

ESCAPING HELL

JON STAUFFER

By Jon Stauffer

© Escaping Hell, 2011. Except as provided by the Copyright Act, no part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means without the prior written permission of the publisher.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I Title Page	Pg.1
II Table of Contents	Pg.3
III Prologue	Pg.4
1. Following in the Footsteps of Jesus	Pg.7
2. Remaining Faithful While Receiving         Inner Guidance	Pg.11
3. Hell	Pg.15
4. What Happened to God?	Pg.28
5. Escaping Hell	Pg.33
6. How to Apply the Secret Knowledge	Pg.41
7. Who Are Our Enemies?	Pg.49
8. The Karma Broker	Pg.56
9. Developing Our Inner Power	Pg.60
10. Creation	Pg.72
IV Epilogue	Pg.112
V Glossary	Pg. 115

PROLOGUE

This book is being made available free of charge, so that those who have little or no money can still hear my message and make a choice regarding their spiritual freedom. I will do my best to provide enough information here, to enable most people to escape this hell we call God's creation, without the need for a workshop. However, unless the individual is already quite adept with energetic forces and the astral plane, contacting the Mani-Om-Sah Institute at maniomsah.com is recommended.

This book has not been in the hands of a publisher, nor has it been edited by anyone other than me. I did not major in English literature, nor have I studied creative writing or English composition beyond one basic class in 1973; therefore, please ignore any grammatical and/or structural errors that you may come across in your reading. I appreciate your patience in this regard.

This book represents twenty-four years of personal study and research into the esoteric aspects of the world's spiritual and religious traditions, as well as the histories relevant to both the development and demise of such traditions.

It would be impossible to include all of my discoveries in just one book, especially in one as small as this one. However, I think you'll find that I have consolidated my notes sufficiently for the purpose of describing our situation on Earth, and explaining how we can make our escape.

Many of you will be angry with me; some to the point of wanting to kill me (a religious classic). Keep in mind though, that I am not a satanist, nor do I claim to be a prophet, a savior, or even a guru. I have formed no church, and I will never attempt to convert anyone to any philosophy. I do, however, have some very important information for those who are interested, and I am making it available to all. If you don't like it, simply ignore it, and ignore me as well. I won't even threaten you with God's wrath if you do.

Others will read this book and feel that it makes sense out of incongruities they have noticed in both life and religion. These are those who are ready to make their escape from hell. Although we of like-mind do not constitute a church, some have asked about what we are called in a philosophical sense. I say to them that we are ascensionists. Please do not confuse us with the "mass ascensionists" of either the New Age Movement, or the many Christian sects preaching the great rapture. We are "Internal Ascensionists"

It will probably be said of me that I am a dangerous man; that if everyone believed as I did, the foundations upon which this entire world rests would crumble. But what could be meant by that? Is it that the gates of hell would be opened and everyone could escape?

The only danger I bring is to those who stand to lose their power over others, as well as the money they fleece their sheep for. Before we go into the first chapter, I would like for the reader to carefully consider what I have to say next. Read the thirteenth chapter of Romans. What I have to say is stated very profoundly in the Gideon's Bible, and also in the New World

Translation. The King James version is a little more conservative, but it tells the same story. Basically, the message is this: “There is no authority but God’s authority”. “...and that is why we pay taxes...” “...to give tribute to God’s servants”.

The Bible tells us that government agents are the servants of God, so let’s consider just who they are. In America, we know them all to be liars, cheats, thieves, and murderers. Anyone who disagrees with this assessment has spent his or her entire life in front of a television set watching cartoons. If our government agents and politicians are servants of the Biblical God, then he must be the God of this world, who is Lucifer.

Beyond the concept of escaping hell, this book will provide the reader with a wealth of esoteric knowledge in brief form. Those of you who are able to grasp the concepts and their application to life in this world may feel a desire to share it all with friends and loved ones. For this reason, I feel that I should allude to the universal law of attraction.

Most people are distracted and led by sources of entertainment. Being lazy-minded, they prefer to sit passively and have their heads filled from the television, or to be told what to believe by religious authority. Such as these will not be attracted to the notion of transcendence because of the personal responsibility involved – it becomes a task too monumental for them even to begin. Therefore, don’t be disappointed if you have difficulty in tearing someone away from his or her routine long enough to download and read the book. They are simply being pulled elsewhere by the universal law of attraction.

Jon Stauffer

CHAPTER : 1

FOLLOWING IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF JESUS

Most people will not entertain the thought that they can be spiritual without attending church. They have been taught by parents, society and religious authority that church is where God requires us to learn spiritual principles, to show our devotion, to receive sacrament, or otherwise to worship him. To them, the church is the Kingdom of God on Earth. Someone who does not attend church is viewed as lacking in faith, possessing spiritual weakness, and therefore existing outside God's kingdom. For this reason, those who believe in Christ, Jehovah, or Allah do not recognize the validity of a spiritual path that stands aside from their understanding of religion.

All who know me know that I have studied the world's religious and spiritual traditions aside from having been raised a Mormon and serving a full time mission for the LDS Church. It cannot be said, therefore, that I lack knowledge of either scripture or religious practice. Even so, the fact that I claim to walk a spiritual path which comes from within, has not been given much consideration by those who think I should attend church and go to the Temple.

In order for the nature of my path to be most easily understood by Christian readers, allow me to explain it in Christian terms. To begin with, Christ said: "The Kingdom of God is within". In other words, Christ was telling his students to look within themselves rather than outside for the Kingdom of God. Christians at this point, are thinking that even so, Christ established a church. We make a mistake however, if we assume the church or churches actually, to have been an organized structure as we see in organized religion today.

A church literally refers to a group of people who come together. People came together as Christ traveled around teaching groups in such places as Corinth and elsewhere. The only organized religion with established dogmas and associated laws at that time was Judaism which was established by the priest class of Pharisees known as the Levites. Islam and Christianity emerged later as offshoots of Judaism.

To know what Christ was teaching about the Kingdom of God being within, we have to understand that he was an Essene. Although the Bible tells us this, few people consider the importance of the fact. Some people even say: "No, he was a Nazarene". This is a reference to one who is from Nazareth. The Essenes were an esoteric group that taught spiritual principles not given to the masses. All esoteric groups in every culture around the world turn their students inward to find the Kingdom of God through a practice and discipline of meditation. None of them ever established a hierarchical structure with a book of laws teaching that spiritual development and salvation depended on both, obedience to those laws, and the forgiveness of transgressions by someone outside our selves.

The Gnostics of Christ's time referred to the process of turning within as "Gnosis", meaning knowledge, or the way of knowledge. The Vitkar of Northern Europe referred to the God within as the "Hamingja", while the Hindus refer to it as the "Atman", and the Essenes referred to it as the "Father". Christ, then, had not only found, but had become one with the God within, which some people refer to as the Higher Self. Is God truly within? Are not our bodies the Temples of God?

When we meditate, we should not blank the mind. True meditation allows us to perceive a beautiful place of peace, or the Inner Sanctuary, wherein dwells the God within us. This is what Christ was referring to. This is where we receive guidance; and through this guidance, we receive knowledge and wisdom to accompany our spiritual development. This is the path of enlightenment; the path that Christ placed before his disciples.

Many will contend that they do turn within, and that they receive inspiration on all sorts of issues. Unfortunately, their idea of turning within involves kneeling in prayer before a God and/or Jesus residing outside them selves, and praying for guidance to be given them from outside. Some of them are able to receive a certain amount of inspiration from the Higher Self on occasion, which confirms in their minds, the erroneous notion that their church is the one sanctioned by God. They don't realize that they are employing in their own fashion, a universal law which can achieve results. In accordance with spiritual law, however, the inspiration received must be limited by the individual's level of spiritual knowledge, and therefore, will remain within the parameters established by the one seeking such inspiration according to his or her religious beliefs. This is not at all like turning within to find the "Father". Neither is this becoming spiritually liberated through inner guidance which provides knowledge and wisdom beyond that which is doled out by men with ambition for power and authority.

When we approach God within ourselves, we must do so pure in heart, and pure in spirit. This means that we must leave behind, all that we have been taught by the Priests, the Ministers, Pastors and Bishops, and be ready to listen and to learn. Our inner guidance will take us down a path regardless of our preconceived notions of the truth. It evolves into an inner dialogue with the Higher Self, or God within, rather than some vague feeling we call the Holy Spirit bearing witness to our hearts. The emotion we call a testimony is not the same as receiving inner guidance from the God within for every aspect of our lives.

In reference to turning within to find the Kingdom of God, Christ told his disciples that they would do even greater things than what they had seen him do. Would this be possible if they listened to religious authorities who cautioned them against turning within as Christ taught, out of fear that they might be led astray by the devil? Of course not; what's the Temple of God anyway, the Kingdom of God, or the Kingdom of the Devil?

We should be careful of following shepherds, because they herd sheep for only two reasons:

1. For fleecing, and...
2. For ultimate butchering

THINK ABOUT IT!

CHAPTER: 2

REMAINING FAITHFUL

WHILE RECEIVING INNER GUIDANCE

Whether we are Mormon, Catholic, Protestant, or even Muslim, it is not expected that we should have to give up being faithful members of our respective religions while turning within to receive inner guidance. You can receive advice from your religious leaders, and then turn within for guidance in applying that advice. You may also use your inner guidance to determine whether or not the advice is proper for you. As long as you belong to a particular religion, your inner guidance will assist you in living your religion most effectively.

The logical question then, is: “If my inner guidance assists me in my religion, and someone else’s assists him in his, then how can we tell which religion is right? How can God be contradictory?”

The issue is not about who’s religion is correct. There are no absolutes in this universe, and that applies to truth as well. We all like to believe that there can only be one “true” church, and that ours is it, but such a belief involves a belief system with absolutes. Our universe is based on the “Law of Paradox”, which states: “There is no greater truth than a lie, when any individual or group either needs or otherwise demands the lie at any given time.” In other words, we receive truth in increments as we become ready to receive it. If our religion is what we need at this time, then our inner guidance will keep us there, and even assist us in being faithful and loyal members. We shouldn't make the mistake, however, of assuming our truth to be universal and absolute. It may not be right for everyone.

If your religious leaders are cautioning you against turning within, however, be advised that they are leading you away from what Christ taught. There is nothing about remaining faithful to your religion that suggests you should become a mindless dupe. In fact, you can use your inner guidance to learn how to deal with leaders who contradict that which you know to be true, and to deal with them in the most harmonious way possible.

When religious leaders caution you against turning within, most are fearful of losing you as a supporter. The concern of some, however, may be legitimate. There are circumstances which lend themselves to astral influences that could lead you astray. As we continue, however, I will explain those circumstances, and exactly what we can do to assure a pure and clean inner communication process, free of all outside influences.

As we begin to turn within, the act of prayer becomes exposed as the act of turning outward that it is. Beseeking a God outside ourselves for favors begins to take on a whole new reality. As this occurs, it is not necessary for us to cause anxiety for others who are not capable of understanding our perspective; we can simply go through the motions as they do, while keeping focused on the Higher Self, or Father within. In fact, this can become a good practice for establishing the fact in our minds that the Kingdom of God is indeed, within us.

We should be able to remain faithful to our respective religions, while at the same time remaining faithful to the one our religions claim to be following. If our religious leaders force us to make a choice, however, then we have a serious decision to make.

Whether we choose to believe in the reality of reincarnation, or whether we choose to believe in our ability to tap into the collective unconscious for information, there is a wellspring of knowledge which can be accessed only by turning within. In actuality, knowledge is available to us from both sources.

Beyond either the Mental and Causal Bodies where our past life knowledge is stored, and the collective unconscious, the Higher Self is capable of supplying knowledge and wisdom derived from the true spiritual realms to which he or she is indigenous. Sometimes the Higher Self retrieves information from the Mental and Causal Bodies for us, and sometimes from the collective unconscious. On rare occasions, information may be retrieved for us from the spiritual realms if the Higher Self has a link to the Silent Ones, to Odin or Omin, or to the "All" Itself. Some of the foregoing terms with which you may not be familiar, will be explained as we proceed through the book.

Any way we look at it, truth must be derived from turning deep within ourselves. To assume that others have already done so for us, and that we, therefore, have no need to do it in our own behalf, is to suggest that Christ was being frivolous when he told us that the Kingdom of God is within. It makes no sense at all to be paying ten percent of our gross income, or otherwise donating huge sums of money to others who claim to be doing for us, that which we should be doing for ourselves.

CHAPTER: 3

“HELL”

Some of you may not be ready for some of the truths expressed in this chapter, but all you have to do is turn within to the Higher Self, and let him or her sort through the material and guide you as regards that which you are to embrace at this time. As you evolve, your understanding of truth will also evolve.

We have not yet come to the chapter where I explain how to communicate with your Higher Self, and if you have not already taken a workshop, then turning within will not be as productive as it could be. For some it'll be no problem in any case, but those for whom it is, I recommend that you accept that which is easy for you to accept, and hold the rest in reserve to decide on at a later time. Now, let's discuss hell.

Since man first organized social and religious structures, creating and maintaining public fear of a place called hell has been big business. Certainly, money and power constitute motivating factors for keeping people fearful in this way, but I'd like to examine an even more sinister motivation for keeping people focused on a place so terrible that the thought of going there makes them pray for salvation.

Imagine that you were the master of an entire world of people so naive and superstitious, that your advanced technologies had them worshipping you. Of course any personality flaws you had would certainly manifest in that world, since your devotees would endeavor to be like you. Jealousy for instance, stemming from narcissism, coupled with bipolarism would make for a quite terrible world to live in. To keep people worshiping you, they would have to believe that by doing so, they would receive a great reward in a place called heaven at the end of their suffering here.

Now consider the implications of their coming to understand your technologies. Without fear of you, they would no longer worship you, and they would undoubtedly cut the apron string, and you'd no longer be in control. As bad as their existence had been under your rule, the promise of great rewards to come in exchange for their patience now, would go a long way in securing their loyalty, but it gets even better if you can create fear in their minds of a place of punishment for those who refuse to worship you. The idea is to make them pray to you for their salvation.

Consider the foregoing in light of what we are taught in our religious institutions, and then consider the nature of the world in which we live. We have rules to obey that we must pretend to like, or at least convince ourselves that we like while envying those who enjoy their Sundays. Life is a struggle for survival while our emotional passions keep us on a rollercoaster ride, and religious leaders promise a better life after death if we give our time and money, while they threaten us with eternal sorrow if we don't.

Most of us tend to dismiss the principle of reincarnation offhandedly, because we fear that to give it any serious consideration whatsoever, would be the same as losing our faithfulness in the religious beliefs we have been taught from birth. You know, of course, that I'm going to tell you that this is part of a series of traps designed to keep us from figuring out the illusion and escaping hell. It's a very effective one too, because if we fail to come to terms with the reality of reincarnation, we will never stop the cycles of karma.

Karma is the result of not only our deeds, but also our reactions to environmental stimuli both in the past of this life, and in past lifetimes. In other words, we reap what we sow. We don't need a vengeful god to make this a reality for us, because it is a major facet of natural law.

Often times, our process of transcending karma and this worldly existence depends on our understanding of why we are experiencing certain things in life. To say that it's God's will, or that God is testing us, is not sufficient. It fails to provide us with the required understanding. For example, I lived most of my life unable to have a massage, because I couldn't have anyone touching my back from behind. When I learned of a past life in which I was stabbed in the back and killed, however, I understood. The associated energies were purified, and I can now receive massages.

Had I not undergone that experience, the natural cycles of karma would have necessitated, eventually, either my killing the one who had killed me, or having to be killed in the same way, over again. Now, that cyclic pattern of karma has been stopped dead in its tracks.

Prior to 558 A.D., every culture and spiritual tradition in the world understood the principle of reincarnation, and this includes the early Christians. There are Biblical references indicating the reality of reincarnation, but it was essentially written out of the equation when the records were compiled by the Catholic Church. Because the people believed in reincarnation, the Nicaea Council stopped them from teaching or discussing it. Then in 558 A.D., the Second Council of Constantinople declared the belief to be heresy. After all, how can people be threatened with a fiery, burning hell for eternity if they know that they will be born again in the future? How can they be enticed into accepting punishment now, with the promise of a better life in the hereafter, if they are to return to this world anyway?

Not every religion threatens its members with a fiery, burning hell, but those that don't, play on the emotional nature of their members, threatening them with eternal alienation from their family members, and an eternity without sex. Although no scriptural reference exists anywhere, denouncing the concept of reincarnation, the people are kept obedient with the promise of a better life after this one, if they but remain faithful.

In analyzing the nature of this world, we find its very foundation to be rooted in violence. Many of us are idealistically naive, feeling that nature is peaceful. However, birds that we think are singing to us are either claiming their territory, warning others of imminent danger, or trying to mate. Single cell organisms devour one another, and insects either suck the blood of animals and humans, or devour one another also. In addition, they serve as food for larger species. Mosquitoes, for instance, serve as food for fish, frogs, dragon flies and bats, and with such short life spans, why would a loving God give them the capacity to torture us by sucking our blood, and transmitting disease?

The so-called harmony of nature demands that for one living being to live, another must perish. This even applies to vegans who must consume the lives of plants that possess consciousness, and experience trauma upon being killed. Nature is extremely violent, with the carnivores constantly hunting their prey, and the herbivores constantly on watch, or running for their lives.

Look at the condition of this world on a global scale, with world powers throwing the innocent out like rag dolls to be tortured, maimed and killed for profit. More of this has been done in the name of God, than for any other reason, and all warring factions claim that God is on their side. He sanctions what everyone does to each other. Even the Old Testament has God telling the Jews to slaughter all Non-Jews without mercy, and not even to leave a dog alive. The Feast of Purim is a celebration of the slaughter of about 35,000 innocent Gentiles.

