national security.” They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early ‘90s recession.” In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, “You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes” adding, “almost all real estate developers did.” “But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?” Bee asked. “I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump,” she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, ““You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,’ because he was in such extreme debt at that point.” “And that is why it was OK for him to take that man’s change cup,” Bee joked. “Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history.” To the Republican “party of fiscal responsibility,” Bee asked, “Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?” Read more at The Daily Beast.

U.S. Reuters

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don Mcgahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, "Uh, yes." She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said, "The obstruction statutes." ...'

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."

This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been."

For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice] They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations."

Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI)

A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Mueller complained to Barr that summary report mischaracterized his findings: report

Bartiromo. "This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?" the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. "He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. He and I have been friends for 30 years and probably will be for the next 30 years." Still, Napolitano characterized Trump's attack on him as "brilliant." Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian Interference

The segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump

Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. "We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up," Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. "And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government." The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters. White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel. Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure. "We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.]

There was a time in america when successful, talented people desired to serve and give a little back (as they put it) ... followed now by untalented people who have for lack of talent become politicians and literally have been part of the asset/brain drain (without leaving the country) with obvious results; ie., bushes, et als (california's a disaster, etc.)

pelousi/pelosi, feinstein/blum are examples as are the clintons, obamas, bushes, now trumps, et als $22 trillion national debt, etc... well, 'their' money has to come from some place

Prepare for the coverup; because it's so embarrassing for doj, fbi, u.s. govt. et als for prior coverups if not outright complicity including receipt of "consideration" in many different forms. $21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT.

<https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.” ~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

The Mueller Report, Napolitano believes, lays out a number of presidential acts that constitute obstruction of justice including:

- When Trump asked Deputy National Security Adviser KT McFarland to write an untruthful letter to the file, knowing the government would subpoena it.
- When Trump asked Corey Lewandowski to get Mueller fired.
- When Trump asked Don McGahn to get Mueller fired and then to lie about it.
- When Trump asked McGahn to go back to Mueller's team and change his testimony.
- When Trump dangled a pardon in front of Michael Cohen, in order to keep Cohen to testifying against him.

'...Donnie Trump's Attorney General Bill Barr gave his first congressional testimony in the wake of the release of the Mueller report this morning and it revealed why Trump was in panic mode this morning. During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report..... Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don McGahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, 'Uh, yes.' She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said,

The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

He himself told them: “What you are seeing and what you are reading is not what’s happening.”It is important to note that fascism is not a political ideology or strategy but mental pathology at societal scale, starting with an impaired leader who attains power not to lead but to fulfill his own dysfunctional needs. Of course, such a leader is attractive in the first place because of similar pathologies in the population, which global economic inequities and massive social injustices in our day could have predicted. Since such a leader does not have any real ability to lead, he manipulates the psychological weaknesses in the population, augmenting societal disorder until the dynamic brings down the entire society. Destruction is always the inevitable result, as it is the nature of pathology, as opposed to healthy choices.”

Politics The Guardian Bannon described Trump Organization as 'criminal enterprise', Michael Wolff book claims [Because that's what it is!] Former White House adviser says financial investigations will take down president in sequel to Fire and FurySupport the Guardian's independent journalism. Make a contribution today Donald Trump along with his children Eric, Ivanka and Donald Jr arrive for a press conference at Trump Tower in New York in 2017. Photograph: Timothy A Clary/AFP/Getty Images The former White House adviser Steve Bannon has described the Trump Organization as a criminal entity and predicted that investigations into the president's finances will lead to his political downfall, when he is revealed to be "not the billionaire he said he was, just another scumbag". The startling remarks are contained in Siege: Trump Under Fire, the author Michael Wolff's forthcoming account of the second year of the Trump administration. The book, published on 4 June, is a sequel to Fire and Fury: Trump in the White House, which was a bestseller in 2018. The Guardian obtained a copy. In a key passage, Bannon is reported as saying he believes investigations of Donald Trump's financial history will provide proof of the underlying criminality of his eponymous company. Assessing the president's exposure to various investigations, many seeded by the special counsel Robert Mueller during his investigation of Russian election interference, Wolff writes: "Trump was vulnerable because for 40 years he had run what increasingly seemed to resemble a semi-criminal enterprise.” He then quotes Bannon as saying: “I think we can drop the ‘semi’ part.” Bannon, a leading promoter of far-right populism, was a White House adviser until August 2017, when he was removed. He was a major source for Fire and Fury, also first reported by the Guardian. Among other claims in that book, he labelled as “treasonous” an infamous Trump Tower meeting between Donald Trump Jr, Trump’s son-in-law Jared Kushner, campaign manager Paul Manafort and a Russian lawyer. Amid publicity surrounding Fire and Fury, Bannon was ejected from circles close to Trump and his position at Breitbart News. In Siege, Wolff pays close attention to Trump’s financial affairs. Investigations into Trump’s business dealings, spearheaded by the southern district of New York, have shuttered the president’s charity and seen the Trump Organization chief financial officer, Allen Weisselberg, receive immunity for testimony in investigations of Michael Cohen, the former Trump attorney and fixer who is now in jail in New York. This month, the New York Times obtained tax information that showed Trump’s businesses lost more than $1bn from 1985 to 1994. The newspaper subsequently reported that in 2016 and 2017, Deutsche Bank employees flagged concerns over possible money laundering through transactions involving legal entities controlled by the president and Kushner. Some of the transactions involved individuals in Russia. The bank did not act but Congress and New York state are now investigating its relationship with Trump and his family. Deutsche Bank has lent billions to Trump and Kushner companies. Trump has attempted to block House subpoenas for his financial records sent to Deutsche Bank. In Siege, Wolff quotes Bannon saying investigations into Trump’s finances will cut adrift even his most ardent supporters: “This is where it isn’t a witch hunt - even for the hard core, this is where he turns into just a crooked business guy, and one worth $50m instead of $10bn. “Not the billionaire he said he was, just another scumbag.” Wolff also details a 2004 Palm Beach property deal involving the now disgraced financier Jeffrey Epstein and the Putin-friendly oligarch Dmitry Rybolovlev that, the author writes, earned Trump “$55m without putting up a dime”. Epstein, he writes, invited Trump to see a $36m Palm Beach mansion he planned to buy. According to Wolff, Trump went behind Epstein's back to buy the foreclosed property for around $40m, a sum Epstein had reason to believe Trump couldn't raise in his own right, through an entity called Trump Properties LLC, which was entirely financed by Deutsche Bank. Epstein, Wolff writes, knew Trump had been loaning out his name in real estate deals for a fee and suspected that in his case Trump was fronting for the property's real owners. Epstein threatened to expose the deal. As the dispute increased, he found himself under investigation by the Palm Beach police. According to Wolff, Trump made only minor improvements and put the house on the market for $125m. It was purchased for $96m by Rybolovlev, part of a circle of government-aligned industrialists in Russia, thereby earning Trump $55m without risking any of his own money. Wolff presents two theories as to how the deal worked: first, perhaps "Trump merely earned a fee for hiding the real owner - a shadow owner quite possibly being funneled cash by Rybolovlev for other reasons beyond the value of the house". Second, he suggests the real owner of the house and the real buyer were one and the same. "Rybolovlev might have, in effect, paid himself for the house, thereby cleansing the additional $55m for the second purchase of the house." "This," Wolff writes, "was Donald Trump's world of real estate."

Insane' By Andrea Jefferson May 28, 2019 CNN White House correspondent Jim Acosta writes in his upcoming book — a first-hand account on Donald Trump's war with the press titled, Enemy of the People: A Dangerous Time to Tell the Truth in America — that a former White House official suggested staffers were unsure if the president was being controlled by the Kremlin. Acosta, whose book is set to be released on June 11, goes into candid conversations he had over drinks with various figures close to the president. In one example included in The Guardian's preview of the book, Acosta notes that “a former White House national security official” told him that White House staffers questioned if Trump was “compromised” amid the controversy over Russian election interference in the 2016 campaign. Though, the president has since been largely cleared of accusations of Russian collusion after the release of the Mueller report. Acosta also writes about a “senior White House official” personally admitting to him that “the president's insane.”.....’

Opinion: The abdication of King Trump THE ABDICATION OF KING TRUMP

By Ted Gup Updated 3:41 PM ET, Mon May 27, 2019

Ted Gup is an author and writer-in-residence at Durham University in the UK. He has been a contributor to the Washington Post, New York Times, NPR, Slate, The Guardian, National Geographic and other publications.

The opinions expressed in this commentary are solely those of the author. Read more opinion on CNN.

(CNN) In recent weeks, nearly all the talk in Washington centered around impeachment -- would they or wouldn't they? Now the nation faces a new worry -- abdication. That's right, the President who imagines himself a king, and expects others to treat him the same way, has declared that he will have nothing to do with Congress on infrastructure legislation -- perhaps the one area where he could have won bipartisan support -- so long as the Dems insist on holding him accountable. In effect, Donald Trump has announced that he has abdicated, having no longer any wish to serve. Fittingly, the word "abdication" has two meanings. The first applies to when a monarch relinquishes his throne (in Trump's case, not likely); the second, when anyone in a position of authority chooses to neglect or ignore his duties. The latter is what this petulant President has said he will do so long as anyone dares question him. He has announced, in effect, that America now has a government in absentia.

To understand what happened last week, it is best viewed through the lens of medieval times, which is the domain in which our President/king resides. What House Speaker Nancy Pelosi did by accusing him of a cover-up amounted to what monarchs call "Lese Majeste" -- an insult to the sovereign. (For Trump, there is no real issue of constitutionality. The only separation of powers he seems to recognize is that which he has doled out between his advisers, Jared Kushner and Ivanka Trump, and his son Don Jr.)

Which helps explain the calculated and choreographed Rose Garden hissy fit (complete with posters on the podium) and why it is that Trump, who was always accustomed to getting his own way, has done so again. His threat not to deal with Congress so long as it has the temerity to question him, creates for him the ideal scenario: he gets to hold on to the throne without having to govern, which is most likely what he wanted from the beginning. For all his scorn and righteous indignation, he's probably experiencing a measure of relief and even gratitude that the weight of the crown has been at least temporarily lifted.

Comment: Does President Trump want to be impeached? 02:45

After all, he has never had any interest in actually running things and when he did he often ran them into the ground (count the bankruptcies, and now the debacle of US immigration policy). He is the CEO who is averse to managing, the deal-maker extraordinaire who comes away from the negotiating table empty-handed, having offended lifelong allies to the delight of our adversaries; he is the wizard investor who is said to have lost more money over a decade than practically any other American. His competence rests exclusively on his own testimonials. In Texas they call that "all hat and no cattle."

He is about scoring points, nothing more. It is only fitting that he was the host of the TV program "The Apprentice," a show about sycophants vying for his favor. Trump is himself a lifelong apprentice, first desperately vying for the acceptance of his martinet father, and later, the nation. Look at his life -- he is a success at courtship and wooing; fidelity, not so much.

In many ways, his inauguration was the high point of his presidency. What followed was the bewildering realization that something more was expected of him. He is perpetually on the campaign trail in pursuit of validation, and another win.

SE Cupp: Conway crying sexism is her go-to move 02:14

Trump, the consummate dealmaker, can always walk away from the table, not because he is a canny and tough negotiator, but because he does not seem to care what the outcome is or what the ultimate shape of the deal is. He has no true investment in the deal (the well-being of our country and its people), only in his ego -- it is enough that he appears to have won.

His singular talents span the spectrum from bluff to bluster, which work well enough in inherited wealth and reality TV, but less so for those enterprises requiring actual hands-on governance. And is it not the ultimate expression of executive privilege, the right not to behave as an executive at all? He is drawn to the prerogatives of power, and not what that power can do for others.

So in threatening to eschew all manner of presidential engagement, save the pomp and circumstance for which he lives, he has simply shed all pretense and shown his true self. State dinners, motorcades, the pandering of Fox & Friends and endless ego-stroking were all that he ever wanted. Even on the campaign trail, nothing was further from his mind than finding solutions to the nation's problems.

Smerconish: Trump has no strategy other than be provocative 02:45 He has become a case study in the old adage, "be careful what you wish for." One can be forgiven for wondering if it had even occurred to him that certain responsibilities might come along with holding office. How utterly inconvenient for tweeting and tee-off times.

And now we have the worst of all possible worlds: an abdication that leaves some 327 million Americans in limbo.