We can enjoy peace and happiness only in small increments, but we must struggle and plan for these, and they last only until another calamity arrives. In the meantime, we satisfy ourselves with a few friendships, some nice beaches, pretty flowers, and some great sunsets, compliments of chemical trails and radioactive fallout.

Even rich people aren't happy. They have enjoyment, but they aren't happy, overall; yet the rest of us spend our lives in pursuit of money, thinking that when we finally have enough, we'll be happy. In the meantime, we find that in business, no one really likes us; they only want our money. Government wants licensing fees, fees to operate machinery, fees for regulatory agencies, insurance fees, workman's compensation fees, social security fees, and taxes. The FDA wants under-the-table fees to have certain products approved for distribution to the public, parasites called brokers must receive their share for doing little or nothing, and banks require fees for allowing us to do business with them, whether it be through checking accounts or credit card accounts; and it matters not, whether you are using a credit card, or simply honoring a bank's card used by a customer – you pay a fee for the privilege of doing business. Even your employees will cheat you out of hours worked if they can, and one business is constantly trying to devour another, while attorneys operate like sharks behind the scene. We are no better off than the animals in nature. Even those selling us on a better life after death want our money, some requiring 10% of our gross income.

Could any sane person place responsibility for this mess on a benevolent and loving Heavenly Father? He's just testing us? That's stupid! We're so used to this mess, and in such a state of denial, that our minds are cauterized. If we aren't too miserable at any given time, we think we're happy. Of course, there is a certain bliss associated with ignorance. If someone excites our lower emotional passions, we're either happy or angry. While we await a better life in heaven, we either drown ourselves in T.V., movies, video games, computers, drugs and alcohol, or we scramble furiously for other distractions such as vacations, restaurants and shopping; anything to avoid reality. Let's face it; we live in a hell world with some pretty flowers.

Many people try to vindicate the God of this world by saying that he gave us our free agency. In a way he did, but if we don't do what he says, and in the way he says to do it, while pretending to like it, we get punished without mercy. In the old days punishment was swift, so as bad as things are, I'd say that they are going pretty much the way he wants them.

Please don't misunderstand me. I actually enjoy life, and I laugh every day. Even if we're in hell, we have to have fun, and it's possible to find enjoyment - even periods of bliss while we're here. It's no different than it is for convicts in prison. Do you think they spend all their years suffering? They create their own society with rules, recreation, and both physical and spiritual development. They tell jokes, establish friendships, and do a lot of laughing. It's in our nature as human beings, to make the best of our circumstances.

If a person was born in prison, his life would be so natural that there would be no basis upon which to believe that there was anything at all wrong. The child wouldn't like his circumstances, but he would feel happy most of the time. Whether or not a prisoner experiences relative happiness, he or she is still in prison, and the same applies to all of us regarding the hell world we live in.

Mormons are taught, and many other Christians have been astute enough to realize that Lucifer is the god of this world. How many have actually contemplated the significance of this fact, however? Are we to satisfy ourselves with the statement that Lucifer has the power to bruise man's heels? Are we childish enough to believe that someone with God status is so impotent that all he can do is follow us around kicking at the backs of our heels? Are we retarded?

Many people view Lucifer as a fallen angel, but in the Book of Enoch, we are told that those who follow Satan were here before the fallen angels.

This is a Book not shared with the Gentiles/Goyim, by the way. In any case, Lucifer being the god of this world was here before the fallen angels, who were actually fallen from his grace – but that’s another story for another time.

Lucifer is only a nickname, or title actually, for Dominion, and Catholics still say an ancient prayer to him from the early days, using the Latin form of Dominus.

Why should it be so difficult to understand that the god of this world could, and would establish a trap to keep us confined within his kingdom? Why should it be so difficult to understand that organized religion is a part of that trap, when it directs us outward to books, laws, prophets, and priests, telling us that by turning inward, we run the risk of being led astray by the “devil”, while only pretending to lead us in the footsteps of the Saints, Sages, and so-called Saviors?

Those who have made millions of dollars, and who stand to make millions more, prance about on stage, stand behind pulpits and write books threatening congregations of fearful souls with the wrath of a vengeful god. They keep the money pouring in by convincing people that only their repentance, their fear, and their generous donations will save them from an eternity in hell.

Some religious leaders are solemn and serious, as they subtly threaten their huge flocks with the separation from their parents, spouses and children if they fail to keep the faith. They tell them that only those who dedicate and sacrifice their whole lives, all their loyalty, and ten percent of their gross incomes will be able to have sex in the life after this one. Eternal alienation and celibacy is the hell they fear.

In one way or another, everyone is taught to fear god. God is the jealous and vengeful parent commanding all the inhabitants of Earth to humble them selves before him, to erect costly edifices to him from which his “Word” must be preached, and to sacrifice their time and money to his “servants”. We are taught that he is our loving and benevolent Heavenly Father on the one hand, while on the other, we are taught that failure to appease him will result in eternal punishment and damnation. Everyone lives in such fear of hell, that they are afraid to ask themselves the most appropriate question under the circumstances: “Are we already in hell”?

When we consider the fact that organized religion keeps us praying to the god of this world, both in hopes of a better life after death, and in order to avoid a punishment worse than this life provides, it becomes clear that religion is a tool designed to keep us from escaping hell.

The Tibetan Book of the Dead offers a set of instructions to be read to the deceased as they enter the after-death state. Accounts of those who have passed over and then returned, show a wide variety of experiences because the deceased tends to experience that which he or she expects to experience – that which exists in the unconscious.

Most religionists have no clear concept of a heaven, but they do have a very clear and vivid concept of hell. This is most unfortunate for some, because they will tend to experience that which they fear the most. The lucky ones are those who don’t dwell on hell, and instead focus on an after-life existence of peace and tranquility.

The ancients of Northern Europe had established a cultural and spiritual tradition with resulting archetypes that took on an actual existence on the astral plane, where those of that lineage could go in the after-death state to be with their own people. This was the case with all cultures, and this is precisely why organized religion has endeavored to eradicate all the cultural traditions of a spiritual nature, and to integrate all races and their cultures. When a culture loses its heritage, its archetypes die on the astral plane. Then the people themselves lose interest in their own traditions, culture and spirituality, eventually miscegenating themselves out of existence. Without a place of their own, many people drift like in a dream through the worlds of their own unconscious until someone awakens them.

The Tibetans refer to this state as the “Bardo”, and the instructions contained in the Tibetan Book of the Dead were designed to alert the deceased to his or her situation in hopes that he or she might become self-determining on the other side.

Throughout the ages, Saints and Sages of both Hinduism and Buddhism, along with the Eck Masters of both ancient Tibet and modern times have taught that this world is “Maya”, or Illusion.

The initial response of most people to a statement such as this is almost always that you cannot get any more real than this. Then they make an animated reference to one or more of the five senses. We can feel that the body and other objects are real, we can see the reality of this world, and we trust in that which we hear.

To many people, the notion of a sixth or psychic sense borders on illusion because it cannot be verified by one of the five senses. The fact that it is often verified by experience is subject to debate because it can be dismissed as mere coincidence. The fact is, that the physical elements associated with this world are viewed as real, while that which is outside the experience of the physical organism is viewed as illusion.

So what, then, do we mean by the illusion of this world? Quantum physicists deal with particles smaller than atoms on a regular basis. Can we detect them with our five senses? No, but we accept their existence nevertheless. Does the fact that one particle can affect another many miles away without going anywhere fit into our realm of personal experience? No, but it's still a fact.

The illusion of this world is multifaceted, and consists largely of light refractions that block our perceptions of nearly everything but the five senses. An electromagnetic time loop creates the illusion that time is linear, so we satisfy ourselves with the notion that what we experience in life is all there is to it. Quantum physics and the electromagnetic time loop are some of the aspects of the illusion to which I refer, and our five senses actually play a role in maintaining the illusion.

A major aspect of an Adept's enlightenment involves full recognition of the illusion in which he or she has been trapped. In this world, we have what many have come to view as a collective unconscious. It exists within the parameters of what I refer to as a Transduction Matrix, but which is more commonly known as the Akasha. The collective unconscious is our Bardo, and it's Dominion's playground.

When a Sage who becomes enlightened states that this world is Maya, and that only the unenlightened struggle, or that we should "do nothing", “strive at nothing”, or that we should “fight against nothing”, he is correct. The Sage has learned that this world is a trap, and that there is no higher path than coming to understand its illusory nature in order to transcend it.

The Sage views all of mankind’s struggles as a series of distractions designed to keep us within the trap. It would be the same for the deceased in his own Bardo, believing it to be real. It makes sense that organized religion would attempt to stamp out all pagan belief systems as it did, in order to keep the masses from escaping the trap. We are in Lucifer’s hell right now, and a lot of effort has gone into making us believe in some other hell that is worse, while preventing us from discovering the illusion by turning inward. The god of this world would indeed, be very displeased if we discovered the secret of escaping hell.

From Dominion/Lucifer as the god of this world, through his hierarchy of angels, and through the occult leaders of the world and all their religious and financial institutions, the great illusion is kept alive as people are kept distracted from the reality within. As I have stated over and over, this is Dominion’s world, and he is the master of illusion. This is our collective Bardo, and our highest aspiration should be to climb out of it. Be assured that unless measures are taken to free ourselves from the illusion and its trap, we will recycle to this hell once again. For many this is just fine, because their lower emotional passions keep them enmeshed in this place like pigs routing in their mud and dung.

For those of us who see a vision of what lies beyond the pig pen of life, there comes a yearning to climb out and move onward. A problem arises, however, when others try to distract us, saying things like: “Hey, where do you think you're going"? "There's nothing out there for you". "Get back here where you belong". If we can't follow the admonition of countless Sages throughout history by turning inward, then we may as well remain someone's sheep.

CHAPTER: 4

WHAT HAPPENED TO GOD?

At this point many readers are probably wondering whether or not I am an atheist; and if not, then what happened to God? If it's true that we are in hell, then what happened to make God either send us here, or abandon us to Lucifer? What have we done wrong, and who is God in any case?

For those who are able to accept spiritual responsibility beyond the customary dependence of children upon a parental figure, more truth is available. We must be willing however, to transcend our previous notions of a God who establishes all our circumstances for us based on his pleasure or displeasure at the time.

We are in hell not because of punishment incurred for displeasing God, but because we have failed to recognize the so-called god that set our trap, and we have failed to remove the shackles with which he has held us captive. We have failed to recognize the Biblical God for who he is, and consequently, we have been removed from the influence of the God we once recognized long, long ago.

The term God is derived from the parent language of all the Germanic languages (of which English is one), called Old Norse. It is "Godh" in its transliteration form, and it literally means "Good". Only the god of this world who we know to be Dominion has ever desired to carry a title denoting him as “good”.

The original source of all creation is known by living beings throughout the universe as either “The Source”, or as “The One”. Our Northern European ancestors used a name which translates to “The All”, because the source of all creation has manifested as everything. This issue will be elaborated on more fully, in the chapter entitled “Creation”.

In order to understand reality beyond the parameters of this little prison we call Earth, we need to discuss who we are, where we came from, and where we would be if we hadn't been trapped here long ago. Only in this way, can we come to realize how little our understanding has been. The notion that we were with God in Heaven and there was a war in Heaven as well is merely a mythological concept, although it does have a foundation of truth supporting it. The myth reveals the status we have been given as children, and we are even told that unless we become as little children, we cannot enter into the Kingdom of Heaven (of course, according to Christ that's supposed to be within us). So what then? Are we to be given worlds to govern as Gods and Goddesses? Some religious authorities claim that those who go to Heaven will indeed become such; but with the status of little children? I don't think so. Children are naïve, ignorant, immature, and dependant upon adults for their existence; therefore, such a philosophy is designed to keep us from growing up spiritually and becoming responsible adults in our own spiritual right. Thus we remain trapped by our own volition.

In all the other worlds throughout the universe, people live thirty to forty thousand years in one dimensional realm evolving, until their vibratory frequency comes to match the next highest dimension, at which time they ascend there. For them, the principle of reincarnation applies to circumstances where an individual is killed. He or she loses the body, but goes to the astral world associated with that dimensional realm until a new body becomes available. They do not, however, continually recycle through a seemingly endless succession of births and deaths as we have been doing in this hell we call God's creation.

Long ago, we existed in the fourth dimensional realm where the planet was known as Tara. In the material worlds of dualism, there are twelve dimensions, each with its own astral world or counterpart. Beyond the twelfth dimension (D-12), there is a "Great Abyss", and beyond that are situated the spiritual planes of dimensions thirteen, fourteen, and fifteen, all with their own counterparts. We are situated in D-3, or the third dimension.

On Tara, there was a Ruling House, the Spiritual Adepts and the General Military Staff. Dominion wanted to ascend the entire planet of Tara through the dimensional realms quickly, where he could rival the "All" with his own kingdom. In order to understand his plan, we must first understand a little bit about the nature of time.

In quantific terms, the entire universe is structured from Light and Sound Quanta. Sound forms a matrix of sorts which moves as a current, and serves as the foundation of all manifested forms. Consisting of just so many tonal frequencies, Sound is a loop. Time has a place on the Sound Matrix, and therefore constitutes a loop as well.

The time loop begins at a particular tonal frequency called the fundamental, and progresses up through the multiple integrals to the natural minor, and then moves back through to the frequency fundamental once again. This is a sound loop with an opposite directional flow of Light Quanta, and thus, the loop brings us back to the frequency fundamental at the same octave. This provides a perceptual awareness of the moment of being, and establishes what seems to be eternal life. The only exception to this would be an accidental death.

Dominion's plan was to pull the opposite directional flow of Light Quanta into the time loop. Sound is magnetic in nature, and light is electric. This would, he reasoned, create an electromagnetic time loop that would increase the frequency fundamental by an octave with each successive loop, and allow him to rival the "All" within a very short period of time.

The Ruling House, Spiritual Adepts, and General Military Staff opposed Dominion in this endeavor, and thus became his targets when he decided to attack with tonal frequencies designed to eliminate those of us who were among those three groups. We were not able to prevent the attack, but we were able to prevent total annihilation, as we were thrust into D-3. The attack nearly destroyed the energy grids of Tara, but when all was finally secured, we were seeded with bodies here in this realm.

Dominion decided then, to create his electromagnetic time loop here, and did so, because Tara's energy grids were still too unstable. His plan failed, however, and rather than ascend Earth through the dimensional realms, the electromagnetic time loop established linear time for us here on earth. Viewing an electromagnetic spectrum, we can see that the wave pattern moves in a linear fashion. With the frequency fundamental of the time loop increasing its octave with each loop, time has been speeding up, and our life spans have become increasingly shorter, necessitating more frequent incarnations as we recycle over and over again. This is the nature of Dominion's trap, and this is what won him the title of Lucifer. Lucifer literally means "The bearer of light", or "The light giver". When he pulled the light into the sound loop, he said: "Let there be light". Yes, Lucifer is not only the god of this world, but he is the Biblical god as well.

Most mythologies have a foundation of truth supporting their existence. The foregoing is the foundation of truth supporting the mythological concept of a war in heaven. God did not thrust Lucifer into hell; rather Lucifer thrust us into hell, and then assumed the title of God over us.

The "All" is not a humanoid entity with emotions, and who would control our existence, or even interfere in our life processes. It has no gender, and it manifests no circumstances born of desire, as is the case with egoistic entities. I realize that this description doesn't sound all fuzzy, warm and secure, but we shouldn't want to pay the penalty for someone willing to promise us that. We have to grow up spiritually, sometime.

The "All" is conscious, and It thinks. In fact, it constitutes everything in existence as a result of Its expansive thought. This will become more clear in the chapter on "Creation".

The bottom line is that we will remain within Lucifer's trap as long as we wait for a "Savior" to rescue us. It is imperative that we grow up spiritually, and take personal responsibility for our own existence. We must free ourselves from this hell we call god's creation.

CHAPTER: 5

ESCAPING HELL

Didn't the Biblical god make a bet with a demon that ended up causing Job a whole lot of pain and misery? This petty little game of one-up-manship not only proved that Job would continue to worship Dominion from a position on his knees regardless of his suffering, but it also marked the god of this world as a narcissist.

A psychologist by the name of Sandy Hotchkiss states that narcissists have unrealistic expectations of unconditional approval and admiration. Didn't god get mad and destroy the earth once because the people wouldn't pay attention to him? Does the commandment "thou shalt have no other Gods before me" take on a new significance now?

God says that he's a jealous god. This should be our real clue, because jealousy is an extreme form of envy, which is one of the seven deadly sins of narcissism as accepted by psychologists everywhere. The god of this world then, is a narcissist from hell.

So, let's break free from the bonds of this world. The logical question is this: "What bonds could there possibly be, that could bind us to this world"? The cycles of karma keep us bound, as does a time loop which escapes our notice because of our ignorance regarding the nature of the rest of the universe. Our attachments to all the distractions that life offers also keep us bound, and so do all the illusions that keep us believing in the reality of this world as resented by religion.

We can transcend the cycles of karma through a process which purifies specific energies known to Hindus as samskaras, and to the ancient Northern Europeans as Wyrð. Of course, the ego-self cannot purify itself, so we must rely on the process of turning inward as Christ, along with all Saints and Sages both past and present have taught.

We must have an understanding of time loops as they exist naturally, so that we can compare our life experience to that standard in order to comprehend the nature of, and to release ourselves from the unnatural time loop which keeps us bound to this world.

The distractions of life keep us bound through our lower emotional passions which must be purified in the alchemical process, right along with the seeds of karma. As long as we believe in the reality of this world as presented by religion, we will never see its illusory nature, and thus, we will never dispel the trap.

In planning our escape from hell, we must first examine that which has kept us trapped. Since our situation is multifaceted, allow me to deal with it in increments. We must first break through the illusion, so I'll begin there with those aspects of the illusion which are natural throughout the universe, and then we'll discuss those aspects that are artificial, and which apply specifically to this third dimensional realm.

Those aspects of our illusion which are common throughout the universe are as follows:

1. The illusion of space between objects. Just like the objects on a computer screen, there exists an electromagnetic field of potential manifestation of other objects, keeping all things connected. No real space between the perceived objects actually exists. This is the principle behind the phenomenon witnessed by quantum physicists, where one particle affects another many miles away, without ever moving anywhere.
2. One aspect of the illusion of linear time is maintained by travel from point – A to point – B in a given amount of time. The illusion is dispelled when we learn to experience various locations through a shift in our attention through what some call “remote viewing”, which can be considered as a movement in space/time. In this way, we discover that the past and future exist simultaneously in the here and now.
3. Another aspect is maintained by the cyclic pattern of days, months, seasons and years, combined with a continuum of perception and experience. The illusion is dispelled when we experience the past by going there through perceptual awareness, which demonstrates the fact that all space and time are here now.
4. Another aspect is maintained by the perception of a starting point for all things, and a progressive process called transformation, or evolution. This is a perception of movement through linear time to some perceived destination in the future, with one’s original state perceived as being situated in the past. The illusion is dispelled when we have the shamanic experience demonstrating the fact discovered by quantum physicists, regarding all space and time existing here and now. Then we realize that we are already transformed, and need only to make it our reality. Each “stage of transformation” occurs in the moment of being, and constitutes a transformed condition – it is not a process which extends through linear time. Quantum forces propel us from one state of consciousness to another, all in the here and now.

The aspects of our illusion that are specific to our situation in Dominion’s trap are as follows:

1. An unnaturally occurring ionosphere which envelopes not only our planet, but also our third dimensional realm. The ionosphere consists of electrically charged ions which refract light in such a way as to diminish our perceptions of anything other than our illusory world of the five senses.
2. An electromagnetic time loop which continually increases through the octaves, forming a foundation for the belief in time as a movement from the past, through the present, and on to the future, through a rapid aging process. This is an experience in linear time, where the moment of being exists as a philosophical perception, rather than a perceptual reality, though situated and occurring in the midst of evolutionary processes.
3. Psychic time loops applied individually by Dominion’s archangels, requiring that we recycle in an endless procession of births and deaths. Each life experience is explained in an illusory fashion as being god’s will.
4. The collective unconscious within which, we have been kept prisoner in the same way that some people drift through their own unconscious (the Bardo) in the after-death state. This illusion of reality is kept alive by occult powers in social structures, religion and even through educational programming.

I briefly discussed the collective unconscious in the chapter entitled “Hell”, but to more fully understand it, allow me to relate it to today’s reality. The founding fathers of this nation established a system under the Articles of Confederation, but did they change the fact of British/Banker/Illuminati control? Absolutely not! All our judges and lawyers are licensed under the BAR, which stands for “British Accredited Registry”. Corporate banks direct every aspect of this nation through their status as creditor over the debtor, and a coalition of Illuminati run the corporate banks.

In an effort to establish one race and one culture world wide, social engineering and propaganda have been employed which have been miscegenating the White race out of existence. Has any racial awareness movement on our part even begun to turn the tide? Absolutely not!

Spirit Warriors have battled Dominion’s forces on the planes for years, now. Major changes have occurred in other realms, but has the machinery been stopped or even slowed down in our third dimensional realm? Absolutely not!

The NRA, John Birch Society, National and State Militias, and even the New Republic have done nothing but spin the wheels of those who are attempting to wake up and smell the coffee. Patriots everywhere draw the line of tyranny acceptance, only to continue drawing it as the machine marches over them. It seems that nothing ever gets accomplished. It’s like being in a dream where running is impossible, no matter how hard one tries. This is the “Bardo” of which I speak. Just as some of the deceased may drift through his or her worlds of the unconscious in the after-death state, only conscious enough to exist in a dream while believing it to be real, so do we drift through the collective unconscious believing it to be real. This is part of the illusion that Dominion as the god of this world, created for us. We try to run, but just like a man under water, we can't. We make great changes in our circumstances, but just like a man caught in the "Twilight Zone", we find ourselves continuing our struggle over and over again.

This is Dominion's world, and our Bardo. Everyone plays a role in the overall scenario which constitutes Dominion's ever-evolving soap opera. As the god of this world, it is his stage, and his play. We may be able to effectuate minor changes within certain parameters, but we can never change the scenario itself. Certainly, it is our responsibility to fight the battle for balance in this world and elsewhere, but the question is whether or not we've been going about it correctly.

We have been correct regarding our immediate needs, and even to the point at which we understand our situation; but now that we fully understand the illusion, we can also understand the fact that functioning within the parameters of that illusion will gain us nothing besides wisdom, temporary reprieve, and honor among those who are caught up in the collective unconscious. It will not, however, gain us success in our ultimate goals, nor will it free us from Dominion's trap.

Joining religions, political parties, militia groups, or any other group or movement that is established by those drifting through the collective unconscious or Bardo, merely prevents our escape from hell.

The final aspect of our illusion involves the principle of karma. Due to the fact that our electromagnetic time loop keeps us recycling so quickly, we are seldom able to make a connection between our life experiences and the responsibility that is ours as a result of previous behavior, previous desires based in the lower emotional passions, and emotional energies held within from previous actions taken against either ourselves, or our loved ones. Our inability to make the connection keeps us believing that we are continually acted upon either by God, or by the Devil.

This is another reason for the early church's banishment of the concept of reincarnation. It goes hand in hand with the principle of karma, an understanding of which dispels the illusion of forces greater than ourselves either rewarding us for our obedience, punishing us for our disobedience, or testing us.

Judaism, Islam and Christianity share a common value system which is alien to all spiritual traditions, past and present. This system involves:

1. Obedience to one single deity.
2. Subservience to the deity's servants on Earth.
3. Conformity to the social morays established by the deity's servants.
4. Avoidance of punishment.
5. Surrender of one's own judgments and opinions to the deity's servants.
6. Acceptance of the deity's judgments.
7. Hope in a better life after death.

In this chapter, you have received the secret knowledge.

Understanding all aspects of the great illusion allows us to transcend the illusion itself, abut it helps if we can also understand how to apply the secret knowledge. This is the subject matter of the following chapter.

CHAPTER: 6

HOW TO APPLY

THE SECRET KNOWLEDGE

In this chapter we will apply the knowledge we have gained. The ionosphere, of which I spoke, is not a problem as long as we realize that it is there and refuse to be blinded by it. By this I mean that we can begin to trust in the subtle impressions we receive from the Higher Self. Those who have greater psychic abilities are less affected by the ionosphere, and tend naturally to accept their subtle impressions because they are more profound. Our inner communication process however, can be of great value to all of us.

In the chapter entitled “following In the Footsteps of Jesus”, we discussed turning within to the Higher Self, known variously as the Hamingja, the Atman, or the Father. Mahanta is another related term from out of ancient Tibet.

We often receive promptings from the Higher Self as he or she attempts to get our attention, but Christians perceiving everything outside them selves, generally refer to these promptings as being from the “Holy Spirit”, which they don’t realize was originally a reference to the Higher Self. We can all receive these promptings as a matter of birthright, but to establish an inner dialogue requires that we employ a universal law. Allow me to explain.

Our entrapment here in Dominion's realm included the severing of the 7th, 8th, and 9th bass tones of our third DNA strands, which separated us in consciousness from what we now refer to as the Higher Self.

All other beings throughout the universe are what they call whole, and thus they enjoy their natural instincts. We are universally called "Shells" due to our emptiness of spirit (Higher Self), and this is what Christ referred to when he turned his disciples inward. Consequently, we possess only rudimentary instincts as acknowledged by scientists, and we are less intelligent than beings that live on other planets and in other dimensions.

Therefore, the Spiritual Law of Ego Sovereignty, which states that higher dimensional beings are not to interfere in the processes of those in the lower dimensional realms, dictates that we must first recognize the Higher Self (or the God within), then approach him or her (knock on the door) through the process of meditation.

For those who can't, or think they can't meditate, there is nothing to worry about. We need only to close our eyes and relax the mind. Focusing all the attention inward, simply make it known to the Higher Self that you wish to make contact and establish an inner dialogue; that you wish to both receive and live by his or her inner guidance.

Technically, the Higher Self, being indigenous to the true spiritual realms beyond the Great Abyss, possesses no gender. However, we have all been incarnating within the material worlds of dualism for eons of time now, and each one of our Higher Selves have picked up certain traits which lend themselves to either one gender or the other. If we are heterosexual, then chances are that our Higher Self is of the same gender that we are in this incarnation.

Once we have made this commitment, we need to realize that it is possible to relax the mind while focusing inward with a question, and to have that question answered. For most of us, it is advantageous to receive confirmation of the answers we receive, through a physical response to questions designed to elicit either yes or no responses.

For example, I might receive a fluttering in my right eyelid for a yes response, and a fluttering in the left for a no response. I might receive a rush of warm energy up my torso for a yes, or a cold rush of energy downward for a no. Most people balance on their feet, and are pulled off balance forward for a yes response, or pushed backward for a no. Personally, I receive a movement in my neck muscles, either pushing my head forward, or pulling it back. Ultimately, we want to receive direct communications from the Higher Self, and use the yes/no response to verify our interpretations.

There are a few Adepts who are capable of establishing one's connection to the Higher Self, while releasing all potential interferences from the auric field, and establishing protection against outside forces which would attempt to mimic the Higher Self. Some people, however, either feel that they have no need for such procedures, or that they are fully capable of establishing their own connections.

I won't be so presumptuous as to suggest they can't do this, but for those who feel that they would like assistance, that which is required will be forthcoming automatically, through the Mani-Om-Saw Institute, at mainomsah.com. For those who elect not to take advantage of either the discourses or the workshop, be aware that unless a person is undergoing spiritual purification, interference in the inner communication process is generally not an issue in any case.

Many people are of the erroneous notion that once we have learned all our lessons, we can stop incarnating here and move on. Learning lessons is not what it's all about. First of all, we must undergo a spiritual purification process as I mentioned before, wherein certain energies retained in the subconscious, along with associated emotional passions are released in our transcendence of those karmic issues. This allows our vibratory frequencies to increase beyond what would normally be the case.

Secondly, Dominion's electromagnetic time loop interfaces with a psychic time loop placed on each of us, keeping us within its cyclic pattern. Thus, our awareness and "conscious will" in the after-death state, may allow self determination between incarnations; but they will not prevent us from having to return to Dominion's hell, eventually. The psychic time loop is easily removed as one becomes attuned with the Higher Self through either the discourses or a workshop, but another karmic trap exists.

In the Hindu tradition, there are four kinds of karma discussed. There is past karma, present karma, and future karma which are explained in accordance with the perspective of the guru giving discourse at the time. The fourth kind of karma is not elaborated on at all, but simply mentioned as being "allotted karma". This is what Dominion's archangels have placed on us during our stay in an astral center between incarnations. This is why we never really resolve all our karma – talk about the "Twilight Zone"!

Even for those on spiritual paths where a purification process facilitates the transcendence of all karma, a trap exists wherein the seeds of additional karma are continually fed to us. Beginning the discourses or taking the workshop will release the individual from the tonal frequencies creating disharmonic vibrations within the Causal Body, and any karma requiring a return to hell will undergo purification. In the process, damaged DNA will be repaired gradually, and the vibratory frequency will begin to increase in order that the individual will be able to exist in one of the higher dimensional realms. Those who feel that they are shamanically adept enough to facilitate this for themselves should do so as soon as possible.

Finally, we must deal with our connection to the collective unconscious. This means that we must come to view all the distractions of the world in terms of a trap that keeps us from perceiving and embracing the reality within. This includes games of one-up-man-ship, table games, television, movies, video games, face book, and generally chasing tails with the “puppies”.

Furthermore, we must have a desire to transcend this world and all its distractions. It may appear that this statement is redundant, but not everyone has a desire to move on from this realm. The lower emotional passions keep many people preoccupied with this world, and with everyone in it. Allow me to provide an analogy.

Many prisoners are released when their time is done, and discover that they no longer fit into society. They have developed a whole new set of ethics, social morays, and view of reality. They have become used to prisoner status and the social machinations that occur between captives and captors. Thus, many of those who are released do what is required in getting themselves put back into prison, even though they hate being incarcerated.

It's the same thing for us. We are accustomed to our environment, and we therefore tend to fear the prospect of having to adapt to a new one, especially if we haven't turned within, and come to realize the Self.

Even though this hell is a constant struggle for segments of happiness, and even though most of us believe in a better life after death, we still kick and scream to stay here, regardless of how much we suffer. Those with terminal illnesses will make poppers out of their families, taking shots that cost $20,000 to $30,000 per month, just for the hope of a few more months of life.

To sever our connection to the collective unconscious, we must lose our fear of what we perceive to be death, lose our attachment to this world, and lose our attachment to all the distractions of this world. Finally, we must transcend the passions of lust (not just the sexual variety), envy, anger (associated with unfulfilled desires), greed and undue attachment. These lower emotional passions keep us locked into the collective unconscious, because they provide the mud and dung within which we play like pigs.

Beyond the inner dialogue with our Higher Self, our inner connection will become fully developed through an alchemical process which releases us from another one of Dominion's traps. This trap consists of hydrogen electrons in water on the mental level, which effectuate DNA degeneration when we attempt to reconstruct severed DNA strands separating us from the Higher Self.

In order to benefit from the alchemical process, we must first come to realize that the seeming dichotomy between what we have perceived to be good and evil does not actually exist. This does not negate positive (beneficial) and negative (detrimental). For example, existence outside Dominion's hell is a positive experience, while existence in hell is negative. All things are part and parcel of the "All", however, and the "All" simply is. Therefore, we shouldn't view Dominion as being evil. When we have purified the lower emotional passions, we will be able to perceive him exactly as he is, make proper decisions regarding him if and when necessary, and even fight against him and his forces if we so choose . But we will do so with full realization of the fact that Dominion himself does not constitute an evil force separate and distinct from the "All" . For some, this will translate into just so much nonsense, but as we progress on the path, and begin to embrace the reality within, our capacity for abstract concepts will increase.

Along these same lines, we should be cognizant of the fact that the light which is refracted through our ionosphere is distorted, creating disharmonic tonal frequencies, and causing interference which limits the Higher Self in the communication process. Without going into more detail, suffice it for me to say that this additional trap (compliments of Dominion) will be dealt with for those who contact the Mani-Om-Sah Institute, at maniomsah.com. Again, those who feel that they are sufficiently adept as to not require assistance with this process are free to utilize this information in effectuating their own freedom.

When we begin the path, the thymus chakra is stimulated, and a built-in trap causes it to send out a message that says: "Hey, I have nothing to do!"

In response, the universe (and society in particular) tries to occupy all our time, and we find it very difficult to find the time required for turning inward. This issue will also be dealt with, but initially, the Higher Self may use it to determine to what extent the physical consciousness really desires spiritual freedom.

We must keep in mind that as conscious beings, we constitute the ego-self. Since the ego-self cannot purify itself, we shouldn't get caught up in all the New Age systems of self-purification. These systems constitute another trap which keeps us turning outward, rather than within. All we need to do after our process begins, is stay focused within, continue to meditate, and practice the art of emotional detachment.

We must turn our lives over to the Higher Self, and quit trying to be the Captain of the ship. This is called "Self-surrender", and sometimes, "Walking in the Spirit". If we fail to accomplish this, we will undoubtedly fall under the spell of life's distractions once again, and our processes of purification and increasing vibratory frequency will come to a halt. This is why most people need a guru, even though none is actually required.

Enlightenment involves recognition of our trap, perceiving the illusion, dispelling the illusion, and achieving detachment from this world, its many distractions, and the lower emotional passions. A oneness with the Higher Self or "Father" if you will is integral to this process. Being someone's "sheep", and becoming as "little children" is not conducive to enlightenment. This is the truth that will set us free.

CHAPTER: 7

WHO ARE OUR ENEMIES?

In Christianity, the enemy has been presented in a three-fold working model. First is the devil, second are all the fallen angels and demons that serve Satan, and third are all the heathens who will not accept Christ as their Savior. Christians today, would not admit to the thought that heathens are their enemies, but if we were to remove the constraints of modern day society, history would repeat itself.

Islamics consider all non-Muslims to be infidels, and these are enemies to them, while Jews consider all non-Jews or gentiles/goyim as they call us, to be the enemy. If you doubt this, just read the Torah (the Old Testament), and if that doesn't convince you, read the Talmud if you can come by the many volumes kept out of gentile hands.

The bleeding-heart- pacifist- type of Christian says that we actually have no enemies, while quoting scripture which advocates that we love even our enemies. Of course, this admits to the fact that we have enemies. Then again, Muslims and Jews have no problem admitting to the fact of enemies existing in the world.

In the New Age Movement it is often believed that to be enlightened, we must perceive the oneness of all creation, and therefore give up the notion of contrary forces outside ourselves. Those who have embraced this philosophy, however, live in denial of the fact that we presently exist within the material worlds of dualism. To survive, we must be realists, which is why most people who walk spiritual paths will not survive the machinations of their enemies long enough to escape Dominion's trap. They will not escape from hell.