The problem is that Trump, in his own inimitable way, has created a most imperfect vacuum for the nation. For the foreseeable future the presidency will be both vacant and occupied, with the country reduced to waiting out his tantrum and deciphering its future from a fusillade of tweets and campaign-like rants.

Meanwhile, the nation's bridges are left to crack, highways buckle, tracks heave, illicit drugs proliferate, medications grow ever-more expensive; diplomats scratch their heads and hind parts, idled by kingly disinterest, allies wonder whether we have their backs or should watch their backs, enemies salivate, polar ice caps slip into the sea, and poor, poor Doral Country Club -- under Trump's storied management -- continues, like the rest of us, to struggle.

Stay up to date...

Now, freed of such noisome distractions as legislation, budgets, and infrastructure, he, like a child with a giant LEGO set, can concentrate on trying to build that wall to the south and dispense with pretending to care about the nation or its ills.

Instead of railing against Speaker Pelosi, he should be writing her a thank you note for handing him an excuse, however implausible, allowing him to shed the duties of the presidency. The saddest and most telling of all his pronouncements since entering office was this: "I loved my previous life."

TRUMP'S 'UNHINGED' BEHAVIOR COULD BE DUE TO 'UNTREATED SYPHILIS,' EXPERT CLAIMS https://news.yahoo.com/trump-unhinged-behavior-could-due-160708680.html?soc_src=hl-viewer&soc_trk=fb An expert in infectious diseases has claimed that President Donald Trump's erratic and bizarre behavior, which has led many mental health professionals to express fears that he could be mentally ill, could be part of the symptoms of syphilis, a sexually transmitted disease (STD). The shocking suggestion that Trump could be exhibiting the symptoms of dementia due to syphilis was put forward by Steven Beutler, an expert in infectious diseases, in an article titled, "A Medical Theory For Trump's Bizarre Behavior," published on Friday by the New Republic. "Many mental health professionals believe the president is ill. But what if the cause is an untreated STD?" '...The fact that Trump has shown all the major symptoms of neurosyphilis, including irritability, delusional thinking, grandiosity, and patchy hair loss, provides a basis to fear that he could be in the late stages of neurological illness due to syphilis infection, according to the medical expert...' '... Neurosyphilis is often misdiagnosed because it mimics non-infectious psychiatric illness. And according to Beutler, all of the symptoms of neurosyphilis, including "patchy hair loss," have been observed in Trump. "Commonly recognized symptoms include irritability, loss of ability to concentrate, delusional thinking, and grandiosity. Memory, insight, and judgment can become impaired. Insomnia may occur... Dementia... and patchy hair loss can also be seen in later stages of syphilis." Beutler admitted that it is impossible to determine from a distance that Trump has syphilis. He insisted, however, that part of his training as a medical professional is making "differential diagnosis" based on incomplete information. "Part of my training is to ask the right questions to get a sense of what the problem might be and make a list of possible diagnoses that could explain the problem," he wrote. "This is called the 'differential diagnosis,'" he continued. "From there, additional questions, examinations, and tests are performed that narrow down the list, usually to one unifying diagnosis." ...'

Donald Trump: stable genius

(CNN)If Washington politics were a movie, this week might be the time you turn to your companion and say, "Who writes this stuff?":

A President and "world-class deal maker," marveled Frida Ghitis, who demonstrates with a "temper tantrum," that he can't make deals. Who storms out of meetings with congressional leaders while insisting he's calm (and lines up his top aides to confirm it for the cameras). Who says, "I don't do cover-ups," with his administration on information lockdown -- offering justifications "that wouldn't pass muster in an episode of 'The Simpsons,'" remarked Julian Zelizer.

And who launches into a tirade -- in the middle of an event about aid to farmers -- to say I'm not crazy, she's crazy.

"She" being House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, who offered Trump her thoughts and prayers, and wished aloud that someone would get him an intervention. There was no need, I'm an "extremely stable genius," Trump told reporters, adding that he'll talk to Democrats when they stop investigating him. He's right, suggested Marc Thiessen in the Washington Post: "Nancy Pelosi can't accuse him of engaging in a coverup in the morning and expect him to negotiate with her on a $2 trillion infrastructure package in the afternoon."

By week's end, Trump and supporters were previewing what critics believed his re-election campaign would look like. He retweeted a Fox Business Network video mashup of Pelosi stammering during a news conference on Capitol Hill on Thursday. "It's pathetic," protested SE Cupp, adding "childish" and "impotent." "But it's disgusting and disturbing to watch the president and leader of the free world do it time and time again."

GOP Ex-Lawmaker Demands Impeachment Of Donald Trump, Resignation Of Mike Pence Lee Moran HuffPost•May 24, 2019 Former Rep. Tom Coleman (R-Mo.) has penned a blistering op-ed calling for the impeachment of "illegitimate" President Donald Trump. Coleman, in his piece for The Kansas City Star published Thursday titled "Trump, Pence are illegitimate. Impeach them," argued that if Trump was impeached, then Vice President Mike Pence should resign as otherwise "the lingering stench of corruption" would trail his administration. Special counsel Robert Mueller's report, Coleman wrote, showed Trump and members of his team had "on multiple occasions welcomed Russian interference on his behalf during the 2016 presidential campaign." Therefore, Coleman reasoned, "the president's election victory brought forth nothing less than an illegitimate president." Coleman, who has criticized Trump in the past and opposed his candidacy, was voted out of Congress after 17 years in 1993. He noted in his op-ed that House Democrats were divided over whether to begin impeachment proceedings. But "critical times require exceptional leadership," he wrote, suggesting the "only viable option available" is for the Democratic-controlled House "to open its own investigation, hold public hearings and then determine if they should pursue removal of the president through impeachment." "The public would conclude Democrats are no better than the Republicans who have enabled Trump for the past two years” if they did not move to impeach him, Coleman wrote. He concluded with this warning: It could hand Trump a second term. Failure to pursue impeachment is to condone wrongdoing. To condone wrongdoing is to encourage more of it. To encourage wrongdoing is to give up on the rule of law and our democracy. To give up on the rule of law and democracy invites autocracy and eventually dictatorship. History has taught us this outcome. In my lifetime, it has occurred in other places including the Soviet Union and Germany, as well as in Russia and Venezuela today. Coleman... Continue reading on HuffPost

Dow rises 150 points at start of Friday action but poised for 5th weekly loss in a row ahead of Memorial Day U.S. stocks opened higher on Friday, capping a mostly downbeat week for equities, weighed by U.S.-China trade tensions, which put the three main indexes on track to post consecutive weekly losses heading into the Memorial Day holiday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) rose 150 points, or 0.6%, at 25,651, set for a weekly slump of 1.1% and its fifth straight weekly loss, as of Thursday's close, the S&P 500 index (SPX) rose 17 points, or 0.6%, at 2,839, poised for a 1.3% weekly skid. The main political news for the day centered on apparent softening of trade tensions between the U.S. and China and Theresa May's announced resignation as U.K. prime minister amid her failed attempts at Brexit.

Justice Department reporter for the New York Times, says the report describes behavior that's part of a pattern – Trump has had a long and

Susan Edelman Blank "Kernberg described malignant narcissism as a syndrome characterized by a narcissistic personality disorder (NPD), antisocial features, paranoid traits, and egosyntonic aggression. Other symptoms may include an absence of conscience, a psychological need for power, and a sense of importance (grandiosity)."

Robert Reich The pattern is eerily similar to 2007 and 1928 (remember what happened immediately after those years).

- 1. Price-earnings ratios on the stock market are 28 to one – just what they were in 1928.
- 2. Households are taking on even more debt. Credit card delinquency rates in the first quarter of the year have hit the highest level since 2012, driven partly by a spike in overdue payments by people ages 18–29, according to the New York Federal Reserve. We're also seeing a spike in home refinancings – just as we did in the years leading up to the crash of 2008.
- 3. Another parallel: Corporations are deep in debt. The Federal Reserve warned that corporate America is taking on too much debt. Junk bonds are soaring once again. According to Bloomberg, "deeply indebted companies are borrowing even more to pay equity holders."

Bottom line: Watch your wallets. The years after 1928 and 2007 weren't pretty.

Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve”Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous,” Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller’s report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller’s report provides a disturbing new window into the president’s behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. “The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences,” they write. “Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump’s capacity to prioritize national security.” They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

The party told you to reject the evidence of your eyes and ears. It was their final, most essential command. His heart sank as he thought of the enormous power arrayed against him, the ease with which any Party intellectual would overthrow him in debate, the subtle arguments which have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists

Susan Edelman Blank As a psychotherapist, I read the pro-Trump comments with both fascination and horror as they corroborate the work of Robert Jay Lifton, who coined the term “malignant normality” to describe how so-called ordinary Germans could fall in line with the fascist doctrine of Nazism without blinking an eye. To those who said it can’t happen here, just read these nationalistic, nonsensical pro-Trump comments; it is happening right before our eyes.

Susan Edelman Blank Carol Rzepny yes, Carol, many Germans did not fall in line with the Nazis, many joined the underground, others hid Jews, many tried in small ways to resist, and others kept silent and prayed for deliverance from evil. The psychological makeup of today’s Trump resisters is similar to the psychological makeup of the Nazi resisters of the 30’s and 40’s. I just pray Trump can be stopped.

GOP Rep. Amash becomes first Republican to call for Trump's impeachment

By Eli Watkins and Kevin Bohn, CNN

Updated 7:55 PM ET, Sat May 18, 2019

Washington (CNN) Michigan GOP Rep. Justin Amash said Saturday he had concluded President Donald Trump committed "impeachable conduct" and accused Attorney General William Barr of intentionally misleading the public.

Amash's comments recommending Congress pursue obstruction of justice charges against Trump were the first instance of a sitting Republican in Congress calling for Trump's impeachment.

Justin Amash is the loneliest Republican in Congress

Amash is a rare GOP critic of Trump and previously said Trump's conduct in pressuring then-FBI Director James Comey could merit impeachment. In a Twitter thread on Saturday, Amash said he believed "few members of Congress even read" special counsel Robert Mueller's report and that the report itself established "multiple examples" of Trump committing obstruction of justice.

"Contrary to Barr's portrayal, Mueller's report reveals that President Trump engaged in specific actions and a pattern of behavior that meet the threshold for impeachment," Amash said in a string of messages on Twitter.

- CNN found 77 instances of lies and false assertions in Mueller's report. Trump told the greatest number
- 77 lies and falsehoods Mueller called out
- What Trump associates told the public vs. what they told Mueller
- 4 times Barr twisted and cherry-picked Mueller's report

Democratic Rep. Rashida Tlaib, also of Michigan, responded to Amash's Twitter thread later Saturday and invited him to join her impeachment resolution.

".@justinamash come find me in 1628 Longworth. I've got an impeachment investigation resolution you're going to want to cosponsor," Tlaib tweeted.

Amash -- a libertarian conservative elected during the Tea Party wave of 2010 -- was a founding member of the House Freedom Caucus, a key bloc of Republicans who worked to shift the GOP caucus to the right on many issues, but in the Trump era, he has found himself breaking with his conservative allies who have embraced the President.

Amash said on Saturday that he made his conclusions "only after having read Mueller's redacted report carefully and completely, having read or watched pertinent statements and testimony, and having discussed this matter with my staff, who thoroughly reviewed materials and provided me with further analysis."

He said Barr misled the public in a range of venues regarding the Mueller report, a charge Democrats and others have made repeatedly that the attorney general has disputed.

"Barr's misrepresentations are significant but often subtle, frequently taking the form of sleight-of-hand qualifications or logical fallacies, which he hopes people will not notice," Amash said.

Amash said "contrary to Barr's portrayal," Trump's actions "meet the threshold for impeachment" and that anyone without the unique legal protections of the presidency would be facing an indictment.

He argued that it was Congress' role to move forward with impeachment and accused people on both sides of the aisle of political motives, saying they had shifted "their views 180 degrees ... depending on whether they're discussing (former President) Bill Clinton or Donald Trump."

"Our system of checks and balances relies on each branch's jealously guarding its powers and upholding its duties under our Constitution," Amash tweeted. "When loyalty to a political party or to an individual trumps loyalty to the Constitution, the Rule of Law -- the foundation of liberty -- crumbles."

CNN's Clare Foran and Ashley Killough contributed to this report.

Yale psychiatrist explains how to deprogram Trump supporters who've been sucked into the vortex of his lies

LAS VEGAS NEVADA, DECEMBER 14, 2015: Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump speaks at campaign event at

Even as President Donald Trump is battered by controversies, including a recent report that his self-proclaimed business acumen is largely a sham — he lost money starting in the 1980s — his approval ratings among his supporters remain high.

Raw Story spoke with Dr. Bandy X. Lee, a forensic psychiatrist at Yale School of Medicine, about why Trump supporters are so loyal to the President. She and several co-authors recently submitted an analysis of what the Mueller report revealed about the President’s mental health, covered here and here. Their summary of the report was the number one article in the

Dr. Lee has also been a vocal critic of the American Psychiatric Association’s alteration of the Goldwater rule since the Trump administration, so much so that she held a conference on it in April 2017, inviting the most preeminent psychiatrists in the nation.

Their critique of the altered Goldwater rule led to a book in defiance of the change, which became the New York Times bestseller, “The Dangerous Case of Donald Trump.” Since then, thousands of mental health professionals joined her to form the World Mental Health Coalition (dangerouscase.org), intended as an alternative to the American Psychiatric Association, and named her president.

Raw Story: If you had the chance to speak with Trump supporters, what would you say to them?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: I am already in contact with many, and have worked with, shared meals with, and “hung out” with several while working in Alabama. Contrary to the stereotype, they are often some of the most humane and most innocent people I have met, which is why they trusted so easily.

It is heartbreaking to consider how they have been exploited—over the years by a politics that retains power not by serving them but through psychological manipulation, and now through a predatory president.

I would say to them, it has become time to ask ourselves: do we have the self-respect to demand a leader who is even capable of leading? Our recent test on his capacity was intended as a service to the public, based on the rigorous information in Robert Mueller's report: he failed on every criterion. We also just learned of the president's spectacular business failures during the years he flaunted himself as being the biggest success, while he lost more than any other American on record.

It is difficult to make this shift, especially when we have invested so much, but after a while, it takes less energy to change than to continue making excuses to protect "our guy."

Policy-wise, he is hurting his everyday supporters the most (not the billionaire supporters). If we stopped to think for a moment—doesn't it bother us that he deceived us into believing he was a successful businessman, the only qualification he brought for being a successful politician, when all he did was go to his father when in trouble? Doesn't it disturb us that he so lies, cheats, and defrauds the public, that it is safer to assume that every word out of his mouth is the opposite of what is true? Should we tolerate a president whom more than 800 former federal prosecutors, of both parties, would call a criminal?

Raw Story: Is there anything you would advise them to do?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: The transition will be gradual and painful, but the moment they realize they hold the power and do not have to submit to a strong authority to be safe, they won't be so easily fooled any more. This is all understandable; working in the criminal justice system, I know how good serial predators can be—they can create powerful emotional bonds.

This is what they thrive on.

I rather hold responsible the institutions that propped him up for their short-term profits, and the American Psychiatric Association is chief among them. Given that the insidious effects of mental pathology defined this whole presidency, the Association was in a unique position to prevent vast suffering. Psychiatrists understand not just mental illness but criminal behavior, violence, capacity to serve in an office, and many other things. By aggressively shaping a milieu where mental health professionals would not be able to share their knowledge as a national mental health crisis was unfolding, the Association instead primed the public to become the president's prey.

Raw Story: Those are strong words. How do you make that claim?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: The public has a right to know what the American Psychiatric Association has done. Imagine if a high official contracted Ebola. One would not think twice about deferring to doctors about proper management. The doctors do not make political decisions but medical ones, and based on recommendations, political bodies would coordinate. The important, immediate issue at hand is to contain the disease and spread of harm.

I have described the current president's condition as worse than Ebola—and yet, imagine if the Ebola doctors were prohibited from even uttering a word of caution, for fear of upsetting the high official, and leaving the disease to its natural course. By propagating popular misconceptions that mental health issues are somehow different than other health issues, that it is imaginary or subjective—or worse, just an insult—the APA has effectively stigmatized the entire field of mental health. By allowing a serious condition to continue without even educating the public, it has allowed pathology to spread unchecked.

Raw Story: Why did you decide to boycott the very symposium you helped to organize at the American Psychiatric Association?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: I have lost faith in the Association's ability to have an honest discussion. Psychiatrists were never supposed to be beholden to public figures—our primary responsibilities are to patients and to society. The actual Goldwater rule says this: work to improve the community and public health, and when asked about a public figure, educate the public—just don't diagnose.

Instead, the APA expanded the “don’t diagnose” part out of proportion to silence an entire profession and to change public expectations. Its timing and aggressive public relations campaign make clear that it intended to protect Donald Trump, not ethics.

That said, I should clarify that the leadership did this by fiat, against member protests. We are now in a constitutional crisis, about to enter catastrophic wars, and economic breakdown is looming—all in ways that were wholly predictable from having a mentally unstable president.

Science now shows that even diagnosis does not require a personal interview. By distorting ethics and falsely intimidating experts, it deprived the public of critical knowledge at a critical time. Edmund Burke said, “All tyranny needs to gain a foothold is for people of good conscience to remain silent.” And what better way to serve tyranny than to institutionalize this silence?

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

$21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT. <https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.*~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early '90s recession." In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, "You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes" adding, "almost all real estate developers did." "But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?" Bee asked. "I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump," she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, "'You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,' because he was in such extreme debt at that point." "And that is why it was OK for him to take that man's change cup," Bee joked. "Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history." To the Republican "party of fiscal responsibility," Bee asked, "Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?" Read more at The Daily Beast.

Donald J. Trump was propelled to the presidency, in part, by a self-spun narrative of business success and of setbacks triumphantly overcome.

But 10 years of tax information, from 1985 to 1994, obtained by The Times paints a far bleaker picture of his financial condition. Read our exclusive report.

$21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT. <https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.”~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

The federal government will still have to pay more interest on its debt too, meaning they'll have to borrow more just to pay that interest back. This creates a downward spiral that puts incredible pressure on interest rates to keep rising. And even if Powell and the Fed don't want to raise them, they might have to.

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don Mcgahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, "Uh, yes." She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said, "The obstruction statutes." ...'

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."
This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice]* They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations." Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

"Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Of the 69 percent of owners who had started preparing for a recession, only 19 percent had opened a line of credit, a figure that Bank of America's head of small business Sharon Miller said was too low.

Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. “We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up,” Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. “And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government."The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure."We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.

Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016

presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump

is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of

of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences,” they write. “Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump’s capacity to prioritize national security.” They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early ‘90s recession.” In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, “You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes” adding, “almost all real estate developers did.” “But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?” Bee asked. “I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump,” she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, ““You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,’ because he was in such extreme debt at that point.” “And that is why it was OK for him to take that man’s change cup,” Bee joked. “Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history.” To the Republican “party of fiscal responsibility,” Bee asked, “Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?” Read more at The Daily Beast.

Business MarketWatch Man credited with calling the 2008 crisis says the next 20 years in the stock market will 'break a lot of hearts' Jeremy Grantham, an investor credited with predicting the 2000 and 2008 downturns, told CNBC on Thursday that investors should get inured to lackluster returns in the stock market for the next two decades, after a century of handsome gains. "In the last 100 years, we're used to delivering perhaps 6%," but the U.S. market will be delivering real returns of about 2% or 3% on average over next 20 years, the value investor and co-founder of Boston-based asset manager GMO told CNBC in a rare interview. Cramer breaks down why you should prepare for more market pullback

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

' ...Donnie Trump's Attorney General Bill Barr gave his first congressional testimony in the wake of the release of the Mueller report this morning and it revealed why Trump was in panic mode this morning. During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don Mcgahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, "Uh, yes." She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said, "The obstruction statutes." ...'

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."

This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been."

For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations."

Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI)

A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Mueller complained to Barr that summary report mischaracterized his findings: report

Bartiromo. "This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?" the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. "He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. He and I have been friends for 30 years and probably will be for the next 30 years." Still, Napolitano characterized Trump's attack on him as "brilliant." Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian Interference

The segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump

Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. "We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up," Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. "And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government." The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters. White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel. Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure. "We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.]

But standing together, we can stop the Trump agenda and work towards a brighter future for America. Can you contribute $5 to take back the House this fall? (It'll be Triple-Matched).

Albert, we MUST win the House in November.

We've got tremendous momentum already. Every day, more people join our movement to fight back against the intolerance, discrimination, and injustice of the Trump Administration.

It's crucial that we keep it up through Election Day.

2018 is our chance to put our grassroots energy to the test. It's our chance to reclaim the House and restore the people's voice in our politics.

$21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT.

<https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.” ~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

Susan Edelman Blank As a psychotherapist, I read the pro-Trump comments with both fascination and horror as they corroborate the work of Robert Jay Lifton, who coined the term “malignant normality” to describe how so-called ordinary Germans could fall in line with the fascist doctrine of Nazism without blinking an eye. To those who said it can't happen here, just read these nationalistic, nonsensical pro-Trump comments; it is happening right before our eyes.

Susan Edelman Blank Carol Rzepny yes, Carol, many Germans did not fall in line with the Nazis, many joined the underground, others hid Jews, many tried in small ways to resist, and others kept silent and prayed for deliverance from evil. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

4-22-19 Update: Politics USA TODAY Opinion I've warned that impeachment talk is dangerous, but the time has come: Laurence Tribe The consequential decision to impeach should not be made lightly. But Mueller's damning report is an invitation that Congress shouldn't refuse. [Laurence Tribe knows something about constitutional law. For corrupt greedy senile guinea pelosi it should be his way or the highway!] ... Even the most pragmatic legal practitioners tip their hats in respect for the otherwise esoteric 'Laurence Tribe' (ie., those law school/paper chase days)

'Obstruction of justice-the statute making obstruction criminal-prohibits interfering, or attempting to interfere, with a criminal prosecution or an investigation the government's conducting' Napolitano said. The Mueller Report, Napolitano believes, lays out a number of presidential acts that constitute obstruction of justice including:

- When Trump asked Deputy National Security Adviser KT McFarland to write an untruthful letter to the file, knowing the government would subpoena it.
- When Trump asked Corey Lewandowski to get Mueller fired.
- When Trump asked Don McGahn to get Mueller fired and then to lie about it.
- When Trump asked McGahn to go back to Mueller's team and change his testimony.
- When Trump dangled a pardon in front of Michael Cohen, in order to keep Cohen to testifying against him.

'...Donnie Trump's Attorney General Bill Barr gave his first congressional testimony in the wake of the release of the Mueller report this morning and it revealed why Trump was in panic mode this morning. During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report..... Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don McGahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, 'Uh, yes.' She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said,

'THE OBSTRUCTION STATUTES' .

Dow rises 150 points at start of Friday action but poised for 5th weekly loss in a row ahead of Memorial Day U.S. stocks opened higher on Friday, capping a mostly downbeat week for equities, weighed by U.S.-China trade tensions, which put the three main indexes on track to post consecutive weekly losses heading into the Memorial Day holiday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) rose 150 points, or 0.6%, at 25,651, set for a weekly slump of 1.1% and its fifth straight weekly loss, as of Thursday's close, the S&P 500 index (SPX) rose 17 points, or 0.6%, at 2,839, poised for a 1.3% weekly skid. The main political news for the day centered on apparent softening of trade tensions between the U.S. and China and Theresa May's announced resignation as U.K. prime minister amid her failed attempts at Brexit.

ALA. LAWMAKER CAUSES UPROAR WITH TRUMP JR. SLUR The Alabama House abruptly adjourned after one policymaker demanded the censure of another over comments that included slurring the president's son.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — ‘Alabama lawmakers abruptly adjourned after one lawmaker called for the censure of another over comments that included calling the president's son "evidently retarded." Republican Rep. Arnold Mooney of Shelby County on Wednesday went to the House microphone to read a letter seeking censure of Rep. John Rogers, a Democrat. Mooney said Rogers brought "shame" on Alabama with comments he made after debate on a proposed abortion ban. Robert Reich The pattern is eerily similar to 2007 and 1928 (remember what happened immediately after those years).