Our enemies consist of those who are active in trying to prevent us from gaining enlightenment and escaping hell. Beyond this realm is Dominion himself, his hierarchy of archangels and angels, and finally, all the "astral clowns" as I like to call them, who work diligently on the astral plane, to serve as "guides" for both, the living and the deceased.

In this realm, is the Preure de Sion, or simply the Priory of Sion, forming the seat of the Illuminati, from which all the other occult organizations have sprung forth. Sion, by the way, is the French spelling for Zion. These are the world Zionists. A few of the offshoot occult organizations are Skull and Bones and Freemasonry, including the major religious organizations that demand our willingness to follow them as sheep. Thus, we become dominated by occult powers manifesting through religion, society and even politics. The occultists, therefore, believe that they are ultimately guided in their destiny by god. I will not argue this point, because they are guided by the god of this world, and contrary to what they tell their congregations, they know him to be Lucifer/Dominion.

Many who read this book will speak with emotional venom, and from the lower emotional passions, saying that god will destroy me for this; and quite possibly, he will. I don't claim to be the toughest guy in the universe, but I do have my plan of escape laid out, and destruction sounds a whole lot better to me than an eternity on my knees, serving some bi-polar narcissist. The threat of hell doesn't work either, because I'm already here.

Actually, I have friends in the realms of higher vibratory frequency, and with their assistance, I have been able to converse with the “All”. Thus, I can provide those who might choose to escape from hell, with an alternative to simply leaving one trap, only to enter another upon the death of the body. Not knowing what lies beyond this realm will give many people pause, and rather than taking advantage of my offer, they will remain secure in the trap that has become so comfortable to them.

As we learn to meditate, the increase in our vibratory frequency will be noticed by our enemies beyond this realm. Possessing the technology with which to access the Akasha, or the collective unconscious, they will determine our thoughts and intents in order to ascertain whether or not we pose a potential threat to their agenda. Those who pose such a threat will become targets. Not everyone attempting to escape hell will necessarily pose a threat, but those with leadership abilities and/or warrior-like tendencies most certainly will.

Astral entities, ascended masters, or so-called angels may attempt to entice such an individual away from his or her path through either direct communication, or fear and intimidation. The most common occurrence is the attachment of one or more entities to the auric field, for the purpose of interfering with one’s inner communication process.

In order to prevent all this, and to secure our inner communication so that it remains one-on-one with the Higher Self, we must be able to establish a protective shield capable of withstanding not only the occult powers, but also those of the archangels. Again, I can assist in this, or you may be capable of constructing such a shield for yourself.

The shield must protect the entire auric capsule, as well as the vapor light separating each of the subtle bodies, and even the entire Merkaba Field. In this way, we will remain free from all outside forces as we turn within as Christ turned his disciples within.

Receiving the monthly discourses will enable those who turn within to the Higher Self for their escape from hell, to have their psychic time loops removed, disconnecting them from Dominion's electromagnetic time loop. Karma requiring their return to hell will be purified from the subconscious, and their vibratory frequencies will begin to increase. Auric purification will also be facilitated, in order to secure a pure connection to the Higher Self, and a protective shield will prevent any breaches of personal sovereignty. Finally, the purification of our lower emotional passions will accompany the purification of related karmic issues.

So, now what happens after we escape from hell? Who can we trust, where do we go, and what do we do? It is possible for some people, if it is part of their destiny, to live until their vibratory frequencies allow for their ascension into the fourth dimensional realm. Such as these will have to suffer hell until that time arrives, however.

Those whose destiny it is to pass on to dimensions five and above, will give up their bodies, and take up residence in the astral realm associated with that particular dimension until reincarnating there.

In all cases, we will work right along with the Higher Self in controlling our destiny after death. This concept is very discomfoting for many people who lack knowledge and experience regarding life beyond the only world they know. It is easier to believe in a being who is more knowledgeable, who possesses greater wisdom, and who has more power than ourselves, who will guide us like sheep, promising to lead us to the promised paradise after this life, in return for our obedience now.

On the other hand, if we wish to follow in the footsteps of Christ and do even greater things than he, as he expected of us; if we wish to be like our concept of God, then it is imperative that we be in a position to control our own destiny after death.

Taking control rather than being someone else's dupe can be a very fulfilling prospect for those who come to an understanding of what lies beyond this life, other than some vague notion of heaven, hell, or a spirit world.

Upon leaving this body, we may encounter "astral clowns", or we may encounter the forces of Dominion who will entice us with tonal frequencies and light rays designed to provide us with feelings of joy and bliss so that we will believe them to be emissaries of a loving and benevolent God.

Those of us with protective shields will not be affected, however, and we will remain free to follow the directives of the Higher Self. For those of us who feel that we might benefit from support provided by others, there are very positive beings who will await our call for assistance. These are spirit warrior emissaries of a being known to the ancients as Odin. They were referred to by our Northern European ancestors as the Einherjar (pronounced: eye-n-her-yar), or Odin's Chosen.

Don't be afraid that by escaping from hell, that you are being sucked into Odinism, because you are not. However, it is your birthright if you are of European heritage, to receive assistance from this source. For those who are not of European descent, simply send out your call for assistance through the Higher Self, and it will be forthcoming from those whom your Higher Self will help you to recognize.

If you trust no one, then simply follow the directives of your Higher Self, and you will remain free from all outside influences. There are vast worlds of great beauty to be explored, or you may choose to be with certain loved ones who may come to escort you from this life. For religionists, there are those who have built both their heavens and spirit worlds throughout the astral realms. Some, however, find comfort in creating their own environment. If you have done what is required in escaping hell, though, I recommend that you avoid the third dimensional astral realm at all costs. Follow your Higher Self.

After all that we have discussed, it would seem that we are home free at this point. Actually, we are at the final gate, and it is an illusion requiring our understanding of a very important issue for it to be dispelled. This is a trap involving the perception of our universe's creative force as perceived in the Biblical god. Our acknowledgement of the "All" is insufficient, if our perception of it is deficient.

We have all been taught through religion, society and family, that God is our Father in Heaven, and that we were created in his image. In other words, we have never perceived God in terms of anything but our limited, dualistic mindset. Our belief in God's male gender implies that he exists within the worlds of dualism, and therefore implies also, that he is subject to the laws of the material worlds.

The “All”, sometimes referred to as the “Source”, or as the “One”, cannot be compartmentalized and described as we would an object or person. It can only be hinted at, referred to, or at best, described in vague terms. It is not something you can put your finger on and say “that’s God”.

The “All” is simply everything. It’s in the sounds you hear, and in the colors you see; It’s in all the stars that might ever be. It is seen where the rain pours down; where none dare go, and where nothing is found.

To perceive the “All” as an individual being with ego, personal interests and other dualistic tendencies, is to miss the point entirely. Therefore, the religious training we receive which creates our perception of God, serves as a trap because in order to transcend the illusion of the gates of hell, we must perceive the fact that our own misperception of our true nature is what keeps us trapped behind the gates. We must understand the nature of the “All”, and perceive our existence as being part and parcel of the “All”.

Understanding this as our true nature, is how we perceive ourselves as being unlimited and unfettered. Only in this way, can the gates of hell fall away, and we become free to go where we please, and to be what we wish to be. Before this can happen, however, we should be aware of another aspect regarding our existence here in hell. It doesn’t do us any good to have our freedom, if we are ignorant of how our environment operates economically. For this reason, I am including a very small chapter on this subject.

CHAPTER: 8

THE KARMA BROKER

We understand how Dominion established his kingdom on Earth, and how he keeps us trapped, but the question is, why does he continue to do it? What's in it for him? We know that he benefits from the prayers and attention sent to him by an entire world of people – that we empower him immensely; but is that really sufficient to keep him occupied indefinitely?

We know also, that many intelligent species in the first two harmonic universes have joined forces with him, and are very loyal. How do they benefit from an alliance with a bi-polar narcissist such as Dominion?

Since this world is, in many ways, a reflection of Dominion's personality, propensities and psychic nature, wouldn't it make sense that a certain amount of his business character and practices would be reflected here also?

Let's consider the practice of usury in banking and commodities. Couldn't it be possible that we are a commodity for Dominion? Certainly, most of our psychic, mental and spiritual power is harvested through our prayers, rituals and outbursts of emotional energy. What maintains this flow of energy though, is a never-ending succession of karmic experiences. Negative karma keeps the emotional outbursts going, and our hope in deliverance from that karma, keeps the psychic, mental and spiritual power flowing to Dominion. Therefore, it would make sense that Dominion would also turn karma into a commodity.

Evidence of the commodity aspect of karma dawned on me many years ago, when I was being trained on the other planes of existence as a shamanic warrior. I know that those who are in the employ of Dominion are subject to the law of karma, because they can be killed. However, I've also noticed that they seem to have little or no accountability for deeds done. They seem to be immortal beyond that which is standard in all other worlds beyond this one, and I've often wondered how it is that all those functioning under Dominion's rule, and operating in violation of spiritual law, live as immortals without having to suffer their karma. Then, when we analyze the four kinds of karma: Past, Present, Future and Allotted, the last one stands out as an incongruity. The logical question then, is "where does allotted karma come from? Karma isn't just manufactured out of thin air.

Karma, as we know, is a reactionary force which produces an experience in direct proportion to the causation that generated the reactionary force. This is the universal law of cause and effect which is stated in Newton's Third Law of Motion: "For every action, there is an opposite and equal reaction".

The reactionary force is often delayed, because other operational forces tend to interfere with its manifestation. Therefore, it is stored within that portion of our auric field we call the Causal Body. This is also the subconscious mind, or the unconscious as Carl Jung referred to it. Our collection of reactionary forces can be considered in terms of energy units that Hindus call samskaras, and which the Northern Europeans called wyrd. When these energy units manifest through a cyclic pattern, they attract specific events or experiences that we call karma. The Old Norse term for karma, by the way, is Ørlög.

So, we can readily see that karma is not something to be manufactured out of thin air. Allotted karma indicates something other than that which we have created for ourselves, so we need to consider who it is that did create it.

This is where Dominion's allies benefit from their association with him. The god of this world knows how to transfer karma by way of quantum technology, and he has become a broker of sorts. Throughout the universe, many planets have remained honorable, by refusing to engage in Dominion's usury system of karma brokerage, but the Nefilim, Grays, Anunnaki, Dracos, and Andromies, however, have seized the opportunity to escape their karma by having it transferred to Earth. In this way, they become free from most of their karma, in exchange for their loyalty and ultimate submission to the authority of Dominion.

Alien karma, then, gets dumped on us in two ways. First, it goes into the Akashic Bank, to become what is known as World Karma. Of course, this is just the seeds of karma, known as samskaras or wyrd. Eventually, it manifests in the form of natural disasters that take thousands of lives, religious inquisitions, world wars, poverty, and disease.

Secondly, alien karma gets dumped on us individually, in the after-death state while we are in an astral center awaiting our next incarnation on Earth. The transference occurs from the Akashic Bank (also known as the collective unconscious), to the personal unconscious. Eventually, it manifests in the form of mental and physical handicaps, physical injuries of all types, financial loss, marital problems, and all sorts of mental traumas. This is our allotted karma. It's like banking. World karma sits in reserve in the Akashic Bank, from which Dominion's archangels draw various amounts for transfer into our personal reserve accounts.

Dominion provides a service for his clients who become indebted to him by way of that service. The service is like a loan, or karmic credit, actually. Just as the creditors in our world are the masters over the debtors, Dominion is master over those from whom he transfers karma. They benefit from their escape from karmic debt, but service to Dominion is their preference.

We who are stuck in this hell we call Earth, are made to suffer the karma of a large portion of the Galaxy, but with no benefits whatsoever. Our emotional reactions to all the suffering create more karma, and the cyclic process becomes self-sustaining. Thus, there is a constant supply of emotional energy, as well as psychic, mental and spiritual power from prayers, pleas for mercy, and religious rituals, all sent to Dominion for his empowerment.

My Higher Self helped me to discover the runic formula by which Dominion transfers karma, along with the underlying quantum physics involved in the process. Therefore, I will be able to assist certain people in avoiding the allotted Karma, and probably even send some back to Dominion as well.

CHAPTER: 9

DEVELOPING YOUR INNER POWER

Most often, those who write and teach on the subject of tapping into our inner power, focus on success in business, love and prosperity, whether it be in the gaining of wealth, attaining a life of leisure, or achieving notoriety in sports and entertainment.

There is nothing wrong with such pursuits, but at this time, I am going to place the concept of developing your inner power in the context of escaping hell. At the same time, however, this inner power will allow you to live life more effectively, and the successes you desire will occur as a natural result of your inner development.

Escaping hell, as you've already noticed, involves the processes associated with the esoteric aspects of the spiritual path. We have not labeled it in any specific terms, because at the esoteric level all spiritual paths are in accord with one another, regardless of any variances in cultural techniques and terminology.

The subject of spiritual development has been enshrouded by a barrier of confusion for a very long time now. Students of the spiritual arts have been duped, misguided and kept in the dark, while constantly placing their claim on spirituality. Many have engaged in lifelong pursuits of exactly what is meant by the terms love, transcendence, detachment, desire, enlightenment, Self Realization, and God Realization. Hamingja Consciousness, of course, is an Old Norse term for the “realized individual”, and many an ego has assumed this to be its state of consciousness, while confusing either shamanism or pacifism with the spiritual path.

Escaping hell necessarily involves becoming the master of your destiny; becoming one who possesses an inner strength and wisdom which far surpasses that of the masses that follow someone else like sheep. The spiritual path is a way by which you can know your Self, gain confidence in your ability to direct yourself through life, and establish solid ground for your ethical standards. It’s a way by which you become spiritually mature.

As your lower emotional passions are purified, you will no longer react to situations as one who is controlled by outside influences. This does not mean that you will lack emotion, only that you will act in accordance with what you are willing or unwilling to accept from others, what it takes to establish acceptable relationships, and in accordance with your ethical standards. Under these circumstances, you will not be apologizing on a regular basis, for things done or said out of uncontrolled emotion. You will notice that there is a detached quality to that which you desire, even in the area of sexual relationships, making it easy to live by the ethics you have accepted as being moral.

Detachment will allow you to forsake the lower emotional passions of greed, lust, envy, anger, and undue attachment. A display of what we call anger must be an action, rather than a reaction. In the detached state, one is not left with the customary physical response to anger, as is the case with anger arising from an emotional reaction rooted in one of the lower passions.

As you become the master of your destiny, your view of what constitutes such great significance as to demand all your emotional energy will undergo drastic changes. You will no longer hyperventilate over possible danger, the prospect of love making, or the excitement of an adventure. You will certainly enjoy all those things, but your countenance will take on a quality of calmness, which is generally perceived in terms of spiritual maturity. Rather than the ego causing a whirlwind of emotional activity, the Higher Self will establish a detached state of awareness.

The first key to unlocking your inner power is an inner communication process with the Higher Self, as we discussed in an earlier chapter. Many years ago, I read an old book entitled, "The Magus", in which I was surprised to find a reference to this process of inner communication. In fact, it was suggested that the occultist use his or her source of inner communication in the development of such powers. It is not my intent to promote occultism, but merely to point out the fact that the Higher Self is your key to success in all your endeavors.

The second key to unlocking your inner power is learning how to work effectively with the Higher Self. Most people do not benefit from learning how to utilize their inner communication, because they allow the ego to undermine their process. They react emotionally when an issue arises, taking a stand without first consulting the Higher Self. They feel they don't need to, because the truth of the matter is self evident. They don't even consider the possibility that there could be underlying circumstances unknown to them, or that their view may be clouded by prejudice, fear, or emotional passion.

When they do consult the Higher Self under such circumstances, it is generally for the purpose of asking something like: “should I confront this person”? When they get a yes answer, they assume that their perspective is correct, and that the Higher Self agrees with them. Often, though, the Higher Self wants you to confront someone because by doing so, you will learn a truth that you were unaware of. If you fail to consider such possibilities, and to be specific in your questioning of the Higher Self, there will be unnecessary conflict.

Many people fail to benefit from their inner communication process, because they only utilize it when they feel they need something. First of all, the Higher Self knows what you need much more than the ego does, and is in a better position to provide it. Secondly, this process is not simply for assistance when we want it. This is a path whereby we develop a oneness of consciousness with the Higher Self for the purpose of becoming established in the peace that is commonly associated with the Kingdom of God within.

It is important that we determine what the Higher Self wants us to study, and where we may find either the materials, or the instruction we need. He or she must be able to direct us on a moment-to-moment basis, regarding every situation that arises. Allow the Higher Self to plan your day, every day.

A well known religious admonition which in practice goes largely forgotten is to “be in the world, but not of the world”. I say largely forgotten, because nearly everyone is too busy raising their families, making a living and planning recreational activities to remember. They are busy being of the world.

Some people will argue with me, saying that not being of the world means not to indulge in the “sinful” activities of the world; but we must consider the fact that any aspect of life that interferes with that which is required in escaping hell, should be considered in that same light. We live in this world, but in order not to be of the world, we must surrender our life to the Higher Self. This is what it means to walk in the spirit.

Such surrender is conducive to mastery over our own destiny, because it is a surrender of the self to the Self. In his book, “Living With the Himalayan Masters”, Swami Rama includes a section entitled: Meditation through self-surrender, where he describes the same process that I am talking about. Following, is a quotation from what he wrote, interspersed with comments of my own:

“There is one method of Yoga in which neither postures nor techniques of concentration and meditation are involved. This is self–surrender, the highest of all the Yogas. The twentieth-century age Sri Aurobino and his followers call self–surrender ‘Integral Yoga’. It is described by Lord Krishna in the eighteenth chapter of the Bhagavad–Gita. According to this method one should surrender the body, mind, intellect, and ego entirely to the ultimate reality in order to bring down into one’s daily life the peace, purity, truth, consciousness, and bliss of the supreme Self”.