- 1. Price-earnings ratios on the stock market are 28 to one – just what they were in 1928.
- 2. Households are taking on even more debt. Credit card delinquency rates in the first quarter of the year have hit the highest level since 2012, driven partly by a spike in overdue payments by people ages 18–29, according to the New York Federal Reserve. We're also seeing a spike in home refinancings – just as we did in the years leading up to the crash of 2008.
- 3. Another parallel: Corporations are deep in debt. The Federal Reserve warned that corporate America is taking on too much debt. Junk bonds are soaring once again. According to Bloomberg, "deeply indebted companies are borrowing even more to pay equity holders."

Bottom line: Watch your wallets. The years after 1928 and 2007 weren't pretty.

Jim Rogers Warns: 'Worst Bear Market' Is Coming Posted by Eugene Townes | May 14, 2019 | Markets On a recent call with ETMarkets.com, no-nonsense economic guru Jim Rogers restated his concern that a bear market was on the way, and investors should be on the lookout for small signs to avoid another crisis like 2008. Although Rogers could not give a timeline for the bear market to arrive, he did say that it will be the “worst in my lifetime,” a prediction he's stuck by for a while now, and the key to spotting a market correction lies within smaller markets.

Susan Edelman Blank As a psychotherapist, I read the pro-Trump comments with both fascination and horror as they corroborate the work of Robert Jay Lifton, who coined the term “malignant normality” to describe how so-called ordinary Germans could fall in line with the fascist doctrine of Nazism without blinking an eye. To those who said it can’t happen here, just read these nationalistic, nonsensical pro-Trump comments; it is happening right before our eyes.

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve “Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous,” Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve”Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous,” Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller’s report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller’s report provides a disturbing new window into the president’s behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. “The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences,” they write. “Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump’s capacity to prioritize national security.” They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

4-22-19 Update: Politics USA TODAY Opinion I've warned that impeachment talk is dangerous, but the time has come: Laurence Tribe The consequential decision to impeach should not be made lightly. But

Mueller's damning report is an invitation that Congress shouldn't refuse. [Laurence Tribe knows something about constitutional law. For corrupt greedy senile guinea Pelosi it should be his way or the highway!] ... Even the most pragmatic legal practitioners tip their hats in respect for the otherwise esoteric 'Laurence Tribe' (ie., those law school/paper chase days)

'Obstruction of justice-the statute making obstruction criminal-prohibits interfering, or attempting to interfere, with a criminal prosecution or an investigation the government's conducting' Napolitano said. The Mueller Report, Napolitano believes, lays out a number of presidential acts that constitute obstruction of justice including:

- When Trump asked Deputy National Security Adviser KT McFarland to write an untruthful letter to the file, knowing the government would subpoena it.
- When Trump asked Corey Lewandowski to get Mueller fired.
- When Trump asked Don McGahn to get Mueller fired and then to lie about it.
- When Trump asked McGahn to go back to Mueller's team and change his testimony.
- When Trump dangled a pardon in front of Michael Cohen, in order to keep Cohen to testifying against him.

'...Donnie Trump's Attorney General Bill Barr gave his first congressional testimony in the wake of the release of the Mueller report this morning and it revealed why Trump was in panic mode this morning. During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report..... Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don McGahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, 'Uh, yes.' She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said,

The party told you to reject the evidence of your eyes and ears. It was their final, most essential command. His heart sank as he thought of the enormous power arrayed against him, the ease with which any Party intellectual would overthrow him in debate, the subtle arguments which he would not be able to understand, much less answer. And yet he was in the right! They were wrong and he was right.

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Susan Edelman Blank As a psychotherapist, I read the pro-Trump comments with both fascination and horror as they corroborate the work of Robert Jay Lifton, who coined the term “malignant normality” to describe how so-called ordinary Germans could fall in line with the fascist doctrine of Nazism without blinking an eye. To those who said it can’t happen here, just read these nationalistic, nonsensical pro-Trump comments; it is happening right before our eyes.

Susan Edelman Blank Carol Rzepny yes, Carol, many Germans did not fall in line with the Nazis, many joined the underground, others hid Jews, many tried in small ways to resist, and others kept silent and prayed for deliverance from evil. The psychological makeup of today’s Trump resisters is similar to the psychological makeup of the Nazi resisters of the 30’s and 40’s. I just pray Trump can be stopped.

GOP Rep. Amash becomes first Republican to call for Trump's impeachment

By Eli Watkins and Kevin Bohn, CNN

Updated 7:55 PM ET, Sat May 18, 2019

Washington (CNN) Michigan GOP Rep. Justin Amash said Saturday he had concluded President Donald Trump committed "impeachable conduct" and accused Attorney General William Barr of intentionally misleading the public.

Amash's comments recommending Congress pursue obstruction of justice charges against Trump were the first instance of a sitting Republican in Congress calling for Trump's impeachment.

Justin Amash is the loneliest Republican in Congress

Amash is a rare GOP critic of Trump and previously said Trump's conduct in pressuring then-FBI Director James Comey could merit impeachment. In a Twitter thread on Saturday, Amash said he believed "few members of Congress even read" special counsel Robert Mueller's report and that the report itself established "multiple examples" of Trump committing obstruction of justice.

"Contrary to Barr's portrayal, Mueller's report reveals that President Trump engaged in specific actions and a pattern of behavior that meet the threshold for impeachment," Amash said in a string of messages on Twitter.

- CNN found 77 instances of lies and false assertions in Mueller's report. Trump told the greatest number
- 77 lies and falsehoods Mueller called out
- What Trump associates told the public vs. what they told Mueller
- 4 times Barr twisted and cherry-picked Mueller's report

Democratic Rep. Rashida Tlaib, also of Michigan, responded to Amash's Twitter thread later Saturday and invited him to join her impeachment resolution.

".@justinamash come find me in 1628 Longworth. I've got an impeachment investigation resolution you're going to want to cosponsor," Tlaib tweeted.

Amash -- a libertarian conservative elected during the Tea Party wave of 2010 -- was a founding member of the House Freedom Caucus, a key bloc of Republicans who worked to shift the GOP caucus to the right on many issues, but in the Trump era, he has found himself breaking with his conservative allies who have embraced the President.

Amash said on Saturday that he made his conclusions "only after having read Mueller's redacted report carefully and completely, having read or watched pertinent statements and testimony, and having discussed this matter with my staff, who thoroughly reviewed materials and provided me with further analysis."

He said Barr misled the public in a range of venues regarding the Mueller report, a charge Democrats and others have made repeatedly that the attorney general has disputed.

"Barr's misrepresentations are significant but often subtle, frequently taking the form of sleight-of-hand qualifications or logical fallacies, which he hopes people will not notice," Amash said.

Amash said "contrary to Barr's portrayal," Trump's actions "meet the threshold for impeachment" and that anyone without the unique legal protections of the presidency would be facing an indictment.

He argued that it was Congress' role to move forward with impeachment and accused people on both sides of the aisle of political motives, saying they had shifted "their views 180 degrees ... depending on whether they're discussing (former President) Bill Clinton or Donald Trump."

"Our system of checks and balances relies on each branch's jealously guarding its powers and upholding its duties under our Constitution," Amash tweeted. "When loyalty to a political party or to an individual trumps loyalty to the Constitution, the Rule of Law -- the foundation of liberty -- crumbles."

CNN's Clare Foran and Ashley Killough contributed to this report.

Yale psychiatrist explains how to deprogram Trump supporters who've been sucked into the vortex of his lies

Even as President Donald Trump is battered by controversies, including a recent report that his self-proclaimed business acumen is largely a sham — he lost money starting in the 1980s — his approval ratings among his supporters remain high.

Raw Story spoke with Dr. Bandy X. Lee, a forensic psychiatrist at Yale School of Medicine, about why Trump supporters are so loyal to the President. She and several co-authors recently submitted an analysis of what the Mueller report revealed about the President’s mental health, covered here and here. Their summary of the report was the number one article in the

Dr. Lee has also been a vocal critic of the American Psychiatric Association’s alteration of the Goldwater rule since the Trump administration, so much so that she held a conference on it in April 2017, inviting the most preeminent psychiatrists in the nation.

Their critique of the altered Goldwater rule led to a book in defiance of the change, which became the New York Times bestseller, “The Dangerous Case of Donald Trump.” Since then, thousands of mental health professionals joined her to form the World Mental Health Coalition (dangerouscase.org), intended as an alternative to the American Psychiatric Association, and named her president.

Raw Story: If you had the chance to speak with Trump supporters, what would you say to them?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: I am already in contact with many, and have worked with, shared meals with, and “hung out” with several while working in Alabama. Contrary to the stereotype, they are often some of the most humane and most innocent people I have met, which is why they trusted so easily.

It is heartbreaking to consider how they have been exploited—over the years by a politics that retains power not by serving them but through psychological manipulation, and now through a predatory president.

I would say to them, it has become time to ask ourselves: do we have the self-respect to demand a leader who is even capable of leading? Our recent test on his capacity was intended as a service to the public, based on the rigorous information in Robert Mueller's report: he failed on every criterion. We also just learned of the president's spectacular business failures during the years he flaunted himself as being the biggest success, while he lost more than any other American on record.

It is difficult to make this shift, especially when we have invested so much, but after a while, it takes less energy to change than to continue making excuses to protect "our guy."

Policy-wise, he is hurting his everyday supporters the most (not the billionaire supporters). If we stopped to think for a moment—doesn't it bother us that he deceived us into believing he was a successful businessman, the only qualification he brought for being a successful politician, when all he did was go to his father when in trouble? Doesn't it disturb us that he so lies, cheats, and defrauds the public, that it is safer to assume that every word out of his mouth is the opposite of what is true? Should we tolerate a president whom more than 800 former federal prosecutors, of both parties, would call a criminal?

Raw Story: Is there anything you would advise them to do?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: The transition will be gradual and painful, but the moment they realize they hold the power and do not have to submit to a strong authority to be safe, they won't be so easily fooled any more. This is all understandable; working in the criminal justice system, I know how good serial predators can be—they can create powerful emotional bonds.

This is what they thrive on.

I rather hold responsible the institutions that propped him up for their short-term profits, and the American Psychiatric Association is chief among them. Given that the insidious effects of mental pathology defined this whole presidency, the Association was in a unique position to prevent vast suffering. Psychiatrists understand not just mental illness but criminal behavior, violence, capacity to serve in an office, and many other things. By aggressively shaping a milieu where mental health professionals would not be able to share their knowledge as a national mental health crisis was unfolding, the Association instead primed the public to become the president's prey.

Raw Story: Those are strong words. How do you make that claim?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: The public has a right to know what the American Psychiatric Association has done. Imagine if a high official contracted Ebola. One would not think twice about deferring to doctors about proper management. The doctors do not make political decisions but medical ones, and based on recommendations, political bodies would coordinate. The important, immediate issue at hand is to contain the disease and spread of harm.

I have described the current president's condition as worse than Ebola—and yet, imagine if the Ebola doctors were prohibited from even uttering a word of caution, for fear of upsetting the high official, and leaving the disease to its natural course. By propagating popular misconceptions that mental health issues are somehow different than other health issues, that it is imaginary or subjective—or worse, just an insult—the APA has effectively stigmatized the entire field of mental health. By allowing a serious condition to continue without even educating the public, it has allowed pathology to spread unchecked.

Raw Story: Why did you decide to boycott the very symposium you helped to organize at the American Psychiatric Association?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: I have lost faith in the Association's ability to have an honest discussion. Psychiatrists were never supposed to be beholden to public figures—our primary responsibilities are to patients and to society. The actual Goldwater rule says this: work to improve the community and public health, and when asked about a public figure, educate the public—just don't diagnose.

Instead, the APA expanded the “don’t diagnose” part out of proportion to silence an entire profession and to change public expectations. Its timing and aggressive public relations campaign make clear that it intended to protect Donald Trump, not ethics.

That said, I should clarify that the leadership did this by fiat, against member protests. We are now in a constitutional crisis, about to enter catastrophic wars, and economic breakdown is looming—all in ways that were wholly predictable from having a mentally unstable president.

Science now shows that even diagnosis does not require a personal interview. By distorting ethics and falsely intimidating experts, it deprived the public of critical knowledge at a critical time. Edmund Burke said, “All tyranny needs to gain a foothold is for people of good conscience to remain silent.” And what better way to serve tyranny than to institutionalize this silence?

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

The tech-heavy Nasdaq Composite saw steeper losses, as semiconductor stocks are caught in the trade crossfire. It was a bloodbath for U.S. markets on Monday, as China's retaliatory tariffs ramped up investors' worries that the trade war is not going away soon.