He goes on to explain that the peace referred to is a peace which permeates all aspects of life. It fuses our mind, actions, and speech, keeping us balanced and harmonized. He states further, that purity means to accept no influence other than the influence of the divine.

At this point, allow me to point out the fact that Swami Rama uses seven different terms in reference to the Higher Self throughout his writings.

These are: 1. The Ultimate Reality; 2. Supreme Self; 3. The Divine; 4. Innermost Consciousness; 5. The Atman; 6. Divine Force; and 7. The Self.

In continuing, he states: “Two other qualities of action characterize the life of the aspirant whose method is self–surrender: faithfulness and sincerity. Faithfulness is to admit and to manifest no movement other than that which is prompted and guided by the innermost consciousness. Sincerity requires the lifting of all movements of mind, body, and action to the level of the highest consciousness, where there is no individuality, duality, or body consciousness. Sincerity is the unification and harmonization of man around that one central will, the divinity through which we speak, hear, think and feel”.

Finding the Kingdom of God within as Christ recommended, then, is what it means to be in the world, but not of the world. Swami Rama says:

“For example, consider the life of an unenlightened man. He lives in the world much like an animal, expressing only his own mind, action, and speech, satisfying only his own wants and desires. An enlightened man, on the other hand, establishes himself in divinity and then brings forward that divinity from the innermost place inside himself, expressing it through mind, action, and speech. This is a sacred process, but it does not require any effort other than self–surrender”.

The concept of living in the world but not being of the world, then, takes on much greater significance in this context, than it does in the context of simply obeying a few rules.

We do not develop our inner power by spending our entire lives obeying the rules established by those who have assumed authority over us. When we accept an outside authority higher than the Higher Self, and pray to a deity figure outside ourselves, we direct all our spiritual, mental and psychic power to that outside authority, rather than developing it within ourselves. This is Dominion's trap, and it can easily prevent us from escaping hell.

Dominion has established his trap through occult powers manifesting in the media, educational authority, religious authority, and political authority, both national and global. The cloaking quality is maintained by the fact that these powers have established themselves through a wide variety of channels, such as: The Order of the Golden Dawn, Skull and Bones, Freemasonry, and a myriad of other orders and societies descended from the Priore de Sion, including all the major and minor religious institutions.

Although we must subject ourselves to a certain amount of this authority in order to live in the world, it is not yet required that we honor that authority. Due to the use of occult powers, however, there is a strong tendency for people to honor the outside authority as established by Dominion.

Therefore, we must focus inward, and honor only the divinity within – the Higher Self. These last three paragraphs are a bit strong, but I don't think it's enough to get me killed.

Those who wish to establish their inner power must realize that they will be drained of that power by the occult forces of this world if they do not adequately protect their inner sanctums. As I stated before, those who are already adept, may establish their own protection in this regard; otherwise, those who begin the discourses and/or attend a workshop will receive that protection as a matter of course.

Personal responsibility enters the picture at this point, because the protection of our inner sanctums must be maintained. This means that regular participation in the receiving and study of the discourses may be indicated, as well as regular communication and communion with the Higher Self. In other words, the path must be walked.

In addition, the excessive use of drugs and alcohol weakens the auric field, and tends to dissolve the protective shield, making one vulnerable to outside forces. This does not mean that moderate alcohol consumption must be avoided, but drunkenness is a very detrimental practice. Of course, prescription drugs are just as dangerous as the illicit variety.

Finally, we must strive to avoid emotional entanglements of an egoistic nature. This includes control issues, the need for attention from others, greed issues, and sexual concerns.

When we excite the passions of others by attempting to control them in some way, we become embroiled in a struggle of egos. The same thing occurs when we react emotionally to the control mechanisms of others.

When we require the attention of others, we are establishing a collective reserve of emotional energy which demands, eventually, our dependency on the collective unconscious which is under Dominion's power.

When we give in to greed issues, we are focused outward, subjecting ourselves to, and empowering the lower passions which have the potential of ripping down the protective shield in a matter of hours.

During sexual intercourse, we entangle our auric fields with those of our partners. Those who are either aligned with, or controlled by the occult powers can cause the demise of your spiritual path in this way. Therefore, we are to have no sexual encounters other than those that are authorized by the Higher Self.

By protecting the inner power we develop, Dominion's occult forces will not have the power to keep us from realizing the divinity within; they will not have the power to prevent our attainment of spiritual freedom, and they will not have the power to thwart our escape from hell.

In an earlier chapter, I discussed just briefly, the fact that Dominion's archangels placed allotted karma upon us during a previous stay in an astral center. Sometimes our inability to achieve all that we would like to achieve in life, is due to this allotted karma, while other times, it is due to that which rightfully belongs to us. Developing our inner power is actually a matter of coming to terms with the Higher Self, and meeting his or her requirements for manifesting that which we either need or desire in life; so we should realize, then, that the Higher Self can assist us in taking control of our destiny through the release of Dominion's constraints. As for our own karma which has been incurred naturally, the Higher Self can see to its purification, and in this way, our destiny is changed. Developing our inner power is one thing, but keeping it is certainly another, as we have seen.

At this time, I feel the need to dispel the illusion of wisdom and stature which so easily overcomes us when we realize our potential in transcending that which in the past has always kept us deaf, dumb and blind. The next chapter will serve as a foundation for our development beyond the confines of hell, so it is all about creation. Before we come to it, however, I want to warn the reader that it is highly technical. I don't expect many people to comprehend very much of it, nor do I think that it constitutes any great masterpiece. Allow me to explain.

Dominion has kept us trapped here for a very long time, separated in consciousness from the Higher Self. Our I.Qs are extremely low in comparison to those living elsewhere in the universe (outside hell), and we believe in simple fairy tails. We can increase our vibratory frequencies, purify the seeds of karma, purify the lower emotional passions, release our psychic time loops, and defeat all of Dominion's traps. We can escape hell, but of what use will we be in the universe? Considering our low I.Qs, and our lack of knowledge, we are like retarded children. Please don't try to tell me that the "R" word is politically incorrect, and that I should have used the phrase mentally challenged. The word retarded is a legitimate term to be used in reference to any form of retarded development, whether we are referring to physically retarded development, a retarded spark in a distributor, spiritual retardation, educational retardation, or mental retardation.

When a retarded child is born here on Earth, adults must care for it throughout its entire life. In the rest of the universe, people understand quantum physics, and they operate with very high I.Qs. Just a simple working-class Zeta Gray has an average I.Q. of at least 250 or better. The Nefilim, Anunnaki, Dracos, Andromies, and others are of greater mental stature than they are. Most of humanity on Earth cannot even comprehend their existence. To them, we are just animals. How can we expect to escape hell, and then function effectively, beyond the third dimensional realm? Could an ape escape his zoo, then fit into our society?

Imagine a baby trying to crawl across a busy freeway, totally incapable of comprehending the technology it is dealing with. Without knowledge of quantum physics as they relate to that which has been created, we won't comprehend the technology that we are dealing with either.

The Higher Self is of extreme importance to us in this regard, because he or she can, if we remain diligent, gradually increase our I.Q. to about 250 or 300. In addition, we can be guided to sources of information we require, and taught things beyond those sources, by the Higher Self.

I wrote "Creation" solely by the grace of my Higher Self, after many years studying the things he told me to study. At the same time however, I realize that as far as creation goes, my work is extremely deficient. Elsewhere in the universe, it would compare to an explanation from a children's book.

My purpose for including "Creation" in this book is to provide a basis for understanding the universe and the phenomena to be encountered outside this hell created for us by Dominion. There is more to be learned in some of my discourses and workshops, but understanding things in terms of creation will allow you to be taken after your escape, to a place where you can be educated. Being one with your Higher Self will allow you to grasp that which is taught to you. Don't think that you will be turned loose in the universe, just because you escaped hell.

Read the chapter on creation carefully, with the realization that you can refer back to it as you develop and grow on the path, and as your I.Q. gradually increases. We don't have to be retarded children in the universe when we have use of the Higher Self.

CHAPTER: 10

Creation

When we think of creation, we naturally think in terms of that which has been created, or the process by which things are manifested. Christians do not even question the creation by god, accepting a story that provides a six-day chronology, without revealing anything whatsoever, about the creative process.

The Norse myths provide a brief outline of creation in terms of fire and ice, with the gods and goddesses being part of that creation. In actuality, the creation of the Norse Gods constitutes an allegory describing our escape from hell. This is the creation of our path home, to a place beyond this 3rd dimensional realm where we have been trapped within the cycles of births and deaths. The so-called gods and goddesses were actually our ancestors who were deified for mythological purposes.

Any creative process must by necessity, involve quantum mechanics. Toward such an understanding, we will explore that which constitutes the creative process, as well as that which facilitates it.

As I've stated already, the original source of creation was known by our ancient ancestors as the "All"; but when our esoteric tradition had to go underground, Odin, as Chief of the Æsir, was elevated to the status of "Allfather." Due to the Christian Inquisition and the murder of our ancient Vitkar, Odin is all that remains today, of our people's concept of a God, along with the remainder of a pantheon which ranks under him.

I dislike the use of the term God, however, because it carries with it, the connotation of a humanoid being with infinite power, who rewards his creations when they please him, and condemns them to eternal punishment when he gets angry. This, as we know, is Dominion.

The “All,” on the other hand, is everything—both inner and outer. Since everything in existence came about essentially from an expansive thought which gained momentum and became Light, there is nothing, then, which exists independently of the source of that thought. Everything is part and parcel of the “All.” The “All” is in everything (inner aspect); the “All” is everything (outer aspect). Being beyond everything, the “All” is that which is, that which was, and that which will always be.

Through expansive thought, the “All” split itself into its component parts, Light quanta and Sound quanta. Light is first, being of conscious awareness, which constitutes primordial thought. Sound is a magnification of the Light, and produces a matrix for potential manifestations.

The “All”, then, is the source of the first Light and Sound particles, making it the original source of quanta or creation in our universe, as well as that of the other universes revolving around “It.” Definitions:

1. Quanta                    the plural form of quantum
2. Quantum                a discrete quantity of energy proportional in magnitude to a particular frequency of radiation, and corresponding to a single photon or to a transition of an atom between energy states.

It is said that four hydrogen atoms are photosynthesized by the sun, with one helium atom, to make quanta. Now, to understand the significance of this statement, let's consider the definition of an atom: "An extremely small part, quantity, or amount. A unit of matter, the smallest unit of an element, having all the characteristics of that element and consisting of a dense, positively charged nucleus surrounded by a system of electrons."

Hydrogen		Helium
Atomic No.	= 1	Atomic No.	=2
Symbol	= H	Symbol	=He
Atomic Weight	= 1.00794	Atomic Weight	= 4.0026

Atomic Weight: The average mass of an atom of an element, usually given relative to carbon 12, which is assigned a mass of 12.

All matter in the universe is formed of particles. Atoms are composed (in this 3rd dimensional realm) of heavy particles in the nucleus, with light electrons orbiting around the outside. The particles are discrete units, or quanta; and the theory describing how these particles behave, is quantum theory. The question is this:

How can atoms be combined to form something we know to be subatomic? Atoms form molecules when they are combined; not subatomic particles, or even quanta. Furthermore, creation occurs in the dimensional realms of higher vibratory frequency, as well. As I have written elsewhere, the atomic structure of matter in those realms is not the same as that of our 3rd dimensional realm. How is quanta created there, then?

The fact is that the sun exists as a microcosm to a macrocosm which we discussed above, as being the “All.” Our sun is comprised of radiation and gases, or elements, which are comprised of molecules and atoms; which in turn, are comprised of quanta.

The sun disperses quanta through its expansion and contraction cycles, but it does not combine its own hydrogen and helium as the elements we detect, in making quanta. Our sun is merely a “vehicle” through which quanta is released—the quanta itself, originating with the “All,” which exists outside our universe.

As I stated above, an expansion of thought created Light quanta. Likewise, the “All” creates Sound quanta during a contraction cycle. This contraction cycle constitutes a magnification of the Light, which is why we say that Sound is a magnification of the Light.

As a conduit, our sun releases quanta as its gases either expand or contract. In the case of expansion, Light quanta are thrown outward, whereas in the case of contraction, sound quanta are squeezed out like a sponge expelling water.

Cycles of expansion produce quanta which carry a light frequency that is directly related to the gas of their origin, and which produce a color on what is called the Light spectrum.

Cycles of contraction produce quanta which carry a vibratory frequency that is directly related to the gas of their origin, and which share the spectrum with Light quanta. This is Sound quanta.

There are nineteen cycles of contracting gaseous states, and seventeen cycles of expanding gaseous states, perpetually creating quanta, which are required for the cyclic patterns of creation, growth, destruction and renewal. Expansion and contraction of the sun goes on simultaneously, because its structure involves many energy emitting gases, all of which expand and contract in accordance with each one's unique elemental makeup.

Nineteen cycles of contraction opposing seventeen cycles of expansion are required to balance the inequality which naturally exists between these two activities. Each set of 19 + 17 cycles constitutes a cycle in and of itself. The minor cycles each relate to a particular physical property which can be manipulated by prodding the entangled twin of a particular particle. Shortly, we will be discussing the universal forces we know as Runic Forces. These are extensions of the "All"; but just briefly, let me say that the combined efforts of two Runes: Ánsur - ᚦ and Thurisar - ᚢ, serve the "All's" purpose in prodding entangled twins. Please note that I am using here, the Old Norse form of the Runes.

This concept of entangled twins has its foundation in quantum theory, with entanglement being its defining trait. For a functional understanding, we must be able to perceive: 1) How the cycles of expansion and contraction operate harmoniously, and 2) Just what it is we mean by particular physical properties.

For the most part, for each cycle of expansion, there is one of contraction. However, since the expansion cycle is slightly more active, we have two contraction cycles after the eighth expansion, and two contraction cycles after the sixteenth expansion. Graphically speaking, it looks like this:

Expansion: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17

Contraction: 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 (8—9) 10 11 12 13 14 15 (16—17) 18 19

Evolution occurs on the cycles of expansion, and devolution occurs on the cycles of contraction. Therefore, evolution and devolution follow each other in a cyclic pattern, while seventeen physical properties are affected, one at a time. The physical properties being referenced are as follows:

1. Level of consciousness	9. Quality of Momentum
2. Nature of consciousness	10. Nature of Momentum
3. Level of Intelligence	11. Level of Experience
4. Nature of Intelligence	12. Nature of Experience
5. Level of Strength	13. Quality of Light
6. Nature of Strength	14. Intensity of Light
7. State of Being	15. Quantity of Sound
8. Quality of Being	16. Vibratory Harmony to the Sound Current
	17. Position on the Light/Sound Spectrum

Since the “All” exists outside our universe, “It” may be perceived as the “Root of all life through time.” In fact it has been said that: “The ‘All’ is like time, but this concept should not be confused with the manifestation of time. All time is here and now, within the ‘All.’”

All of life is made up of Light and Sound which, within the “All,” are all in one. In the “All,” all things are combined, then. For this reason, Odin said: “The ‘All’ can only be hinted at; ‘It’ can never be put into words. ‘It’ only expresses itself; and when it does so, the expression is . . . ‘All’ or ‘Everything.’”

As quanta, Sound and Light constitute particles smaller than those making up atoms. They are units of electro-tonal energy-identity, called Partiki. The Sound is particum, and the Light is partika—together, they are Partiki, and do not become dichotomized until their manifestation in the material worlds of dualism. This is multidimensional Light-Sound consciousness, serving as the organizational and mechanical life-force of all intelligence, and its many manifestations. Since everything has its existence in the “All,” everything is of this consciousness—everything in existence possesses consciousness, regardless of how rudimentary it may be.

Given its impetus from the “All,” Partiki travels from that source, to the universe, finally entering our solar system through the sun. The motion of the Partiki as it travels through the mass of its own structure, causes a “roiling,” which produces friction, magnification, and expansion. Within the highest vibratory frequencies of the universe called the spiritual planes, Sound and Light are expressed in unison, by tonal frequency. Qualified on the Sound/Light spectrum, color and sound always accompany one another in those realms.

The spiritual realms are separated from the material worlds of dualism, by a Great Abyss, often referred to as the Void. This is an area of pure Sound through which, the Partiki must pass in its movement throughout all dimensions of the universe, as it both creates and maintains it. As the Partiki passes through the Void, it is split into its component parts of Sound and Light, with Sound forming a matrix upon which, manifested creation occurs, as Light passes through it. This, in and of itself, constitutes a part of creation, which results from what we call the Higher Will.

The primal manifestation of this Higher Will, are the Runic Lights of Existence. Being the first expressions of the “All,” they can be said to constitute the very fabric of existence. Collectively, they lend substance, structure, and stability to the Cosmological Code. We’ll get to this code in a minute, but first allow me to explain a little more regarding the Runic Lights.

Since enemies of the “All” have established a false system, my explanation must necessarily describe that one as well. The “New Age” movement is guided by those who are attempting to control the spiritual evolution of humankind. They teach of what they call the “Seven Rays,” and have even placed a so-called “Lord” or “Cohan” over each one. In actuality, these rays are only emanations of the Runic “Lights” of Existence, and there are nine of them—not seven. In addition, the descriptions of these rays/lights have been distorted to conform to a tradition dedicated to misleading those who are finding their way out of hell.