$21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT. <https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

"No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time. ~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early '90s recession.” In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, “You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes” adding, “almost all real estate developers did.” “But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?” Bee asked. “I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump,” she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, ““You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,’ because he was in such extreme debt at that point.” “And that is why it was OK for him to take that man’s change cup,” Bee joked. “Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history.” To the Republican “party of fiscal responsibility,” Bee asked, “Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?” Read more at The Daily Beast.

Susan Edelman Blank Carol Rzepny yes, Carol, many Germans did not fall in line with the Nazis, many joined the underground, others hid Jews, many tried in small ways to resist, and others kept silent and prayed for deliverance from evil. Yet, amazingly, many somewhat masochistically, ie., lindsey graham, ted cruz, among many others evincing mental illness to complement, enable, and facilitate trump's derangement while also revealing how such as hitler came to fruition. Pelosi herself has likened trump to mussolini while former wife Ivana documented trump's fanatical obsession with hitler's orations, speeches. Quite extraordinarily interesting on more levels than can be rationally explained!

$21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT. <https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.”~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."
This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice]* They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations." Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian InterferenceThe segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Trump has made 10,000 untrue claims as president, factcheckers say Donald Trump has made more than 10,000 false or misleading claims since he became president in January 2017, according to a count by factcheckers at the Washington Post. Trump's strike rate of “alternative facts” – a phrase made infamous by senior adviser Kellyanne Conway – has increased rapidly in recent months, the paper said on Monday. The distinct worsening of the problem coincided with the publication of special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian election interference, a partial government shutdown over border wall funding and a series of freewheeling campaign rallies during the midterm elections.

Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. “We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up,” Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. “And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government."The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure."We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.

Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee

writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences,” they write. “Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump’s capacity to prioritize national security.” They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early ‘90s recession.” In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, “You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes” adding, “almost all real estate developers did.” “But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?” Bee asked. “I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump,” she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, ““You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,’ because he was in such extreme debt at that point.” “And that is why it was OK for him to take that man’s change cup,” Bee joked. “Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history.” To the Republican “party of fiscal responsibility,” Bee asked, “Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?” Read more at The Daily Beast.

One of the reasons why the economic collapse of the U.S. is inevitable is because we are in way too much debt. The 22 trillion dollar debt that the federal government has accumulated gets most of the attention, but the truth is that we would still be 50 trillion dollars in debt even if the national debt was eliminated somehow.

The federal government will still have to pay more interest on its debt too, meaning they'll have to borrow more just to pay that interest back. This creates a downward spiral that puts incredible pressure on interest rates to keep rising. And even if Powell and the Fed don't want to raise them, they might have to.

U.S. Reuters

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

' ...Donnie Trump's Attorney General Bill Barr gave his first congressional testimony in the wake of the release of the Mueller report this morning and it revealed why Trump was in panic mode this morning. During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don Mcgahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, "Uh, yes." She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said, "The obstruction statutes." ...'

Analysis: 43 mind-boggling lines from Donald Trump's Wisconsin campaign rally

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."

This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been."

For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice] They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations."

Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI)

A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Bartiromo. "This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?" the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. "He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. The segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump

Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. "We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up," Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. "And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government." The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters. White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel. Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure. "We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, Trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.]

Donald Trump's divisive agenda is threatening health care, immigration, voting rights, and campaign finance reform. But standing together, we can stop the Trump agenda and work towards a brighter future for America. Can you contribute $5 to take back the House this fall? (It'll be Triple-Matched).

Albert, we MUST win the House in November.

We've got tremendous momentum already. Every day, more people join our movement to fight back against the intolerance, discrimination, and injustice of the Trump Administration.

It's crucial that we keep it up through Election Day.

2018 is our chance to put our grassroots energy to the test. It's our chance to reclaim the House and restore the people's voice in our politics.

$21 TRILLION DOLLARS IS MISSING FROM THE US GOVERNMENT.

<https://missingmoney.solari.com> <https://home.solari.com> $21 Trillion dollars is missing from the US government. That is $65,000 per person - as much as the national debt!

“No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.” ~ Article I, Section 9, Clause 7, U.S. Constitution

What's going on? Where is the money? How could this happen? How much has really gone missing? What would happen if a corporation failed to pass an audit like this? Or a taxpayer? This means the Fed and their member banks are transacting government money outside the law. So are the corporate contractors that run the payment systems. So are the Wall Street firms who are selling government securities without full disclosure. Would your banks continue to handle your bank account if you behaved like this? Would your investors continue to buy your securities if you behaved like this? Would your accountant be silent? This is the reason that there is such a strong push to change or tear up the US Constitution. This is why members of the establishment say it is "old," "outdated!" This is why there is such a push for gun control. Don't buy it! We can use the Constitution to get our money and our government back. It is time to enforce the US Constitution. The Solari Report has been covering the missing money since 2000 when Catherine Austin Fitts began to warn Americans and global investors about mortgage fraud at the US Department of Housing and Development (HUD), the engineering of the housing bubble that led to trillions more dollars in bailouts and funds missing from the US government starting in fiscal 1998.

4-22-19 Update: Politics USA TODAY Opinion I've warned that impeachment talk is dangerous, but the time has come: Laurence Tribe
The consequential decision to impeach should not be made lightly. But

Mueller's damning report is an invitation that Congress shouldn't refuse. [Laurence Tribe knows something about constitutional law. For corrupt greedy senile guinea Pelosi it should be his way or the highway!] ... Even the most pragmatic legal practitioners tip their hats in respect for the otherwise esoteric 'Laurence Tribe' (ie., those law school/paper chase days)

'Obstruction of justice-the statute making obstruction criminal-prohibits interfering, or attempting to interfere, with a criminal prosecution or an investigation the government's conducting' Napolitano said. The Mueller Report, Napolitano believes, lays out a number of presidential acts that constitute obstruction of justice including:

- When Trump asked Deputy National Security Adviser KT McFarland to write an untruthful letter to the file, knowing the government would subpoena it.
- When Trump asked Corey Lewandowski to get Mueller fired.
- When Trump asked Don McGahn to get Mueller fired and then to lie about it.
- When Trump asked McGahn to go back to Mueller's team and change his testimony.
- When Trump dangled a pardon in front of Michael Cohen, in order to keep Cohen to testifying against him.

'...Donnie Trump's Attorney General Bill Barr gave his first congressional testimony in the wake of the release of the Mueller report this morning and it revealed why Trump was in panic mode this morning. During her line of questioning, Senator Dianne Feinstein, ranking Democratic judiciary committee member, managed to get Barr to reveal the exact law Trump broke per the evidence in Mueller's report..... Feinstein simply described the evidence in Mueller's report that details Trump's efforts to get White House counsel Don McGahn to lie about Trump ordering him to fire Mueller. Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, 'Uh, yes.' She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said,

'THE OBSTRUCTION STATUTES' .

Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

The party told you to reject the evidence of your eyes and ears. It was their final, most essential command. His heart sank as he thought of the enormous power arrayed against him, the ease with which any Party intellectual would overthrow him in debate, the subtle arguments which he would not be able to understand, much less answer. And yet he was in the right! They were wrong and he was right.

Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Susan Edelman Blank As a psychotherapist, I read the pro-Trump comments with both fascination and horror as they corroborate the work of Robert Jay Lifton, who coined the term “malignant normality” to describe how so-called ordinary Germans could fall in line with the fascist doctrine of Nazism without blinking an eye. To those who said it can’t happen here, just read these nationalistic, nonsensical pro-Trump comments; it is happening right before our eyes.

Susan Edelman Blank Carol Rzepny yes, Carol, many Germans did not fall in line with the Nazis, many joined the underground, others hid Jews, many tried in small ways to resist, and others kept silent and prayed for deliverance from evil. The psychological makeup of today’s Trump resisters is similar to the psychological makeup of the Nazi resisters of the 30’s and 40’s. I just pray Trump can be stopped.

GOP Rep. Amash becomes first Republican to call for Trump's impeachment

By Eli Watkins and Kevin Bohn, CNN

Updated 7:55 PM ET, Sat May 18, 2019

Washington (CNN) Michigan GOP Rep. Justin Amash said Saturday he had concluded President Donald Trump committed "impeachable conduct" and accused Attorney General William Barr of intentionally misleading the public.

Amash's comments recommending Congress pursue obstruction of justice charges against Trump were the first instance of a sitting Republican in Congress calling for Trump's impeachment.

Justin Amash is the loneliest Republican in Congress

Amash is a rare GOP critic of Trump and previously said Trump's conduct in pressuring then-FBI Director James Comey could merit impeachment. In a Twitter thread on Saturday, Amash said he believed "few members of Congress even read" special counsel Robert Mueller's report and that the report itself established "multiple examples" of Trump committing obstruction of justice.

"Contrary to Barr's portrayal, Mueller's report reveals that President Trump engaged in specific actions and a pattern of behavior that meet the threshold for impeachment," Amash said in a string of messages on Twitter.

- 77 lies and falsehoods Mueller called out
- What Trump associates told the public vs. what they told Mueller
- 4 times Barr twisted and cherry-picked Mueller's report

Democratic Rep. Rashida Tlaib, also of Michigan, responded to Amash's Twitter thread later Saturday and invited him to join her impeachment resolution.

".@justinamash come find me in 1628 Longworth. I've got an impeachment investigation resolution you're going to want to cosponsor," Tlaib tweeted.

Amash -- a libertarian conservative elected during the Tea Party wave of 2010 -- was a founding member of the House Freedom Caucus, a key bloc of Republicans who worked to shift the GOP caucus to the right on many issues, but in the Trump era, he has found himself breaking with his conservative allies who have embraced the President.

Amash said on Saturday that he made his conclusions "only after having read Mueller's redacted report carefully and completely, having read or watched pertinent statements and testimony, and having discussed this matter with my staff, who thoroughly reviewed materials and provided me with further analysis."

He said Barr misled the public in a range of venues regarding the Mueller report, a charge Democrats and others have made repeatedly that the attorney general has disputed.

"Barr's misrepresentations are significant but often subtle, frequently taking the form of sleight-of-hand qualifications or logical fallacies, which he hopes people will not notice," Amash said.

Amash said "contrary to Barr's portrayal," Trump's actions "meet the threshold for impeachment" and that anyone without the unique legal protections of the presidency would be facing an indictment.

He argued that it was Congress' role to move forward with impeachment and accused people on both sides of the aisle of political motives, saying they had shifted "their views 180 degrees ... depending on whether they're discussing (former President) Bill Clinton or Donald Trump."

"Our system of checks and balances relies on each branch's jealously guarding its powers and upholding its duties under our Constitution," Amash tweeted. "When loyalty to a political party or to an individual trumps loyalty to the Constitution, the Rule of Law -- the foundation of liberty -- crumbles."

CNN's Clare Foran and Ashley Killough contributed to this report.

Yale psychiatrist explains how to deprogram Trump supporters who've been sucked into the vortex of his lies

Even as President Donald Trump is battered by controversies, including a recent report that his self-proclaimed business acumen is largely a sham — he lost money starting in the 1980s — his approval ratings among his supporters remain high.

Raw Story spoke with Dr. Bandy X. Lee, a forensic psychiatrist at Yale School of Medicine, about why Trump supporters are so loyal to the President. She and several co-authors recently submitted an analysis of what the Mueller report revealed about the President’s mental health, covered here and here. Their summary of the report was the number one article in the

Dr. Lee has also been a vocal critic of the American Psychiatric Association’s alteration of the Goldwater rule since the Trump administration, so much so that she held a conference on it in April 2017, inviting the most preeminent psychiatrists in the nation.

Their critique of the altered Goldwater rule led to a book in defiance of the change, which became the New York Times bestseller, “The Dangerous Case of Donald Trump.” Since then, thousands of mental health professionals joined her to form the World Mental Health Coalition (dangerouscase.org), intended as an alternative to the American Psychiatric Association, and named her president.

Raw Story: If you had the chance to speak with Trump supporters, what would you say to them?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: I am already in contact with many, and have worked with, shared meals with, and “hung out” with several while working in Alabama. Contrary to the stereotype, they are often some of the most humane and most innocent people I have met, which is why they trusted so easily.

It is heartbreaking to consider how they have been exploited—over the years by a politics that retains power not by serving them but through psychological manipulation, and now through a predatory president.

I would say to them, it has become time to ask ourselves: do we have the self-respect to demand a leader who is even capable of leading? Our recent test on his capacity was intended as a service to the public, based on the rigorous information in Robert Mueller's report: he failed on every criterion. We also just learned of the president's spectacular business failures during the years he flaunted himself as being the biggest success, while he lost more than any other American on record.

It is difficult to make this shift, especially when we have invested so much, but after a while, it takes less energy to change than to continue making excuses to protect "our guy."

Policy-wise, he is hurting his everyday supporters the most (not the billionaire supporters). If we stopped to think for a moment—doesn't it bother us that he deceived us into believing he was a successful businessman, the only qualification he brought for being a successful politician, when all he did was go to his father when in trouble? Doesn't it disturb us that he so lies, cheats, and defrauds the public, that it is safer to assume that every word out of his mouth is the opposite of what is true? Should we tolerate a president whom more than 800 former federal prosecutors, of both parties, would call a criminal?

Raw Story: Is there anything you would advise them to do?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: The transition will be gradual and painful, but the moment they realize they hold the power and do not have to submit to a strong authority to be safe, they won't be so easily fooled any more. This is all understandable; working in the criminal justice system, I know how good serial predators can be—they can create powerful emotional bonds.

This is what they thrive on.

I rather hold responsible the institutions that propped him up for their short-term profits, and the American Psychiatric Association is chief among them. Given that the insidious effects of mental pathology defined this whole presidency, the Association was in a unique position to prevent vast suffering. Psychiatrists understand not just mental illness but criminal behavior, violence, capacity to serve in an office, and many other things. By aggressively shaping a milieu where mental health professionals would not be able to share their knowledge as a national mental health crisis was unfolding, the Association instead primed the public to become the president's prey.

Raw Story: Those are strong words. How do you make that claim?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: The public has a right to know what the American Psychiatric Association has done. Imagine if a high official contracted Ebola. One would not think twice about deferring to doctors about proper management. The doctors do not make political decisions but medical ones, and based on recommendations, political bodies would coordinate. The important, immediate issue at hand is to contain the disease and spread of harm.

I have described the current president's condition as worse than Ebola—and yet, imagine if the Ebola doctors were prohibited from even uttering a word of caution, for fear of upsetting the high official, and leaving the disease to its natural course. By propagating popular misconceptions that mental health issues are somehow different than other health issues, that it is imaginary or subjective—or worse, just an insult—the APA has effectively stigmatized the entire field of mental health. By allowing a serious condition to continue without even educating the public, it has allowed pathology to spread unchecked.

Raw Story: Why did you decide to boycott the very symposium you helped to organize at the American Psychiatric Association?

Dr. Bandy X. Lee: I have lost faith in the Association's ability to have an honest discussion. Psychiatrists were never supposed to be beholden to public figures—our primary responsibilities are to patients and to society. The actual Goldwater rule says this: work to improve the community and public health, and when asked about a public figure, educate the public—just don't diagnose.

Instead, the APA expanded the “don’t diagnose” part out of proportion to silence an entire profession and to change public expectations. Its timing and aggressive public relations campaign make clear that it intended to protect Donald Trump, not ethics.

That said, I should clarify that the leadership did this by fiat, against member protests. We are now in a constitutional crisis, about to enter catastrophic wars, and economic breakdown is looming—all in ways that were wholly predictable from having a mentally unstable president.

Science now shows that even diagnosis does not require a personal interview. By distorting ethics and falsely intimidating experts, it deprived the public of critical knowledge at a critical time. Edmund Burke said, “All tyranny needs to gain a foothold is for people of good conscience to remain silent.” And what better way to serve tyranny than to institutionalize this silence?

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Opinions Democrats are complicit if they don't impeach Trump

Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve "Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of Yale, Dr. Leonard L. Glass of Harvard Medical School, and Edwin B. Fisher of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences," they write. "Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump's capacity to prioritize national security." They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early '90s recession." In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, "You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes" adding, "almost all real estate developers did." "But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?" Bee asked. "I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump," she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, "'You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,' because he was in such extreme debt at that point." "And that is why it was OK for him to take that man's change cup," Bee joked. "Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history." To the Republican "party of fiscal responsibility," Bee asked, "Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?" Read more at The Daily Beast.

“Socialism is a scare word they have hurled at every advance the people have made in the last 20 years.

Socialism is what they called public power.

Socialism is what they called Social Security.

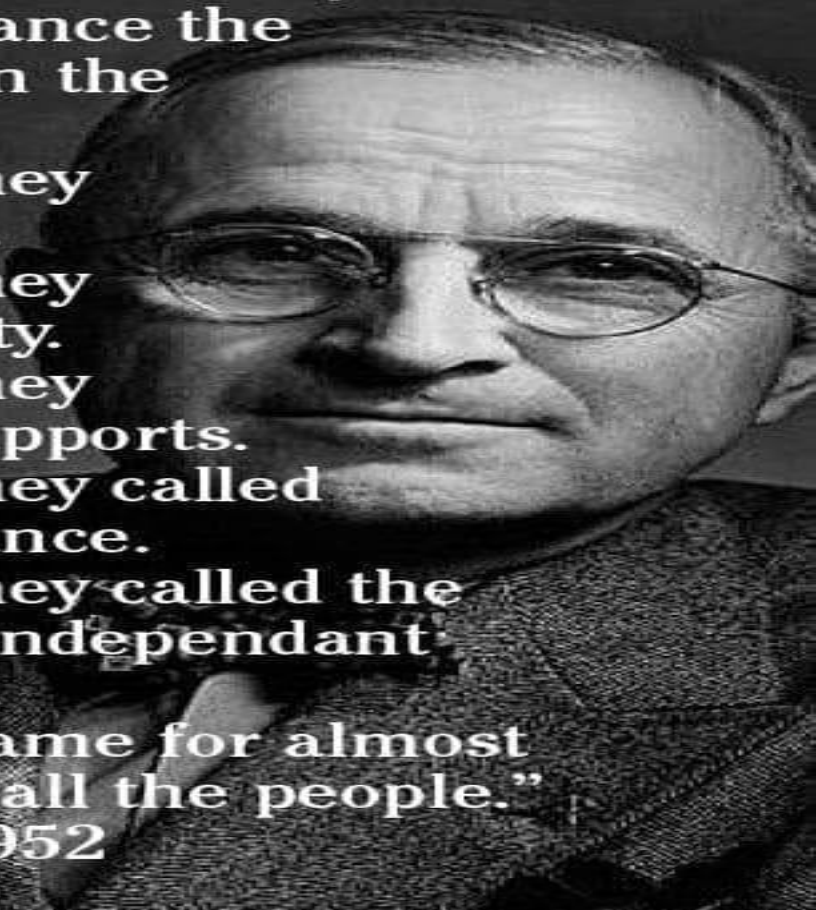

Socialism is what they called farm price supports.

Socialism is what they called bank deposit insurance.

Socialism is what they called the growth of free and independent labor organizations.

Socialism is their name for almost anything that helps all the people.”

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."
This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice]* They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations." Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Bartirromo.“This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?” the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. “He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. He and I have been friends for 30 years and probably will be for the next 30 years.”Still, Napolitano characterized Trump’s attack on him as “brilliant.”Also Read: Fox News'

Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian InterferenceThe segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. “We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up,” Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. “And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government."The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure."We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" writes Psychiatrists warn the Mueller report provides more evidence

Donald Trump is mentally unfit to serve"Such a mindset of false beliefs in freedom from consequences is extremely dangerous," Bandy X. Lee

writes This article originally appeared on Raw Story Three psychiatrists

have written an editorial for the Boston Globe warning that special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016

presidential election shows more evidence that President Donald Trump

is mentally unfit to hold office. The psychiatrists — Dr. Bandy X. Lee of

of University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill — argue that Mueller's report provides a disturbing new window into the president's behavior, which is frequently marked by impulsive emotional meltdowns. "The pattern that emerges of the president is one of rash, short-sighted decision-making, without consideration of consequences,” they write. “Reckless, impulsive moves that are self-destructive, despite the intention of self-protection, are characteristic of dangerous impairment. They impede Trump’s capacity to prioritize national security.” They then quote from sections of the Mueller report that illustrate these behaviors, including his efforts to dangle pardons to potential witnesses and his effort to get Mueller fired as special counsel. They say that his ordering former White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller should be seen as especially alarming given how inherently self-destructive it was.

Politics Reuters Trump has asserted executive privilege over entire Mueller report: Justice Dept official

Politics The Daily Beast Samantha Bee Mocks Trump's Billion Dollar Loss: 'The Best at Being Terrible' While President Donald Trump “claims to be the best business boy,” Samantha Bee told viewers Wednesday night that he’s really just the “best at being terrible.” The Full Frontal host was referring to the revelations from this week’s New York Times report that showed Trump lost more than a billion dollars between 1985 and 1994. As The Daily Beast’s David Cay Johnston explained on MSNBC, in one of those years Trump accounted for two cents of every dollar lost in the entire American economy. “I used to think Donald Trump’s fortunes took a dip in the early ‘90s recession,” Bee said. “Now I think maybe he was the early ‘90s recession.” In response to the report, Trump has said that he intentionally lost the money, tweeting, “You always wanted to show losses for tax purposes” adding, “almost all real estate developers did.” “But was Trump really just pretending to lose all that money?” Bee asked. “I call as my next witness, Ivanka Trump,” she said, adding a comical gasp that hinted at her complicated past with the first daughter. The host cut to a clip from the 2003 documentary Born Rich in which Ivanka tells a story about her father pointing out a homeless man outside Trump Tower and saying, ““You know, that guy has 8 billion dollars more than me,’ because he was in such extreme debt at that point.” “And that is why it was OK for him to take that man’s change cup,” Bee joked. “Look, the only thing that Donald Trump really had going for him as a candidate was that he was supposed to be a great businessman. Now we know that not only is he a bad businessman, he is one of the worst in American history.” To the Republican “party of fiscal responsibility,” Bee asked, “Are you really going to choose this money pit over the Constitution?” Read more at The Daily Beast.

The U.S. State Department allowed at least seven foreign governments to rent luxury condominiums in New York's Trump World Tower in 2017 without approval from Congress, according to documents and people familiar with the leases, a potential violation of the U.S. Constitution's emoluments clause. The 90-story Manhattan building, part of the real estate empire of Donald Trump, had housed diplomats and foreign officials before the property developer became president. The rental transactions, dating from the early months of Trump's presidency and first revealed by Reuters, could add to mounting scrutiny of his business dealings with foreign governments, which are now the subject of multiple lawsuits.

Feinstein then asked if it is illegal to try and get a witness to lie (duh), to which Barr answered, "Uh, yes." She then asked him to cite the exact law, to which Barr said, "The obstruction statutes." ...'

Analysis: 43 mind-boggling lines from Donald Trump's Wisconsin campaign rally

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."

This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been."

For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice] They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations."

Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI)

A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Mueller complained to Barr that summary report mischaracterized his findings: report

Bartiromo. "This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?" the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. "He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. He and I have been friends for 30 years and probably will be for the next 30 years." Still, Napolitano characterized Trump's attack on him as "brilliant." Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian Interference

The segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump

Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Business Reuters U.S. small business owners are preparing for a recession - Bank of America survey Small business owners around the country are preparing for a recession, according to a new survey by Bank of America Corp, and the bank wants to put more business specialists in branches to help, an executive told Reuters. More than two-thirds of business owners surveyed by the bank said they had taken steps to prepare for an economic downturn, including setting cash aside or planning to reduce expenses. Of the 69 percent of owners who had started preparing for a recession, only 19 percent had opened a line of credit, a figure that Bank of America's head of small business Sharon Miller said was too low.

Trump has made 10,000 untrue claims as president, factcheckers say Donald Trump has made more than 10,000 false or misleading claims since he became president in January 2017, according to a count by factcheckers at the Washington Post. Trump's strike rate of “alternative facts” – a phrase made infamous by senior adviser Kellyanne Conway – has increased rapidly in recent months, the paper said on Monday. The distinct worsening of the problem coincided with the publication of special counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian election interference, a partial government shutdown over border wall funding and a series of freewheeling campaign rallies during the midterm elections.

Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. "We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up," Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. "And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government." The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters. White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel. Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure. "We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.]