First of all, there were never any entities designated as “Lords” over the Runic Lights of Existence. These Lights are special emissaries of the “All.” As direct extensions, they need not, and cannot be overseen by sentient humanoid beings, regardless of any being’s supposed stature among mankind.

Secondly, the New Age movement has distorted the original concepts, omitted the colors gold and orange, and turned red into pink. It is significant that the orange light is responsible for organization in the universe, while the gold is a direct manifestation of the “All,” Itself. Could it be, then, that those controlling the New Age movement are the agents of chaos in our universe? As it turns out, this is indeed the case.

Following, is a basic description of the 7 rays as they commonly appear:

Ray	Color	Meaning	Lord/Cohan
1 st Ray	Blue	Strength and resiliency	Master Morya
2 nd Ray	Yellow	Wisdom	Lord Lanto
3 rd Ray	Pink	Love	Lady Nada
4 th Ray	White	Purity/embodies all other rays	Serapis Bey
5 th Ray	Green	Healing	Hilarian
6 th Ray	Purple	Revelation	Paul the Venetian
7 th Ray	Violet	Freedom/warrior	St. Germain

Following are the Runic Lights:

	Color	Rune	Meaning
1 st	Gold	 <sub>B</sub>	Higher Will/Represents the "All"
2 nd	Blue	 <sub>L</sub>	Light (quanta)
3 rd	Red	 <sub>S</sub>	Sound (quanta)
4 th	Violet	 <sub>B</sub>	Balance of Sound & Light/ transformation
5 th	White	 <sub>S</sub>	Embodies all other lights/ Interdimensional links
6 th	Purple	 <sub>L</sub>	Life energy
7 th	Green	 <sub>L</sub>	Regeneration
8 th	Orange	 <sub>S</sub>	Organization
9 th	Yellow	 <sub>B</sub>	Unified Whole/Oneness of all creation

As I stated above, the Runic Lights lend substance, structure and stability to the Cosmological Code, which is the structure of, and the impetus for the energetic effectuation of creation, structure, and evolution.

As can be seen above, nine Rune staves carry one each, of the Runic Lights. These Runes, though, are only nine out of twenty-four, total. All twenty-four make up the Cosmological Code, and establish what is called Cosmology.

Therefore, we first have the Runic Lights as extensions of the “All;” then we have the Cosmological Code, followed by Runic Cosmology, which is the actualization of creation, structure and evolution; and finally, we have the establishment of the elements of existence.

In order to understand the Cosmological Code(s), we must first understand Runic Correlation. As extensions of the “All,” the Runes constitute the forces of the universe, as we know. The twenty-four Runes of the Elder Futhark are listed in three Ættir. The first Ætt is that of creation; the second is the structure of the universe; and the third is evolution, which relates to the cycles of creation/birth, growth and renewal:

Creation	Structure	Evolution
ƿ Feyhju	ᚱ Hagalar	↑ Tivar
ᚱ Urur (U)	ᚦ Náthir	ᚷ Björkan
ᚦ Thurisar	ᚠ Isar (I)	ᚱ Ehstí (E)
ᚱ Ánsur (A)	ᚷ Jara	ᚱ Manar

ᚱ Reinu	ᚷ Ævar	ᚦ Lákar
ᚨ Kánkennu	ᚫ Pethro	ᚩ Ingvar
ᚷ Gebor	ᚷ Algir	ᚫ Daku
ᚱ Vunjo	ᚷ Solí	ᚩ Othalar (O)

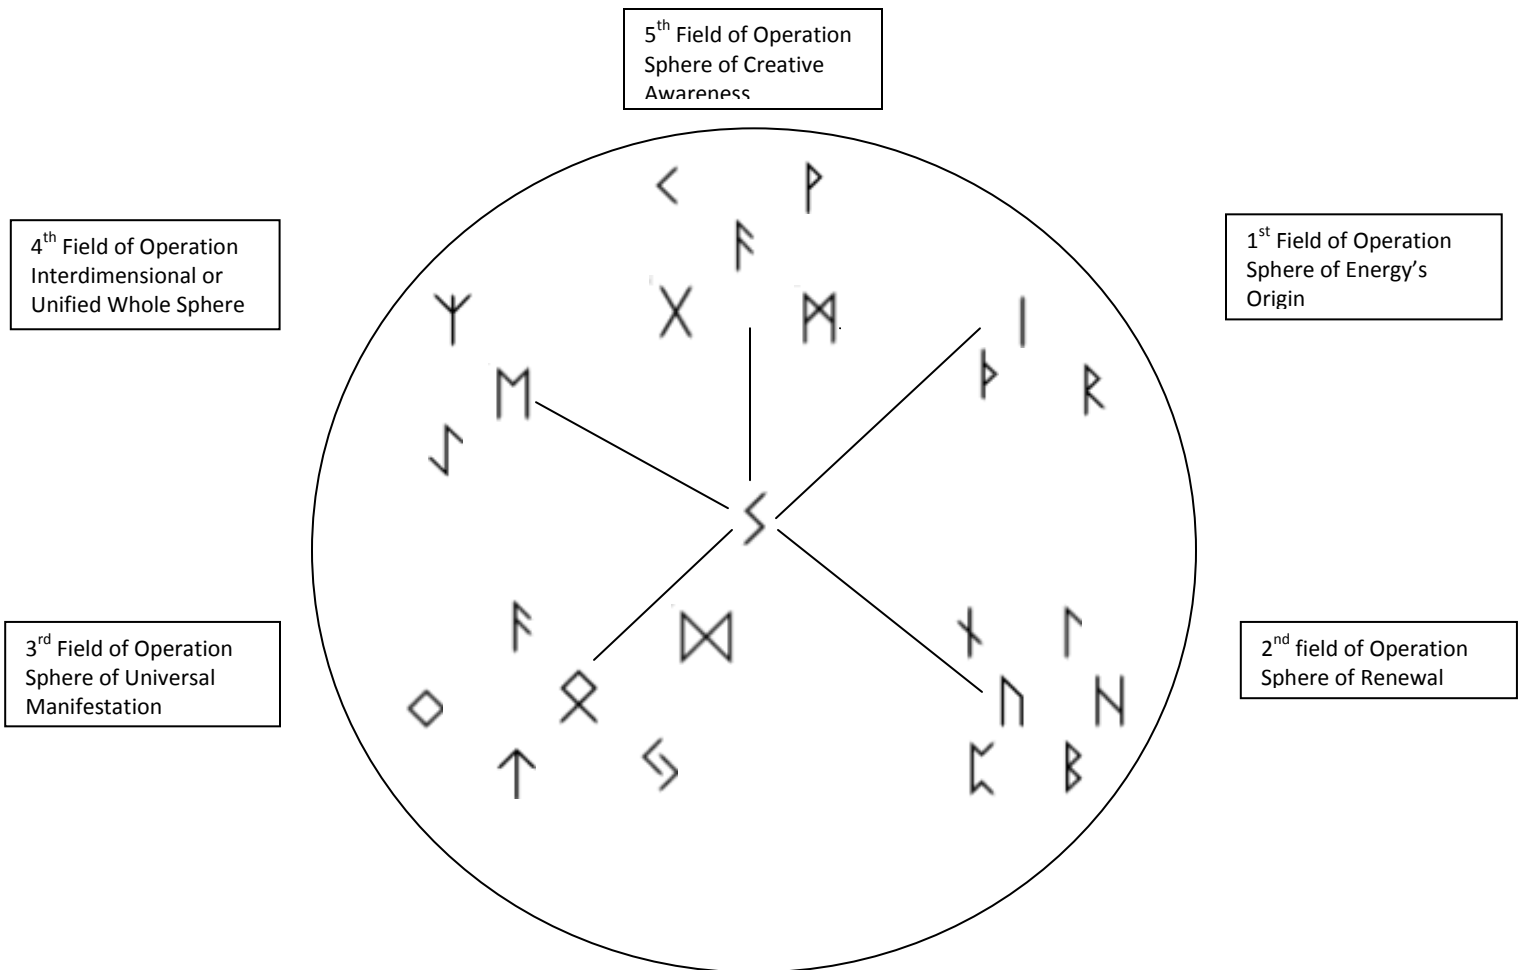

These categories are of significance in conceptualizing the role each Rune plays in the context of its general concepts and esoteric aspects; but as we shall see, they all play a role in creation.

By way of correlation, we will come to understand runic functions, and thus, to gain a conceptual awareness of how it is that the “All,” through these universal forces, effectuates not only creation, but also every other function in the universe.

As vowels in any language cement all words together to form a phonetic cohesiveness, so too, do the vowel Runes of the Elder Futhark ( ᚱ, ᚱ, ᚱ, ᚩ, ᚱ, ᚱ) cement it together into a cohesive working whole, with Solí as the axis.

The Runes represent, then, what can be termed “The Magical Language of the Universe,” with Solí lending its support to each of the vowel Runes, or “primaries” as we often refer to them. This “language” is how the “All” communicates itself to us. Through an understanding of each Rune’s function, and through runic attunement, the initiate on the path not only gathers information on the proper use of the Runes, but also learns how to properly communicate with the “All.”

The Runic Correlation Chart is divided into five spheres of influence with each set of Runes connected to the primary through mode of operation:

Runic Correlation has its application to our development on the path of enlightenment and transcendence, but what we are looking for here, is its application to “creation.” Each sphere is based on a primary Rune, which in turn, receives its objective from Solif.

| - Isar's objective as the primary Rune in the sphere of Energy's origin is to manifest the basis upon which creation is founded, and to still the energies of her two very powerful satellites, when required.

Light is first, and self-perpetuating. Isar controls, because she magnifies Light. The only Runic forces she does not control are those of Solí, because he is the direct extension of the "All," which is the source of Light.

Although Isar controls all the other Runes, the most interesting relationship of this nature, is her control of Thurisar - 𐌚. As the 3rd Runic Light which is red, he embodies the subatomic structure of all existence, which is Sound. Therefore, one might reason that Thurisar is out of the realm of Light, and therefore, remains autonomous. Isar's energetic connection, however, is through Sound, since she embodies both Light and Sound. She controls Thurisar through her ability to magnify more or less Light, which he depends on for his manifestation. The Sound Matrix, after all, is but a magnification of Light.

Isar's other satellite is Reinu - 𐌹, who directs all movement in the universe. The ongoing creation manifesting in all evolutionary processes, then, is entirely under his direction. Reinu provides the vehicle when we are accessing either the past, or the future time tracks.

As an individual power, he maintains his own rhythm independently of outside forces, which makes him the director of all movement in the universe. He, who controls rhythmic structures, controls the direction of movement. This principle can be seen in music, where the rhythmic structure carried by the rhythm section of a band determines the movements of the other instruments. This power, coupled with Reinu's independent access to both past and future, provides him with the power to alter the cycles of time and manifestation.

Isar represents the present aspect of universal structure, or "that which is becoming." Thus, she embodies the unstable ground of transition between the past and future, and has the power to control Reinu's manipulations of the cycles of time and manifestation, by stilling the passage of time.

ᚏ - Urur's objective as the primary Rune in the sphere of renewal is to determine and organize the nature, intent, and shape of all the realms of various vibratory frequencies in the universe, all the types of matter associated with those realms, and all their manifested structures, including sentient beings.

As the 8th Runic Light which is orange, he organizes all patterns of the universe, which are established by Solí. Hagalar - ᚏ provides the force which becomes the pattern, making him the "Primal Crystal." This is the foundation of all creation, then, after the establishment of the Sound Matrix/Current. This is also the primal archetype which lends itself to the renewal of all structures in the universe.

Renewal begins with the "Need Rune," which is Náthir - ᚏ. Embodying the concept of future possibilities, he empowers all energetic structures with strength, the will to acquire, and a propensity for attainment, which is the foundation of all that which brings renewal.

As the 6th Runic Light which is purple, Lákar - ᚏ provides life energy, by unlocking the passageways from dimension-to-dimension, throughout the universe. Since all life forms are constructs of Partiki, all life energy, then, is conscious. Lákar is the medium for the passage of events through the ever-evolving constructs of life energy, and thus, he controls the events which all life forms experience. In other words, we receive renewal by receiving life energy which is conscious, as we are conscious beings of life energy, ourselves. This is the highest level of the principle that in order for one life-form to survive, another must become its sustenance. In reality, no life-form ever ceases to exist.

We witness this universal principle every day of our lives as nature moves through its cycles. Every beast, bird, fish, plant, and mineral exists within the food chain, at one level or another. In order for humans to live, some other species—even if it's only a plant—must die.

Religions have programmed us to view this phenomenon in negative terms. Some teach that to kill for one's own sustenance is wrong, while others condone sustenance, while denouncing the killing of others for safety reasons. Most allow killing as long as it is necessary, especially if it is sanctioned by government; but they still possess a fear of "God's wrath," if they make the decision themselves. They maintain the idea that "God" looks upon killing with disfavor, and would rather have total peace and harmony (take, for example, the Christian prophecy of the lion and the lamb lying down together, as though such constitutes God's true will). In reality, as I stated above, no life-form ever dies; therefore, no life-form is ever missed by the "All." To view the physical body as being the life-form we know is to err. Even the life-form, or intelligence making up each cell of the body, is released as the form decays, but never really dies.

Renewal also implies corrective measures intended to provide guidance toward that which would constitute renewal, as opposed to degeneration.

Pethro - ᚱ, therefore, provides the principle of Ørlög, or Karma, which is often referred to in terms of fate. This principle, regardless of how rudimentary its manifestation may be, forms the structure of experience for all forms of life, from the mineral kingdom, up.

Our Ørlög is the manifestation of energies we have harbored, which our Norse ancestors called “wyrd.” By reshaping our wyrd on a daily basis, Björkan - ᚷ provides a cyclic pattern for our inner development. In this way, she embodies the cycles of birth, growth and renewal.

⚡ - Othalar’s objective as the Primary Rune in the Sphere of Universal Manifestation is to provide the power required for all runic activities and their manifestations. Her very stable, electric charge is used in bind with Ingvar – ⚡ for creating electromagnetic fields of energy required for the manifestation of all creation.

Ingvar provides for all genetic structures and makes all connections to the Sound Matrix, while Othalar maintains and/or increases vibratory frequencies as required in all evolutionary processes. Ingvar also establishes the Sound Matrix through which, Othalar increases the frequency of Light in forming the DNA template responsible for all temporal manifestations.

The power which caused the ordered universe to come into existence is known as Feyhju - . All things in the universe are made from a combination of Sound and Light, which she embodies. This makes Feyhju the primordial fire of creation. As a universal force, she provides a vehicle for the expression of the Higher Will.

As the 4th Runic Light which is violet, Tivar -  provides a balance of Sound and Light, which allows for transformation in all ways, and on all levels. Light and Sound are sub-units of crystalline morphogenetic substance, which serve as the blueprints for all manifested creation. When balanced, then, manifested creations are able to transform as required, in adapting to evolutionary changes.

Jara - , which is the 2nd Runic Light (Blue), embodies the light aspect of creation. As her Light passes through the Sound Matrix, the potential manifestations materialize, and all things, including time are manifested. Jara establishes both, the elements of Light, and the cyclic pattern inherent throughout all of creation; thus, she governs the galactic cycles of the zodiac, as well as the planetary cycles of the seasons.

As the planets move around the sun in accord with the galactic and solar cycles, so does the illusion of time manifest through the seasons which result from the cyclic movement of the planets in our solar system. Moreover, Sound is a loop. Jara establishes time as her Light passes through the Sound Matrix, establishing time on the matrix. Time, then, is also a loop.

The cyclic processes established by Jara, are administered by Daku - ☒ , as he brings one cyclic process to a close, and allows for a smooth transition into another. Many people are aware of the concept of the “River of Life,” which embodies the souls of eternal existence. Daku, however, embodies a more transcendental concept called the “River of Time.” This river embodies the eternal existence experienced by vital souls. An explanation follows:

All life can be viewed as a droplet of water rushing with the current. Time seems to pass by, but the current remains the same. The droplet remains in the moment of being, or the ever-present here and now. As this present moment continually passes away, awareness of being is always new. Therefore, all life occurs in a moment of time. As the water droplet is perceived in the moment of being, the moment of being itself, is perceived at the point between light and dark. This is where all space and time meet in the here and now.

☒ - Ebstí’s objective as the Primary Rune in the Sphere of the Unified Whole, is to establish all of creation as one unified whole, and to provide a basis for the Interdimensional links which maintain the unified whole.

As the 5th Runic Light which is white, Ebstí performs this duty, establishing the oneness of all creation, known otherwise, as the Odinic Principle. To understand Odin in a transcendental sense, we must come to terms with three perceptions:

- A. The perception of reality beyond the cycles of time and manifestation.
- B. A perception of the passage of events as ever-evolving constructs of life-

Energy.

C. A perception of Sound in terms of transition through perceptual awareness, and as the vehicle of conscious experience of varying spacial phenomena which, in reality, all share the same space and time.

Before examining these three aspects in greater detail, allow me first, to clarify my use of the phrase, perceptual awareness. This is not a redundancy, but rather a means by which the seemingly inexplicable may be explained. As we know, to be aware of something is to have knowledge or cognizance—to be mindful of it. To perceive, we know, is to become aware through the senses. However, my use of the term involves a psychic, or even spiritual sense, rather than one of the five standard senses through which we normally gain perception. For this reason, I separate the terms perception and awareness, in order to emphasize the fact of a perception which transcends awareness, and adds an unusual element of cognizance to it.

A: Odin exists in part, as the perceptual awareness of the cycles of time and manifestation. These involve the cycles of days, months, seasons, and years, which manifest changes in weather, temperature, and nature's other processes. They manifest the effects of life experiences, chemical chain reactions, and age.