TRUMP DID ASK BARR TO INVESTIGATE In one of the most damning and memorable exchanges of William Barr's testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday, Sen. Kamala Harris (D-Calif.) asked the attorney general whether President Donald Trump has suggested that he investigate anyone. Barr, fumbling over his words, claimed that he did not know. As it turns out, Trump has publicly called on the Department of Justice, since Barr took control, to open an investigation into his former political opponent Hillary Clinton and also a potential future opponent: former Vice President Joe Biden.

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."
This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice]* They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations." Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

"Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. “We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up,” Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. “And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government."The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure."We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.

The federal government will still have to pay more interest on its debt too, meaning they'll have to borrow more just to pay that interest back. This creates a downward spiral that puts incredible pressure on interest rates to keep rising. And even if Powell and the Fed don't want to raise them, they might have to.

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

In each episode of his weekly YouTube show, Chris Cillizza will delve a little deeper into the surreal world of politics. Click to subscribe!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true."
This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."

So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."

This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"

I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."

Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."

Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Bigly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none." I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

35. "To confront the border crisis, I declared a national emergency. The good news is everybody agrees."

[narrator voice]* They don't.

36. "They are aggressively pushing extreme late-term abortion, allowing children to be ripped from their mother's womb."

Totally and completely false.

37. "The baby is born. The mother meets with the doctor. They take care of the baby. They wrap the baby beautifully. And then the doctor and the mother determine whether or not they will execute the baby."

Dangerously inaccurate.

38. "We've got a lot of young people out there. You want to know the truth? I actually think we have more than they do."

Hillary Clinton won voters aged 18-29 by 19 points in 2016.

39. "We're very close, $300 million for the Great Lakes Restoration Initiatives."

False!

40. "You know, a lot of times, if you're not going to brag about it, nobody else is, you might as well do it. True."

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations." Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

42. "With every last ounce of heart and hope and sweat, and so we are going to make our stand."

Speaking of making stands: Why the hell did Jon Snow approve a battle plan where he marched his forces outside of the walls of Winterfell to battle the army of the dead? Like, why not hang out inside the walls? Am I the only one who thinks this?

43. "Together with the great and proud people of Wisconsin, we will make America wealthy again."

[emoji with cash coming out of mouth] This feels like a good place to end.

Trump slams leaders of 'Dues Sucking firefighters' union after Biden endorsement [trump is so sick, so mentally ill! The question is, who has their backs? Only those as crazy as trump would say trump!]

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian InterferenceThe segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. "We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up," Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. "And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government." The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters. White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel. Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure. "We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.

Key takeaways from Barr's testimony

Analysis The attorney general testified about his handling of the 448-page Mueller report in front of the Senate Judiciary Committee. These were some of the biggest revelations.

(CNN) In the wake of a bombshell revelation that special counsel Robert Mueller took issue with the way William Barr described his Russia probe's findings, the attorney general came to Capitol Hill to testify about his handling of the 448-page Mueller report in front of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

I am watching it live and offering key takeaways from the hearing in real time. They're below.

1. Lindsey Graham shows his pro-Trump colors

Graham, the chairman of the Judiciary committee, has stood out over the first two-plus years of Donald Trump's time in the White House for his drastic about-face on the President. The South Carolina senator went from calling Trump a "kook" who was unfit for office during the 2016 GOP primary to being one of the President's biggest advocates and allies in Congress.

Dive deep into the Mueller report

- Read and search the full report
- CNN found 77 instances of lies and false assertions in Mueller's report. Trump told the greatest number
- 77 lies and falsehoods Mueller called out

• What Trump associates told the public vs. what they told Mueller

• 4 times Barr twisted and cherry-picked Mueller's report

Graham kept up his pro-Trump work during his opening statement on Wednesday. He incorrectly said that Mueller asked Barr to make a conclusion about whether or not Trump had obstructed justice in his actions related to the special counsel probe; Mueller did not do that at all -- simply not making a recommendation of his own about Trump and obstruction, noting that the Office of Legal Counsel made clear a sitting president could not be charged. Then Graham turned to a favorite subject of the President: The text messages -- badmouthing Trump -- between then-FBI official Peter Strzok and Lisa Page during the 2016 election. Graham promised an investigation into those text messages as well as into the origins of the FBI's counter-intelligence probe -- up to and including questions about the FISA warrant granted the FBI to surveil Carter Page. As many people on Twitter quickly noted, if name-calling Trump during the 2016 election was a crime, then Graham himself would be in jail right now.

One example from February 2016: "Donald Trump is not a conservative Republican. He's an opportunist. He's not fit to be President of the United States."

2. Barr tries to (re)explain what he was doing with four-page letter

Now that we know that Mueller took issue with the way that Barr described the report in his summary letter on March 24, the AG sought to re-classify what he meant to do with the letter. He compared it to offering a verdict in a trial, with the transcript of the proceedings (the Mueller report) to come out later. Barr said that public interest was such -- and the stakes were so high -- that he felt the need to offer the summary or verdict immediately after receiving the report.

To hear Barr tell it then, what happened with his letter was all a big misunderstanding. ("We were not trying to summarize the report," Barr told the Judiciary committee on Wednesday.) It was never meant to fully categorize the nature of Mueller's investigations, according to Barr; that misunderstanding is why Mueller wasn't thrilled with Barr's letter.

3. Barr blames the media for Mueller's reaction to his letter

Asked what, specifically, Mueller took issue with in his four-page summary letter, Barr said that the special counsel was unhappy with the description of obstruction as it relates to the President; "The press was reading too much into it," Barr said of what he took from the phone conversation with Mueller on March 28.

But that's not at all what Mueller said in the March 27 letter to Barr, which was released Wednesday morning. There's no mention of the media in that letter. In fact, Mueller seems to directly criticize Barr's handling of the letter. Wrote Mueller:

"The summary letter the Department sent to Congress and released to the public late in the afternoon of March 24 did not fully capture the context, nature, and substance of this office's work and conclusions," Mueller wrote. "There is now public confusion about critical aspects of the results of our investigation."

4. The difference between "firing" and "removal for conflict"

Barr tried to thread a very narrow needle in explaining why President Trump telling then White House counsel Don McGahn to get rid of Mueller was not obstruction of justice. Barr claimed that Trump never told McGahn to "fire" Mueller but rather to remove him from his position due to alleged conflicts of interest. The difference, according to Barr? Firing Mueller would eliminate the special counsel while removing Mueller for cause would ensure a new individual would be named to carry on the special counsel investigation. Therefore, no obstruction. That's slicing the onion very, very thinly.

One more thing: In May 2017, the Department of Justice made clear that Mueller had no ethical conflicts and was perfectly capable of overseeing the special counsel investigation. A month later, Trump told McGahn to remove Mueller for conflicts of interest. So, how did Trump not already know that the DOJ had said no such conflicts existed?

5. Barr has "questions" about the origins of the FBI counterintelligence probe

If you blinked, you might have missed this exchange between Graham and Barr:

GRAHAM: "Do you share my concerns about the counterintelligence probe and how it was started?"

BARR: "Yes."

Big deal. Barr's agreement with Graham means that the attorney general is now at odds with both the FBI and the Mueller report, which made clear that the counterintelligence probe began after the Australians approached the US -- following the release on WikiLeaks of hacked emails from the Democratic National Committee -- to tell them that a one-time Trump aide named George Papadopoulos had told an Australian diplomat that the Russians had dirt on Hillary Clinton.

Barr's statement on Wednesday puts him -- or at least potentially puts him -- much more in line with Trump, who has repeatedly claimed that the counterintelligence investigation was based on an opposition research document put together by former British spy Christopher Steele.

(Steele's work was paid for, at times, by the DNC and the Clinton campaign.)

6. Barr won't be apologizing for saying "spying"

Last month, in a Capitol Hill hearing, Barr said that he believed "spying" had occurred on the Trump campaign in 2016. Controversy followed, as national security officials insisted that the AG referring to the legal use of a FISA warrant to surveil Carter Page was deeply irresponsible.

On Wednesday, Barr refused to back down from the use of that word -- insisting that "spying is a good English word that in fact doesn't have synonyms because it is the broadest word incorporating really all forms of covert intelligence collection." Challenged by Sen. Sheldon Whitehouse (D-Rhode Island) as to whether the term "spying" is used commonly in the Department of Justice, Barr retorted: "It's commonly used by me."

7. Try to follow Barr's logic on the Mueller letter

The facts are these: More than a week after Barr received Mueller's letter expressing concern about how the AG's summary letter had characterized the obstruction evidence -- and talked to Mueller on the phone about it -- he appeared before Congress. And he had this exchange with Florida Democratic Rep. Charlie Crist:

CRIST: Reports have emerged recently, General, that members of the special counsel's team are frustrated at some level with the limited information included in your March 24 letter, that it does not adequately or accurately portray the report's findings. Do you know what they are referencing with that?

BARR: No, I don't.

Asked about that moment on Wednesday, Barr explained what looks like willful obfuscation -- basically -- this way: I didn't know what specific "reports" Crist was referring to or who on the special counsel's team he was talking about. Therefore, my answer is accurate.

Which is, well, whoa. Or, better put, it is a hugely legalistic answer to the question of whether Barr misled Crist and the broader country. Common sense dictates that, when asked about whether he was aware of any frustrations from the special counsel regarding his four-page letter, the letter from Mueller -- and their subsequent phone conversation -- would jump immediately to mind

Barr can make a lawyerly argument that he didn't understand what Crist was specifically referring to in his question. But that doesn't pass the smell test.

8. Barr made clear he did not "exonerate" Trump on obstruction

Pressed on his critical decision not to charge Trump with obstructing the Mueller probe, Barr made a bit of news. Here's what he said: "I didn't exonerate. I said that we didn't believe that there was sufficient evidence to establish an obstruction offense."

That's broadly in keeping with how the Mueller report described its own findings on Trump and obstruction, writing this:

"(I)f we had confidence after a thorough investigation of the facts that the President clearly did not commit obstruction of justice, we would so state. Based on the facts and the applicable legal standards, we are unable to reach that judgment. ... Accordingly, while this report does not conclude that the president committed a crime, it also does not exonerate him."

All of that is VERY different than how Trump himself has described the findings of the Mueller report and what Barr decided after reading it. "No Collusion, No Obstruction, Complete and Total EXONERATION. KEEP AMERICA GREAT!," Trump tweeted on March 24.

The key thing to remember here: Not bringing charges is not the same thing as innocence or exoneration.

9. Barr equivocates on White House influence

California Sen. Kamala Harris asked Barr a simple question: Did anyone in the White House ask or suggest that he open an investigation into a person or people?

Barr was taken aback, asking Harris to repeat the question. He then said he wasn't entirely sure what she meant by the word "suggest."

All of that potentially suggests -- ahem -- that someone in the White House has either asked or suggested that Barr and the DOJ look into a matter. Which is interesting, to say the least.

Mark Steven Domingo, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, authorities said. (FBI) A Reseda man planned to detonate improvised explosive devices at several Southern California locations to cause “mass casualties” in a terror plot thwarted by law enforcement officials, authorities said Monday.

Mark Steven Domingo, 26, an Army veteran, was arrested Friday night after he took delivery of what he thought was a live bomb from an undercover law enforcement officer posing as a bomb-maker, officials said. He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists.

According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED.

“Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states.

Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr.

“There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State.

“America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017.

The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier.

Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show.

The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime.

Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel.

In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam’iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect’s apartment in South Los Angeles.

Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines.

And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others.

Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

Bartirromo.“This is the way you treat your friends? How do you treat your enemies?” the judge said while opening up the segment on Monday morning. “He wanted to divert attention from what Mueller had said about him and what I had commented about Mueller to his relationship with me. His relationship with me is not the story. He and I have been friends for 30 years and probably will be for the next 30 years.”Still, Napolitano characterized Trump’s attack on him as “brilliant.”Also Read: Fox News'

Andrew Napolitano Calls Out Jared Kushner for 'Deceptive' Effort to 'Diminish' Russian InterferenceThe segment with Bartiromo came after President Trump denounced Napolitano on Saturday, saying the judge had turned nasty because he wasn't appointed to the Supreme Court. "Thank you to brilliant and highly respected attorney Alan Dershowitz for destroying the very dumb legal argument of 'Judge' Andrew Napolitano," Trump tweeted after a Fox News segment. "Ever since Andrew came to my office to ask that I appoint him to the U.S. Supreme Court, and I said NO, he has been very hostile! Also asked for pardon for his friend. A good 'pal' of low ratings Shepard Smith." On set, the judge answered both charges - suggesting the president has mischaracterized the matter. Though Napolitano did confirm that he and Trump did have two separate 90 minute conversations in the immediate weeks after his 2016 election victory. A rep for Fox News did not offer any additional comment on the matter. Also Read: Fox News' Andrew Napolitano Says Mueller Report 'Might Be Enough to Prosecute' Trump Once one of Trump's favorite Fox News personalities, Napolitano has increasingly raised eyebrows on set for his tough commentary on the president's legal woes. On his Fox News digital series, "Judge Napolitano's Chambers," the judge has bluntly called Trump's behavior documented in the Mueller Report as "criminal." "Prosecutors prosecute people who interfere with government functions and that's what the president did by obstruction, where is this going to end? I don't know, but I am disappointed in the behavior of the president," Napolitano said last week. "If he had ordered his aides to violate federal law to save a human life or to preserve human freedom, he would at least have a moral defense to his behavior," he added. "But ordering them to break federal law to save him from the consequences of his own behavior, that is immoral, that is criminal, that is defenseless, that is condemnable." Just days earlier, Napolitano said in a different monologue on the same program that it was his belief there was enough in the report to "prosecute" the president - even though the special counsel declined to do so. Politics National Review House Dem. Threatens Trump Officials with 'Incarceration' for Refusing to Honor Subpoenas Representative Gerry Connolly (D., Va.), a member of the House Oversight Committee, said Friday that the panel might resort to the threat of incarceration should Trump administration officials continue to ignore its numerous subpoena-backed requests for documents. “We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up,” Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. “And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government."The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure."We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?" Connolly said of Miller. [About time someone got tough with these mobsters; after all, trump's used to corrupt cowards who take dives.

Analysis: 43 mind-boggling lines from Donald Trump's Wisconsin campaign rally [trump is so sick, so mentally ill!]

(CNN)President Donald Trump traveled to Wisconsin on Saturday night to rally his supporters, and -- pointedly -- to miss the annual White House Correspondents' Dinner, which he has yet to attend as President.

Trump, continuing a trend of late, made a slew of questionable claims, bashed the media and loudly proclaimed his rightness about, well, everything. I went through the transcript and picked out the most, uh, outstanding, lines from his Green Bay rally. They're below. THE POINT -- NOW ON YOUTUBE!

1. "The strength of our nation is found in the heart of our people, so true." This is a very common Trump speech pattern. He reads a line from the teleprompter. And because he hasn't read the speech in advance, he responds by agreeing with his own words that he is seeing for the first time with a "so true." And away we go!

2. "We're going to get to the bottom of a lot of things happening in our country."
So true.

3. "And we're now the number one economy anywhere in the world and it's not even close."
This is, generally, true!

4. "By the way, Saturday night, is there anyplace that's more fun than a Trump rally?"
I might be able to think of one or two places. ...

5. "Can you imagine? Sleepy Joe? Crazy Bernie."
Why did Trump suddenly start talking about his potential 2020 opponents? Oh, I have no idea. But the crowd LOVED it.

6. "I think Pocahontas, she's finished, she's out. She's gone. No, when it was found that I had more Indian blood in me than she did."
Trump is referring to Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren with this taunt. And, yes, the crowd LOVED it.

7. "But can you imagine any of these people up here doing what I'm doing? They'd be 200 people show up if they were president. If they were president, nobody would show up."

It's fascinating that Trump understands the job of being president as getting lots of people to show up to rallies.

8. "The people that get it wrong the most are the weather forecasters and the political analysts."

He's not wrong!

9. "People are standing out 24 hours ago, 32 hours ago outside. Who stood out there for 24 hours?"

This comes from the Green Bay Press Gazette: "A line of supporters wound around the Resch Center; some people said they'd waited outside overnight." So true.

10. "We had 69,000 people sign up to come in. What does this place hold? Like 10,000 or 12,000 or whatever. Whatever it holds. We set the record." What record? Also, I have no idea how Trump came up with this 69,000 number. Here's how a local TV affiliate described the crowd: "This was a free event that anyone could attend, but Secret Service detail said only the first 10,000 people are being let into the center."

11. "I don't know what the hell it holds, but we just set the record." According to the internet, the Resch Center holds 10,500 people. But Trump has the record. Big ly.

12. "That's always dangerous. He said, 'Yes, it is, sir.' It's always dangerous. Yes. You ask like, 'No, sir.' I'm dead. They will take -- they will take that answer. That'll be headlines."

Let me translate this for you people who don't speak word salad: Trump brought the owner of the Resch Center onstage and asked if it was a record crowd. (Because that is very important to how he does his job.) The owner said it was a record. Trump was relieved because it would have been bad headlines if it was not a record.

13. "Now, this is the record. We set records everywhere."

It is VERY important for you to know that Donald Trump set a record. VERY.

14. "The greatest political hoax in American history, it really has been." For the record: The Mueller probe resulted in 199 charges against 37 people and entities. Seven people pleaded guilty to a variety of crimes while five were sentenced to prison. So, not really a "hoax."

15. "The USMCA like the song 'YMCA,' right?"

Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States!

16. "Can you believe I'm a politician? I can't even."

Honestly, same.

17. "You know, Canada, we love the song, 'Oh Canada.' Let's sing, 'Oh Canada,' right. We love the show."

WHAT. IS. HAPPENING. (And, no, there isn't much context to add here. He just started talking about Canada.)

18. "But who knows, I always say, 'Who knows?' Because who the hell knows?"

[nods head slowly]

19. "Don't forget, we are the piggy bank that everybody is robbing. We're the ones. We're the piggy bank that everybody is stealing from and robbing and taking advantage of."

USA! USA! USA!

20. "This I don't -- I tell you what, you know, people say, 'Oh, he wants to take over the country. He wants to extend.' "

I think Trump is ruling out changing the constitutional limit on a President serving two terms here. So there's that.

21. "You're right, USA. We love USA and that's right."

"I love lamp." -- Brick Tamland

22. "If you look at what's happened with the scum that's leaving the very top of government."

Just the President of the United States referring to top-level staff as "scum." Super normal stuff!!!

23. "The dirty -- these were dirty cops. These were dirty players."

Trump, presumably, is referring to longtime officials at the Department of Justice like James Comey and Robert Mueller.

24. "I mean we're draining the swamp, but are we having a good time or what?"

Who said you can't have fun draining the swamp? Not me!

25. "And look at all those beautiful red hats and some white ones. Some white. Look at that. Those are -- that's a lot of red hats. But you do have the white ones too, right?"

Red MAGA hats > White MAGA hats. But wait....

26. "And you have the black ones, too. You have a lot of them. You have a lot of different hats."

... there's more! SO MANY HATS. OF DIFFERING COLORS.

27. "It's called MAGA country. You know, I didn't hear that term until that third-rate actor in Chicago went out."

The President of the United States offers his thoughts on the Jussie Smollett case.

28. "Ronald Reagan used seldom Let's Make America Great. Close, but not the same. Let's -- apostrophe S. You don't want the apostrophe. It's too complicated. It doesn't work. But Ronald Reagan was good. He said let's make -- but he didn't use it. He used it a little bit. We seriously use it, right?"

OHMYGODOHMYGODOHMYGOD

29. "And MAGA we got for free. Because my whole deal was Make America Great Again, all of a sudden people are saying and going #MAGA."

30. "We have a massive television audience, do you ever see so many cameras? If somebody else were here, you'd have about like none."

I've heard that this is a record crowd. So true.

31. "Because I have a couple of friends here. They're pretty wealthy people, very successful people. And you know what? The hell with them. I don't care."

Oh snap, Trump friends, you got dunked on! FACE!

32. "In Michigan, they gave me an award six years, seven years ago, I had no idea. It was the Man of the Year in Michigan."

There's no evidence Trump was ever named "Man of the Year" in Michigan.

33. "They will take your guns away, too, by the way."

Trump passes along this much-debunked notion that Democrats, if put in power, will collect all firearms in the country -- and no one bats an eye.

34. "Now we're sending many of them to sanctuary cities. Thank you very much. They're not too happy about it. I'm proud to tell you that was actually my sick idea."

There's zero evidence that the administration is shipping undocumented immigrants detained at the border to sanctuary cities. In fact, several administration officials have made clear that the policy is not only logistically untenable but also potentially illegal. But, hey, it was Trump's "sick idea"!

So true.

41. "And I have to say, every leader without fail that comes to see me in the Oval Office, they all say congratulations."

Every foreign leader who comes to see Trump tells him "congratulations." Every one. Absolutely. This is definitely, 100% true, I'm sure.

He was charged with attempting to provide material support to terrorists. According to a federal affidavit, “after considering various attacks — including targeting Jews, churches, and police officers — Domingo decided to detonate an IED at a rally scheduled to take place in Long Beach this past weekend. As part of the plot, Domingo asked his confederate — who actually was cooperating with the FBI as part of the investigation — to find a bomb-maker, and Domingo last week purchased several hundred nails to be used as shrapnel inside the IED. “Domingo said he specifically bought three-inch nails because they would be long enough to penetrate the human body and puncture internal organs,” the affidavit states. Prosecutors said Domingo sought retribution for the New Zealand mosques attack and said he was willing to become a martyr. “There must be retribution,” he said in an online post, according to the federal criminal complaint. He also allegedly expressed allegiance to the Islamic State. “America needs another vegas event ...[to] give them a taste of the terror they gladly spread all over the world,” Domingo allegedly wrote in reference to the massacre at the Route 91 concert in October 2017. The FBI saw the posts and used an informant to begin a series of meetings with Domingo. During these discussions, he talked about targeting “Jews, police officers, churches and a military facility,” authorities said. A law enforcement source told The Times he also considered an attack at the Santa Monica Pier. Domingo talked about a drive-by shooting using an AK-47-style rifle, authorities allege. But officials say he ended up targeting rallies in Long Beach and Huntington Beach. Worried those events might be canceled, he also considered blowing up the Santa Monica Pier, documents show. The terror plot was uncovered less than 48 hours after a gunman opened fire inside a San Diego County synagogue, killing one woman and wounding several others in what law enforcement officials are investigating as an anti-Semitic hate crime. Southern California has been the scene of several terrorism plots and attacks, including one by a prison-based group that targeted the U.S. government and supporters of Israel. In 2005, Kevin James founded Jam'iyyat Ul-Islam Is-Saheeh, or JIS, inside a California prison and led a conspiracy to attack Los Angeles International Airport, several Army recruiting centers and the Israeli Consulate in L.A. The group planned to stage attacks on political targets with the proceeds of gas station robberies, investigators said. Authorities said they learned of the potential plot when Torrance police investigating the robberies found lists of targets and other information at one suspect's apartment in South Los Angeles. Three years before that, a gunman killed two people at the busy LAX ticket counter of El Al Israel Airlines. And in 2015, Syed Rizwan Farook and his wife, Tashfeen Malik, entered a holiday gathering for county employees at the Inland Regional Center in San Bernardino and, using rifles purchased by a friend, killed 14 people and injured 22 others. Authorities said that Farook and a friend had plotted additional terror attacks targeting students at a nearby community college and drivers on the 91 Freeway.

"We're going to resist, and if a subpoena is issued and you're told you must testify, we will back that up," Connolly told CNN's Wolf Blitzer. "And we will use any and all power in our command to make sure it's backed up - whether that's a contempt citation, whether that's going to court and getting that citation enforced, whether it's fines, whether it's possible incarceration. We will go to the max to enforce the constitutional role of the legislative branch of government.”The president and his advisers have said explicitly that they will not yield to Democrats' demands that officials testify before the Oversight Committee regarding the issuance of security clearances, the formation of the so-called zero-tolerance immigration-enforcement policy, and other matters.White House adviser Stephen Miller, former security-clearance official Carl Kline, and John Gore, a deputy assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, have thus far all refused to come before the panel.Connolly emphasized in particular the Committee's desire to hear from Miller, whom he called Trump's "immigration whisperer," regarding what measures the administration plans to take to harden the southern border in the wake of Secretary of Homeland Security Kierstjen Nielsen's departure.“We want to hear from him: What is your thinking, what is it you've been advising the president, and where is it you think you're going to be taking us as a country with these kinds of policies and personnel changes?” Connolly said of Miller.