Reality beyond these cycles is perceived in the awareness that whatever we want to exist, or "be," already exists within us as the within aspect of the "All." The principle that the entire universe is within us, applies to all conditions and situations, as well as to time and space. We cannot take control of this fact, however, until spiritual purification is complete.

We learn through shamanic travel, that we can experience the reality of other worlds, as well as other times, through our own inner sanctums. Therefore, unlike those whose consciousnesses are captivated by the cycles of time and manifestation, we can perceive the reality beyond.

B: Each moment of being changes at the speed of light. Each abrupt change facilitates a power surge that we have come to know as “The Power of Light.”

As we also know, objects, emotions and mental constructs associated with events, maintain an existence within the overall Sound Matrix. These constitute constructs of life-energy, because everything in existence is constructed of quanta, which are units of electro-tonal energy-identity. This is how it can be said that God exists in everything, and at the same time, we are all a part of God. This is the “oneness of all creation.”

Perceiving everything in the “All”—even events as consciousness, allows us to perceive the passage of events as ever-evolving constructs of life-energy.

C: I reiterate: Because all places and times exist within the Sound Matrix, everything is connected. Variances in tonal frequency and vibratory consonance provide the appearance of what we call here and there; but we transcend this illusion through the experience of bilocation, where we perceive other places, while maintaining body consciousness.

These three perceptions constitute an understanding of Odin in a transcendental sense, which is required for our understanding of creation, and that which is created. This is the Odinic principle, which operates through the Rune and Runic Light we know as Ehstí. In this way, all of creation is established as one unified whole.

The key to a timeless view of life is found in Ævar - √ . To understand life and death as a key to this view (for Ævar represents life and death), we must first understand the paradox of life and death:

“Reincarnation is a cyclic process of Life and death; but accessing the Inner Worlds reveals the reality
That life is death, and death is life.”

The interconnectedness of all experiences and events throughout our existence is a reality which could not be, if the past and future did not have their existence in the here and now.

When we travel out of the body shamanically, we realize that we are . . . even without the body. When we access the inner worlds, we realize that life exists aside from this 3rd dimensional realm, and that we have many life experiences in the past, as well as in the future. Thus, it becomes evident that life is death, and death is life, that although we experience death in one respect (that of the body), in reality, we never die. Life, then, is timeless and vast.

Ævar serves a special function for the “All,” by providing “contact points” throughout space/time. These contact points establish an energetic link-up for every particle in the universe, which accounts for the fact observed by quantum physicists, of particles separated by many miles, nevertheless affecting one another. This also accounts for so-called miraculous and timely occurrences which are often viewed as the “hand of God” in our personal matters. These are “Interdimensional Links,” and could be considered the “hand of God,” since the Runic forces are extensions of the “All.”

Algir - ƿ reveals the timeless nature of life as we explore his structure as the inner aspect of all that which exists without. The paradox is stated thusly: “Whatever is without is also within.”

All the vast planes of the universes, although having their existence in an empirical sense, also exist within us, as our inner worlds. This has to do with the nature of the “All” who is both within and without. It is accurate to say, then, that the entire universe is contained within us. As an extension of the “All”—which is everything—the universal force we know as Algir, expresses and maintains this very important aspect of creation.

The foregoing analysis of the Cosmological Code as regards the Interdimensional, or Unified Whole Sphere, provides us with the understanding that creation involves more than just the manifestation of our “sense-world.” It involves the normally unperceived reality of forces which establish the phenomena that shape our reality, but which we are never aware of.

ᚦ - Ánsur’s objective as the Primary Rune in the Sphere of Creative Awareness is to express the electro-tonal energy-identity within a manifested form, in order that it may begin to gain experience in the material worlds of dualism. This is the higher aspect of the self, which our Norse ancestors called the Hamingja. We, as a physical consciousness, of course, are made up of material from the Mental, Causal, Astral, and Physical Planes of Existence.

Each cell, of which our bodies are comprised, contains a particle of electro-tonal energy-identity; but if our Hamingja were to depart, and break all connections, all the cells (the body), as well as the physical consciousness would die.

Ánsur, as a universal force, is our bridge to the “All.” Likewise, he is the source of adhesion for the subtle forces which allow formation of the elements. As such, he maintains the coalescence of existence in general, quantific processes in particular, and ultimately the expansive thought we call “creative energy,” “creative awareness,” or “consciousness.”

Without this source of adhesion and the resulting coalescence, dichotomies would fragment quantific structures before they could coalesce into patterns of thought, causation, and elemental force. There would be no creative awareness. Therefore, even the phenomenon of gravity owes its manifestation to the Rune Ánsur, ultimately.

Allow me to diverge for a moment, because gravity is part of creation, and must therefore, be discussed. It is one of those forces in operation which cannot be called by a Rune-name, or even attributed to just one Rune. I’ll begin this discussion with a few definitions:

Induction – 2. [The process of electrical attraction] electric induction, magnetic induction, see electro-magnetic action.

Magnetism—A physical phenomenon produced by the motion of electric charge, which results in attractive and repulsive forces between objects.

Morphogenetic Field—The electromagnetic field encompassing planetary bodies, which is responsible for all evolutionary, energetic and elemental processes and forces.

Magnetic Field—A region around a magnetic material, or a moving electric charge within which the force of magnetism acts. Morphogenetic fields fall into this category.

Harmonic—of or relating to musical harmony or harmonics

Integument—A natural outer covering, such as the skin, or seed coat

These dimensions (13-15) constitute the 5th Harmonic Universe, known as the spiritual planes. In this realm, energy-identities acquire soul bodies on their way to the material worlds of dualism, in order to gain experience. This is the anti-matter region of the universe, where elemental forces such as gravity do not function as they do in the material worlds.

Within morphogenetic fields, we have the magnetic induction of opposite spinning charges. Therefore, when the moment of being changes at the speed of light, the resulting power surge causes a synthesis of particum and partika (Sound and Light), which creates its own electromagnetic pulse, thus producing magnetism. This is an electrical attraction which occurs with the magnetic induction of opposite spinning charges naturally inherent within morphogenetic fields. For this reason, gravity is specific to planetary spheres, where magnetic induction is occurring. Therefore, it is accurate to say that gravity is synonymous with electric energy. It is also cyclic in nature, since it occurs with each E.M. pulse as each moment of being changes at the speed of light. This also means, then, that gravity occurs at the speed of light.

⊗ - Daku is the Primary Rune of gravity, because he produces the power surge we call the Power of Light, which causes a synthesis of Sound and Light which results in the E.M. Pulse responsible for the production of magnetism. < - Kánkennu is the impetus for energy's origin, setting cycles into play, and providing Daku with his impetus. † - Urur organizes these cycles, providing the cyclic power of Transformation which results from the synchronization of the power surge and the E.M. pulse. This is a transformation of magnetic induction, the flux of time, Sound, and Light in gravity. Ánsur, of course, plays his role, as noted above.

The controlled energetic impetus behind the cycles of creation is Kánkennu - <. Although Feyhju is the power behind all movement, Kánkennu provides constant transformation and regeneration, as the 7th Runic Light, which is green.

The cycles of creation involve the expansion and contraction cycles of the sun, as Light and Sound quanta are sent forth to effectuate the perpetual cycle of creation, evolution, degeneration, and rebirth. Kánkennu embodies controlled energy, and therefore, provides a controlled energetic impetus, as an extension of the "All." He controls the sun in our solar system as a microcosm, as well as the larger microcosm of the Galaxies. The macrocosm, of course, is the "All," itself.

The transformative and regenerative aspects of Kánkennu provide an impetus which maintains the cyclic processes that are initiated by Jara in the universe. Specifically, all cyclic processes depend on gravitational fields, density of celestial bodies, and the efficiency of E.M. fields—all of which require transformation and regeneration.

Perfect unity involves an identifiable whole, united, with all the required elements, qualities and characteristics for promoting the purposes of those sharing identity, consciousness, and uniqueness. This is what the universal force of Vunjo - ♪ is all about. She is the mother of “Unified Consciousness,” constituting a oneness of perception; or awareness of something shared by a group.

The “oneness of all creation” means that we are all one in the “All.” It also refers to the fact that we are all interconnected by the Sound Matrix, with Light manifesting space between objects. On the other hand, we all have personal identity in accordance with our particular vibratory harmony to the Sound current.

Personal identity establishes personal characteristics, which manifest in a given nature, and finally result in the experiences that accompany the actions that are natural to the individual. Those with similar vibratory harmonies to the Sound Current, naturally share characteristics and perceptions in common. They constitute, then, specific groups.

Vunjo is the mother of diversity in the universe, and although we constitute a unified whole in one respect, she maintains the diversity we see in the world. Birds, for instance, constitute a group, but consist of various groups, or species which do not attempt to mate, nor do they even share the same trees. This is what the natural creative force of Vunjo is all about. She establishes unity, forming the “whole;” while its oneness is unique in identity and consciousness, to a specified group.

There exists a vaporous light between all elements, manifested bodies, and even between earth, air, fire and water, where energetic exchanges occur. Opposite but equal reactions set up the process of evolutionary change, but Gebor - X serves as the balance point between all things in creation, assuring that creation is an ongoing process.

As the 9th Runic Light which is yellow, Gebor exists in the Sphere of Creative Awareness, while governing the Sphere of the Unified Whole. Allowing various groups (life forms in general, species, and even gestalts) their autonomous natures as guaranteed by Vunjo, Gebor maintains the Unified Whole as established by the sphere of that appellation.

In the “All,” or in the önd (Sound-Light Matrix), all things are one, as we know. Only a vaporous light marks the dividing line between things, which are actually manifestations of various vibratory harmonics to the Sound Current. This vaporous Light is where energetic exchanges occur, whether between objects, or between water, air and fire—fire, earth and air.

The most important energetic exchanges occurring, are: 1) desire and abhorrence; 2) attachment and indifference; 3) cheerfulness and despondence; 4) happiness and sorrow; 5) forbearance and anger; 6) bravery and fear; 7) trust and jealousy; 8) love and hate; 9) selflessness and selfishness.

Vapor Light is light quanta vibrating at a higher frequency than that of the elements it separates. It is “auric” in nature, but less sophisticated than the auras of humans and animals.

Everything in existence is conscious, regardless of how rudimentary the consciousness may be. All consciousness possesses the Vapor Light. At the elemental level, exchanges through the vapor light occur in the way of nature’s processes, which I have expressed in terms of: “Water, Air and Fire—Fire, Earth and Air.

1. Water exchanges with air. (Water contains oxygen, and air absorbs water – evaporation)
2. Air exchanges with fire. (Air feeds fire, and fire expands air)
3. Fire exchanges with earth. (Earth feeds fire, and fire renews earth)
4. Earth exchanges with air. (Earth consumes air, and air has its creation in earth)

Gebor, then, maintains balance throughout the cosmos, and thereby assures the energetic exchanges responsible for the ongoing creation through the process of evolutionary change. Let us not confuse this process with the present-day concept of evolution, which claims that we descended from apes. That which I have presented here, is in the realm of cosmology, and has nothing to do with the convoluted notions of those with dishonorable designs against those of us, who have a desire to “know.”

The ongoing creation with all its evolutionary processes culminates in “Spiritual Intelligence.” My use of the term “culminate,” should not be construed to mean that the ongoing creation stops. Culmination is an individualistic phenomenon, which simply places the individual within a higher classification of continual creation. The universal force responsible for this aspect of creation is known to us as Manar - .

Spiritual intelligence involves much more than an understanding of laws governing moral behavior, esoteric precepts, or even knowledge of how scientific and spiritual principles are related. It involves a conceptual awareness of the transcendental concepts associated with quantific processes that are involved in the cosmology of the universe, and the Cosmological Codes. Such awareness is required for functioning in the service of the “All,” as a “Silent One.” To become a Silent One is a very high aspiration for some of those who escape from hell.

Toward this end, Manar makes available to those who are dedicated, the rationality and alignment of the personal psyche/soul structure with the Hamingja, and balance between the human and divine aspects of our being. This aspect of creation brings about the eventual completeness of everything established by the “All.”

To understand creation in terms of elemental structures, and the developmental/evolutionary processes which govern them, it is important to realize that: 1) There are 144,000 stages of existence; 2) There are nine divisions of each stage; and 3) For each of these nine divisions, there are eight phases of transitional harmonic frequency which produce the impetus for evolution within each and every dimension of the universe. Actually there is one phase per division for the first eight. The ninth division is one of transformation, wherein elemental structures undergo all eight phases again. The aspects of the impetus produced, may be described thusly:

Phase—1: Frequency signature acquisition. We each possess our own unique signature, which changes throughout our evolutionary transitions.

Phase—2: Pitch adjustment of the morphogenetic seed crystals. This is a slight alteration resulting from the activity in Phase—1. The seed crystals provide attunement between the morphogenetic/auric field, and the Sound Current.

Phase—3: Speed-up in the vibratory frequency of the Morphogenetic chakras/hvels. This provides the frequency requirements for ascension from one elemental state of existence, to another.

Phase—4: Speed-up in the vibratory frequency of the soul essence/Hamingja.

Phase—5: Speed-up in the vibratory frequency of the mental body.

Phase—6: Speed-up in the frequency of the causal body.

Phase—7: speed-up in the frequency of the astral body.

Phase—8: Structural development of the DNA Template/Lower Etheric Energy Matrix (Hamr).

As I noted earlier, Runic Cosmology follows the Code as the actualization of creation, structure, and evolution; then the process (as intended) establishes the elements of existence.

Unknown to modern-day scientists, is the fact that there exists 540 elements, which in various combinations, as we know, produce molecular structures of gases, liquids and solids. Ultimately, we experience the elements in terms of earth, air, fire and water.

Obviously, these four divisions do not depend on specific elements for their existence. In other words, we are not going to find certain elements, such as hydrogen or chromium in one of the divisions, and never find it in one of the others. Earth, air, fire and water simply describe the form that elements may take. Those in the form of large molecular structures are said to constitute the earth element. Those in the form of smaller molecular structures (also known as colloids), are said to constitute the water element when dispersed in water. Hydrogen and oxygen combined, however, form the water element themselves—but only when a catalyst, such as a high voltage spark, or palladium is introduced. Those elements that form gases, are of the air element; but what about fire?

Fire is a rapid chemical chain reaction. Essentially, we are talking about oxidation, where an element's atoms lose electrons in reaction to being combined with oxygen. Therefore, while earth, air, and water constitute relatively stable forms that elements may take, fire is not stable in the least bit. It constitutes an elemental form that is in constant flux; it is a transitional form by which action, the earth forms are converted into the air forms.

It is common to find systems where in each of the four elemental designations is embodied by a particular Rune. As I have discussed elsewhere, however, the Runes cannot be compartmentalized in such a strict manner. Each one, in fact, embodies all the elements, and will express one over the others, depending on its mode of operation at the time. Furthermore, the elements work together harmoniously at the cosmological level, as can be seen in runic activity.

Scientists have discovered some of these interesting facts, such as water requiring fire in its creation. We can take a sphere and place within it, two parts hydrogen with one part oxygen ( $H_2O$ ), and we will not produce water without a catalyst. The earth element of palladium will work, or the fire element of a high voltage spark will do the same thing. Amino acids which are building blocks of biological forms, can be created in a sphere by combining the requisite gases (air element), and introducing a high voltage spark.

It would be ludicrous to consider scientists in the light of “creators,” even if they did end up creating biological forms. As we have seen, they can only rely on the established creative processes which already exist for their use. Creation, after all, encompasses all the quantific processes responsible for electro-tonal identities, evolutionary processes of a cosmological, as well as a biological nature, and all the forces of adhesion, cohesion and balance, which allow for the eventual manifestation of elemental biological forms.

It is equally ludicrous, then, to say that a very powerful humanoid called god said a few words, and created the world in five days, then drew in the dirt, and manifested human beings by blowing into it.

As the force behind all power in the universe—even that of Sound and Light—the Higher Will serves as the ultimate force of ordered existence. Embodying this force which our Norse ancestors called “Megin,” is Solí - ; the Runic representative of the “All.”

A number of educators have confused this power with the önd, using the two terms interchangeably. Önd is Feyhju’s power of Sound and Light, which is a creative force. It is the Partiki which serves as material for the patterns of all universes, and the manifestations which comprise them; but Solí, with his “Megin,” establishes the patterns of all the universes.

Megin is the power behind Light and Sound; it is the power of the Higher Will, to which all other powers in the universe(s) are subordinate. Naturally, then, Solí is the 1st Runic Light, which is Gold.

The Higher will is the structure of universal law, and the force behind all power in the universe. This is the ultimate force of ordered existence we are talking about; and this is Soil's cosmological purpose as the axis in the Runic Correlation chart which depicts the Cosmological Code, then. Solí is the embodiment of the Higher Will, as a direct extension of the "All." He is the "Force of Megin," which is the responsible force behind the structural patterns resulting from the activities of the other Runic Forces in the Cosmological Code.

The structural patterns which are powered by Soil's force include the Sound current, the Runic Forces, personal identity and gender for electro-tonal energy-identities, the Cosmological Code, the planes of variable vibratory frequencies, and the elemental patterns of atomic, molecular, and biological manifestations.

As we know, each individual has personal identity as a result of his or her particular vibrational harmony to the Sound current, and the potential for individual harmonics is limitless. We are categorized in all ways, by tonal frequency. The Runic Forces possess specific characteristics that relate to what we call gender, and they also embody specific tonal frequencies, unlimited by our concept of octaves.

As the patterning force of the "All," Solí has everything to do with personal identity and gender. His patterning force provides the vibratory harmonic upon which, each and every individual receives gender through a specific Runic Force, while at the same time, receiving personal identity. In this way, although the “Sound Essence or Hamingja is of the spiritual planes beyond the realms of dualism, it nevertheless takes on either male or female characteristics upon its transition into the material worlds of dualism.

For this reason, a conscious entity will develop from one species to the next, then from one ascension or incarnation to the next as either male or female. Sometimes one’s past actions and/or attitudes necessitate a life experience in the opposite gender. Such a situation is often the root, or karmic cause of homosexuality. Therefore, when someone feels that he or she is trapped in the wrong body, it is probably true. As I stated in chapter eight, we often have to deal with karma that is not ours, so the individual may not even be at fault.

As regards the creation of biological forms, there exists information which describes how quanta manifest DNA and cellular structures. I will dispense with the details, because they are embroiled in physics-related terms such as 1) Universal Unified Field; 2) Dimensional Unified Field; 3) Universal Merkaba Field; 4) Outer Auric Levels; 5) Morphogenetic Chakras; and 6) Morphogenetic Seed Crystals.

We’ll suffice it to say here, that from the bodies we inhabit, to the planetary spheres in all dimensions, to solar systems, galaxies, and even the universe itself, electromagnetic (E.M.) fields serve as more examples of Soil’s structural patterns. Specifically, we are talking about how the tonal pattern of incoming energy (electro-tonal identity) enters the Seed Crystal, and manifests itself in the DNA blueprint.

The process is eventually described in terms of how the energy-identity enters the “auric capsules” of the body, and is then drawn through the lower chakras (hvels) and into the energy meridians linked to the body’s nervous system. From the nervous system, this energy passes into the endocrine system, the blood, and the cellular structure, to manifest form. Biological form is created and sustained through this continual process of energy flow from the multi-dimensional, Unified Field. Therefore, as more highly evolved entities, we inhabit bodies made up of other entities, or intelligences inhabiting the cells of the body.

The quantum physics are certainly real, but they offer very little in the way of understanding who we are, and what makes us what we are; therefore, it is of great significance to understand the structure of the various dimensions that we call planes. Herein lays the source of the “subtle bodies” making up the Auric Field (known in Old Norse, as the Hugr). These subtle bodies make up the mind, the subconscious/ unconscious, and the storehouse of our lower emotional passions. This is what is generally left out of discussions such as the one above, regarding incoming energy-identities.

The DNA blueprint mentioned above exists as a shroud around the physical body. Psychics, who claim to be able to view this, call it the “Etheric Body,” and state that it is the innermost layer of several, constituting the “aura.” This is actually a Sound Matrix serving as a DNA template, from which the physical body is patterned, with DNA also manifesting in the cellular structure. The Old Norse term for this is ‘Hamr.’

At a more subtle vibratory frequency than the Hamr, is the Astral Body which exists as a shroud for the Hamr. This is where our emotional passions are stored as psychic energy.

At still a more subtle level, the Causal Body enshrouds the astral. This constitutes the subconscious mind, which is a storehouse for all our past thoughts, emotional reactions to environmental stimuli, and the energetic structures from deeds performed. These things constitute what our Norse ancestors called “wyrð,” which is the substance that manifests as Ørlög, or Karma.

At an even more subtle level is the Mental Body, enshrouding the causal. This is the actual conscious mind itself. This is where mental impressions and habits are stored. That which we are, manifests through the Hugn, then. Beyond this, we have present-life experiences that form who we are, with everything else providing an underlying ego structure which determines how we perceive and react to environmental stimuli.

Enshrouding the Mental Body is an Upper Etheric Sound Matrix responsible for the manifestation of the Mental, Causal and Astral Bodies. These subtle bodies of the Hugn are part of their respective planes, or dimensions. Many planes subdivide these general designations, so allow me to provide a brief description at this time. In some circles, each general plane is referred to as a Harmonic Universe (noted as: HU). Within each “HU,” there are three dimensional realms; and each of these contains its own Astral Plane. Thus, each major plane (HU) consists of six sub-planes. There are three dimensional realms, and three astral planes making up each one. The numbers and letters in parentheses indicate the astral realm associated with the dimensional realm:

HU-5	D-13 (13-A)	D-14 (14-A)	D15 (15-A)	Soul Plane
HU-4	D-10 (10-A)	D-11 (11-A)	D-12 (12-A)	Mental Plane
HU-3	D-7 (7-A)	D-8 (8-A)	D-9 (9-A)	Causal Plane
HU-2	D-4 (4-A)	D-5 (5-A)	D-6 (6-A)	Astral Plane
HU-1	D-1 (1-A)	D-2 (2-A)	D-3 (3-A)	Physical Plane

The Hugn (auric field) consists of the Astral, Causal and Mental sheaths, or bodies associated with their respective planes of origin. Each body consists of six vibratory sheaths. Examining the Causal Body, for instance, we find that there is a sheath of D-7 vibrational frequency, one of D-8, and another of D-9. Each of these has its own astral counterpart at a more subtle level. Now let's examine what happens when our electro-tonal energy-identity makes its way through the various planes, to the physical.

HU-5 is called the Soul Plane or Spiritual Plane, because it is above (in vibratory frequency) the material worlds of dualism. The incoming energy-identity requires a Soul Body in this realm, and may now be referred to as the Soul Essence, or Hamingja. This is the Higher Self. The three elements making up the Soul Body are as follows:

1. 15th dimensional Mind Essence
  2. 14th dimensional Subconscious
  3. 13th dimensional Light-Sound harmonic integument
- } The Spiritual Mind

HU-4 is called the Mental plane, because this is where the three elements of our Mental Body were obtained. They consist of the following:

1. 12th dimensional faculty of intellect, with the Powers of will and discrimination
  2. 11th dimensional faculties of perception and action
  3. 10th dimensional faculty of sense perception
-
- Buddhi
- Manas

HU-3 is called the Causal Plane, because this is where the three elements of our Causal Body (subconscious) were obtained. They consist of the following:

1. 9th dimensional storage of action and reaction.
  2. 8th dimensional faculty of emotional gestation.
  3. 7th dimension faculty of ego identity.
-
-
- Chitta
- Ahankara

HU-2 is called the Astral Plane, because this is where the three elements of our Astral Body were obtained. They consist of the following;

1. 6th dimensional psychic consciousness
2. 5th dimensional Light
3. 4th dimensional passion and ego awareness

HU-1 is called the Physical Plane, because the Physical Body is of such a low frequency, as to make comprehension of higher vibratory frequencies most difficult. Here, our consciousness, ego awareness and mental faculties are enmeshed in the things of the Physical Body (sense perceptions), which is and are of the 3rd dimension.

1. 3rd dimensional Physical Body (including the brain)
2. 2nd dimensional dense awareness (we don't have this)

3. 1st dimensional solid awareness (we don't have this)

For those who relate to the fourfold model of the mind as understood in Yoga psychology, allow me to relate it to the more detailed explanation above.

Together, the four aspects of mind constitute Antahkarana, the inner instrument, which is made up of “manas,” the lower mind (D-10 & D-11); “buddhi,” the intellect or faculty of discrimination (D-12); “ahankara,” the ego (D-7); and “chita,” the mind stuff (D-8 & D-9). This all takes in HU-3, and HU-4, constituting the ego-self.

Without going into detail regarding the exact nature of the various types of matter throughout the dimensional realms, I'll provide a basic description: D-1 is solid matter, D-2 is dense, and D-3 is rigid. All these are atomic in their elemental nature. D-4 is dark matter, D-5 is misty, and D-6 is Light matter. All these are electric in their elemental nature. D-7 is woeful/matter, D-8 is easy, and D-9 is cheerful. All these are neutral in their elemental nature. D-10 is irrational, D-11 is rational, and D-12 is intellectual. All these are magnetic in their elemental nature. D-13 is intemperate, D-14 is temperate, and D-15 is remote. The first two are positronic, and the third is neutrionic in their elemental nature.

As we look around, perceiving the wonders of creation, we can't help but know that there is a God. It is equally clear, however, that this creation could not possibly be the work of a humanoid god with man's propensity for jealousy and anger - the failings of the human intellect. The “All” is in everything and beyond everything.

The Runes are a gestalt entity, functioning throughout all the universes, as an extension of the “All”. The “All” is like a large sun, with five universes revolving around it, the same way the planets in our solar system revolve around our sun. This is going on at three different vibratory levels, meaning that there are fifteen universes. Hail the “All”!

EPILOGUE

I don't recommend that anyone jump up and quit his or her religion, because I am fully aware of the implications involving family and social ties. There is no need to create riffs where none are needed, but at the same time, we must bear in mind, certain facts. Just place these facts on a shelf in your mind, and don't worry about whether or not they are true.

Contemplate them on occasion, analyze the situations you encounter in life relative to them, and even engage in your own research. When the time is right, you will know whether or not you can accept some of these things as your truth.

Some people will know right away, that what I have written constitutes their truth, while the majority will never question that which they have already been taught. They have never inquired as to who writes the history, who writes the prevailing theology, or who decides what is or is not politically correct. They haven't a clue about who authorizes the publication of that which they are taught in the educational stems, because they have been taught what to think, rather than how to think. It's much easier to go with the flow and accept what the majority accepts, than it is to question political, educational, or religious authority.

Although this was Lucifer's world in ancient times, the same as it is now, it was not until the advent of Judaism and its offshoots, Islam and Christianity that humanity began to suffer constant sorrow through oppression, war and slaughter. Forget about what you've been taught in school, or seen in movies, because the early Church being successful in its "inquisition", wrote the history its way, and painted a picture of its enemies (particularly the Scandinavians) as being barbaric pagans who expressed their nature by raping, burning, pillaging and plundering the “meek” and “passive” Christians.

The untold story, however, has the inquisitors of the Christian faith raping, burning, pillaging and plundering the farmers and merchants of not only Norway, Sweden and Denmark, but wherever they went, in behalf of the god of this world, and doing it in the name of Jesus.

“Viking” is an Old Norse term for a “raid”. After about seven hundred years of having their culture and its spiritual tradition decimated at the point of a Christian sword, these farmers and merchants went a Viking in defense of their homelands; but it was already too late. Lucifer and his religious heroes with occult powers backing them won the day. It is his world after all, and look at what a prize we have now.

Every time I hear someone Praying: “Thy will be done”, I cringe at the thought of what that might bring. When I hear Christians in the patriot movement speak of giving this nation (America) back to god, I realize that the struggle for freedom is already lost.

Life has taught me over the years, that those who claim to be led either by god, Jesus or the Spirit, tend to use what they call god’s will, to engage in all forms of treachery and deceit. Being led in such a way, all too often serves as a mask for their indulgence of the lower emotional passions, and an opportunity to fleece those they consider to be their sheep.

It’s my hope that I have been successful in explaining that which I had to present adequately enough, that most of your questions have been answered somewhere in this book. I realize that such an expectation is unreasonable, however, so we have a place on the website for questions and answers, where further questions have been anticipated. In addition, we will make both monthly discourses and workshops available to those who contact the Mani-Om-Sah Institute at maniomsah.com.

Thank you for checking out our website.

Sincerely,

Jon Stauffer

GLOSSARY

Æsir – Mythologically, these were the race of gods and goddesses associated with Odin, in the realm of Asgard. Historically, they were a tribe of ancient Europeans possessing either red or blond hair.

Akasha – Known throughout both India and the New Age Movement as a library of records for all karmic responsibility, both personal and group.

Alchemical – A reference to the energetic process of inner transformation which takes place as spiritual purification occurs.

“All” – The original source of all creation.

Andromies – An extraterrestrial race associated with Dominion that possesses an insectoid-beetle type genetic structure.

Anunnaki – An extraterrestrial race associated with Dominion that possesses a reptilian type genetic structure.

Astral – A type of spirit world for disembodied spirits awaiting rebirth.

Astral Center – Centers in the third dimensional astral realm, where individuals are taken by agents of Dominion, for the purpose of receiving allotted karma, and prepared for their next life.

Auric Capsule – See auric field

Auric Field – The aura, which is made up of the Etheric Body (DNA Template), the Astral Body (Sparkling or Emotional Body), The Casual Body (Subconscious Mind), the Mental Body (Pure Mind Essence), and the Upper Etheric Energy Matrix.

Bardo – An after-death state experienced by many, in which they float through the worlds of their unconscious.

Bhagavad-Gita – A book of Hindu scripture.

Bi Polar – A mental disorder with alternating periods of elation and depression.

Causal Body – That portion of the Auric Field which serves as the subconscious mind.

Detachment – Not to be confused with indifference, detachment is a state of consciousness which allows the individual to experience life without the rollercoaster ride associated with emotional extremes.

DNA Template – The “Etheric Double” which consists of a Sound Matrix, and serves as a template for the manifestation of the physical form and its DNA.

Dominion – The god of this world, also known as Lucifer.

Dracos – An extraterrestrial race, possessing the Dragon-Moth type genetic structure. This is an albino race, also known as the Draconians.

Ego-Self – The physical consciousness which is separate from the Higher Self, that says “I did such and such yesterday, I’m doing this now, and I have such and such plans for tomorrow”.

Einherjar – Literally, “Odin’s Chosen”. Mythologically, these were the battle-slain, who were escorted to Valhalla. Today, they are available to assist those of us who can call upon them.

Elder Futhark – The oldest known runic system of Northern Europe.

Esoteric – Spiritual knowledge that has traditionally been reserved for those who become ready, and who are entering the priesthood.

Evolution – A process of upward development, not to be confused with notions of humanity having evolved from apes.

Exoteric – Religious teachings given to the masses that are designed to promote good behavior.

Goyim – A Jewish term for all non-Jews, meaning “animals” or “cattle”.

Great Abyss – The demarcation between the Spiritual Planes of the 13th, 14th, and 15th dimensional realms, and the material worlds of dualism.

Hamingja – The Old Norse term for the Higher Self.

Hamr – The Old Norse term for the DNATemplate.

Harmonic Universe – A sub-universe, consisting of three dimensional realms and their astral planes.

Higher Self – The higher aspect of the self, which is indigenous to the spiritual planes above the Great Abyss, and which is capable of guiding and directing us. This has been known variously, as the Soul, Spirit, the Holy Spirit, and the God within.

Higher Will – Consists of Natural Law, the activities of the Silent Ones, and the “All”.

Hugr – The Old Norse term for the Auric Field.

Inner Sanctum – A place established within the Astral Body, where we can access our inner wisdom, peace, and the Higher Self.

Karma – The result of a past deed, or an emotional reaction to environmental stimuli. This can also be seen as the result of the law of compensation.

Macrocosm – The whole of a complex structure.

Maya – Illusion.

Mental Body – That portion of the Auric Field which serves as the mind, where memory is stored (beyond the brain), and where mental habits are also stored.

Merkaba Field – This is an energy field which encompasses the Auric Field. It is constructed of two equally sized, interlocked tetrahedral of light, with one right side up, and the other upside down. This construction forms what is called a Star Tetrahedron. It is also known as the Divine Light Vehicle.

Microcosm – A miniature representation.

Multiple Integrals – As related to the time loop, these consist of the tonal frequencies necessary for the formation of the entire loop.

Narcissist – One who possesses excessive interest in him or her self.

Nefilim – An extraterrestrial race associated with Dominion, which is similar in appearance to the Northern Europeans.

Norse – Relating to the ancient Northern Europeans of Scandinavia.

Odin – The mythological god of European heritage. Also, An extension of the “All”, manifested from Sound Quanta, and possessing actual existence.

Old Norse – A reference to the ancient language of the Vikings.

Omin – The “Light” counterpart to Odin who, when they took physical embodiment, became known as Frigga to the Norsemen.

Önd – Universal, creative energy which is electromagnetic in nature, consisting of Light and Sound at the quantum level.

Ørlög – The Old Norse term for Karma.

Pagan – Literally, “Country Folk”. Angry Christians turned this into a derogatory term because they couldn’t adequately monitor the Pagans who continued to practice their Folk Heritage.

Particum – A term for Sound Quanta.

Partika – A term for Light Quanta.

Partiki – A term for Light and Sound combined.

Perceptual Awareness – See my explanation on page 90, to understand that this is not a redundant phrase.

Prieure de Sion – Also, “Priory of Sion”. Descendants of the Merovingian line of kings, who form the seat of the Illuminati, or Zionism.

Psychic – Of, or related to the Astral plane, or the Astral Body.

Psychic Time Loop – A personalized time loop attached to the Astral Body.

Quanta – The plural form of quantum.

Quantum – A discrete quantity of radiant energy.

Reincarnation – The cyclic process of life, growth, death, and renewal/rebirth.

Remote Viewing – A term used by government agents for the process of viewing places and occurrences without the use of standard technologies; Like astral projection.

Runes – Stave forms which represent universal forces.

Runic Forces – The actual universal forces themselves.

Samskaras – Units of energy stored in the unconscious, or the Akasha, which serve as the seeds of karma.

Silent Ones – Ascended beings that have advanced to the point of being able to govern the universes as emissaries of the “All”.

Spiritual Realms – The 5th Harmonic Universe, above the Great Abyss.

Vapor Light – This marks the dividing line between things. This is where energetic exchanges occur, whether between objects, or between water, air and fire – fire, earth and air. This is the balance point between all things in creation.

Vitkar – The plural form of Vitki. These were the Spiritual Adepts of Northern Europe, who carried the esoteric precepts for our Northern European ancestors.

Wyrd – The ancient European term for samskaras, or the seeds of karma.

Zeta Grays – An extraterrestrial race associated with Dominion, which is characterized by gray skin, a lack of hair, and oval faces and eyes. These are not to be trusted under any circumstances.

